OREIGN STEAMER LINES' FIGHT ON DRY RULE BEGINS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

YORK, Oct. 11.—Officials of the Cunard and ...ship companies late today instituted proceed... the United States District Coust here to restrain gov... officials from seizing either their ships or the liquor aboard on the high seas.

The application for the injunction, after it had been opposed by Asst. U. S. Attorney Clarke, was refused by Judge Hand, who, however, ordered the Federal authorities to show cause why the order should not be granted. Argument will be heard on the 18th inst.

WASHINGTON CONFERENCE

The "dry ship" fight was taken into the local Federal court immediately preceding the departure of the companies' attorneys for Washington where they are to confer with Atty.-Gen. Daugherty on the issues of his recent ruling.

The Anchor Line is a subsidiary of the Cunard Company. Ships of both concerns are under British registry.

The attitude of the American Steamship Owners' Association, however, as expressed in an official statement today after a meeting of directors, is that it will peacefully abide by the Daugherty ruling, if the prohibitionists will, as a reward, lend their support to the ship subsidy bill now before Congress.

After enumerating the disadvantages which private American vessels, running dry, will suffer in competition with foreign ships, the association said:

"There is but one way in which this disadvantage can be met, and that is by national aid along the lines now provided for in the national shipping bill.

"The association believes that the friends of prohibition appreciate the situation and will be among the strongest advocates of giving to American ships every assistance that is necessary to maintain and upbuild the merchant marine."

AGAINST CONCERTED ACTION

The association's stand was against any concerted effort to retain liquor on passenger ships by recourse to legal action, saying it felt "the situation is one which should be left to the individual companies."

"In the judgment of the association, however, it is a foregone conclusion that if the interpretation of the Attorney-General is ultimately sustained, American

Memories of Farrar to be Sold

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—"Memories for sale" might well be tacked above the doors of four big chambers at the Fifth-avenue auction rooms which were thrown open today for public inspection of the effects of Geraldine Farrar, scheduled to be sold at public auction next Friday and Saturday.

For into those chambers America's most famous diva had crowded all the physical mementos of her long and brilliant career on the Metropolitan stage and all that could remind her of her equally famous, but more brief and less successful, career as the wife of Lou Tellegen.

COSTUMES, WIGS, SHAWLS

Gorgeous costumes, wigs, shawls and jewels that she wore in her most famous roles are there in profusion. So are the rich furnishings of the home she occupied with her famous actor husband—furniture, tapestries, rugs, even the rubber door mat with its inlaid "F."

Farrar, through with opera as she is with romance, plans to hit the trail soon in a private car for a concert tour of the United States. After that she is expected to appear under the management of David Belasco on the speaking stage.

The exhibition, opened today, drew throngs of Farrar devotees—from first nighters who were present a decade and a half ago when she made her Metropolitan debut—down to the youngest Gerry flappers who have watched with breathless awe Gerry's career as a prima donna and a screen star, as a bride and a near divorcee. And what they saw established forever Farrar's reputation for lavishness. There are 876 items in all—and every single one fraught with memories of stage or shattered romance.

FAMOUS COSTUMES

About twenty of the diva's most famous costumes are draped on headless dummies in one of the exhibition chambers. Among those are the red-spangled froufrou creation that dazzled first nighters at Zaza; the cloth of silver gown with American flags draped from the shoulder in which Farrar sang during the Liberty Loan campaigns and the court dress of silver cloth, with Queen's cape of blue velvet and ermine (reputed to cost $11,000) which she wore but three times in the ill-fated La Reine Fiamette.

CARMEN WARDROBE

Scores of other famous costumes hang about the walls in serried ranks, like ordinary garments in a clothes closet. Her Carmen wardrobe alone would be sufficient to equip half a dozen Carmen road companies. There are six "basic" costumes, fourteen shawls, six black wigs, five mantillas, a dozen Spanish fans and enough beads, earrings, bracelets, castanets, girdles, hair combs and jet trinkets to outfit a cigarette factory full of Carmens.

Farrar's wigs alone fill several showcases, for she invariably covered her own black tresses with a wig, even in operas where her role called for cut hair. There are wigs for Fiamette and Zaza; blonde wigs for Marguerite and Thais; light brown wigs for Manon; dark brown wigs for Mignon; black wigs for Butterfly and Carmen.

SCENES FROM THAIS

All are of human hair except two worn in the early scenes of Thais. These are of gold thread, for it was the custom among women of Thais's time and profession to gild their hair.

Among the brightest spots of the exhibit are the kimonos worn in Butterfly. There are ten of these—each vying with all the others for the ultimate in gorgeousness.

There are two notable souvenirs of the Metropolitan missing from the exhibit, however. One is the red velvet robe worn in Tosca. Farrar presented this, when she said farewell, to an assistant stage manager, who long had admired

LATE NEWS

Tremor Recorded

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Oct. 11.—An earth tremor described as of moderate intensity and continuing from 8:59 to 9:41 o'clock this morning was recorded by the St. Louis University seismograph. It was estimated that the disturbance centered about 3500 miles southeast.

Inefficient Burglars

Hollywood burglars only hit 11.1 per cent success last night. Out of nine reported burglary attempts which came to the Hollywood police station between 7 and 10 o'clock, only one loss of consequence was reported. That was when burglars entered the home of M. Kann, 1566 Gordon street, and made off with an imitation pearl necklace worth $6, a real pearl necklace worth $300, some small change and two men's suits worth $100.

Suicide Attempt Fails

Mrs. Louise Schulze, aged 27 years, won't die because her husband threatened to leave her. Doctors at the Hollywood Community Hospital saw to that late last night, when they pumped five bichloride of mercury tablets and a quantity of gin out of her. It appears that Mrs. Schulze and her husband, Richard, aged 26 years, who live at 1718 North Vine street, argued last night. Finally, Schulze announced he was going to leave. The woman swallowed five of the poison tablets to show what she thought of the idea. Detective Sergeants Kanto, Kearin and Hutchins answered the call that followed. Mrs. Schulze was saved at the hospital, and her husband was arrested for being drunk.

Robs Limited Passengers

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Sixty-eight Chicago-bound passengers in sleeping cars were robbed of their jewels and money by a negro bandit who boarded the Santa Fe California Limited train out of Kansas City, Mo., late last night, according to official railroad reports received here early today. The train is due in Chicago at 10 a.m. today. The bandit, his face covered by a handkerchief mask, boarded one of the sleeping cars as the train pulled out of the Kansas City station, the report said. He went through two cars, ordered passengers out of their berths and seats, robbing all of them. Rings and necklaces were torn from women. The negro swung off the train ten blocks from the station and disappeared in the darkness of the railroad yards before any of the train crew except two frightened porters were aware of the hold-up.

AGED MAN KILLS SELF

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Chauncey Moore, aged 84, was unable to accustom himself to moving whenever the landlord raised his rent, so he committed suicide yesterday as his son, with whom he lived, prepared to move to another locality, according to testimony at the Coroner's inquest today.

Mrs. De Bouchel to Return to New Orleans; Says There Will be No Reconciliation With Candler

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ATLANTA (Ga.) Oct. 11.—Mrs. Onezima DeBouchel announced tonight that she would return to her home at New Orleans tomorrow and continue the fight to obtain the names of the persons she said Asa G. Candler, Sr., Atlanta capitalist, told her brought him reports reflecting on her and which caused him to break his engagement to marry her.

Mrs. DeBouchel has "done all she could here," said a formal statement issued tonight by her attorney, Harry M. Gamble, of New Orleans, who stated that he would accompany his client back to New Orleans on an evening train tomorrow. "She has stated her cause, and we feel most grateful for the splendid response of the womanhood and manhood of Georgia," the statement read.

PRESS IS PRAISED

"The press has been four-square to this stranger within their gates," the statement continued. "The old Anglo-Saxton spirit of aggressive sympathy for the underdog has never been more vigorously displayed.

"The case is now in the hands of Mrs. DeBouchel's legal advisers. Vindication she will have. It is now for them to find the most effective way to accomplish it."

When informed today of the statement of Wilbur LeGette in Los Angeles, Mrs. DeBouchel said that she did not "recall the name right away," but remembered that during the Confederate reunion here in 1919 there was a man attentive to one of the members of the chaperon staff from Virginia. "I am very grateful for the gentleman's statement," she declared, adding: "I am fighting the battle alone and need all the support I can obtain."

Gamble discounted the statement made by LeGette relative to the case. "It may be added," his statement asserted, "that the dispatch from Los Angeles saying that a man there asserts that he is the traveling salesman claimed by the Candlers to be defaming Mrs.

Britain to Make Payment on Her American Debt

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—"The British government," it was semiofficially stated today, "is taking steps to pay $50,000,000 into the New York Federal Reserve Bank on the 16th inst., on account of this year's interest on Great Britain's debt to the United States."

This $50,000,000, as the statement explains, represents payment on account of the interest. The exact amount due will not be settled until the conference in Washington, to be headed by Sir Robert Horne, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and the United States government officials.

RAINS AID WHEAT AND CORN CROPS

Drought "Effectually Broken," Says Weather Bureau

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Although the drought which had prevailed for some weeks was "effectually broken" by the recent rains, the Weather Bureau, in a review of crop conditions, reported tonight that insufficient rain has fallen to improve the general situation more than temporarily. The rainfall was beneficial in all sections, but moisture was said to be needed generally to make conditions better permanently.

In the central and eastern sections of the winter wheat belt, the rains were beneficial, the review reported, adding that satisfactory progress in seeding had been made in Missouri and Kansas. In the same territory wheat was up to a good stand, but farther west conditions were not so favorable.

The week's rainfall was sufficient, east of the Mississippi Valley, for the germination of crops and late pastures are good in most portions of that territory.

Corn harvesting made rapid progress almost everywhere, according to the review, which said that the previous dry weather had hastened the process of maturing. The crop was "practically safe" from frost in Illinois, while less than 5 per cent was subject to frost in Iowa. The harvesting of white potatoes in the North and West made rapid progress because of the small amount of rain.

While most northern and middle States reported markedly high temperatures for the week, the bureau said that the cool conditions in the South had been strongly favorable to the ripening of sugar cane and for the increase of its sugar content.

CASE GOES TO JURY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. — The case of Maj. Redondo Sutton, a graduate of West Point, charged with issuing a false statement in a prospectus of the Pacific Minerals and Chemical Company, of which he was president, went to the jury this afternoon.

Greeks Flee in Terror as Turk Sharpens Knife

BY HENRY WALES
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 11.—The exodus of Greeks, fearful of the return of Turkish authority to Constantinople, is in full blast. Many observers here state that guilty conscience over what their fellow countrymen and the Greek armies did in Anatolia and the high-handed way in which they have been lording it over the Turks since the Allied occupation of the capital have convinced the Greeks that this will be about the world's most unhealthy place for them when the Nationalists start doing business here.

Tourists could pick up tempting bargains in rugs, curios, dogs, amber beads, burros, candy shops, third-class restaurants and "American bars" as their Greek proprietors are sacrificing their belongings in desperate efforts to realize cash and flee.

MOB IS FRANTIC

All day long outside the Greek Embassy, located in the heart of the town on Rue Pera, a howling and jostling mob is trying to squeeze in through the keyholes, cellar gratings and barred windows to get passports vised.

Outside the steamship offices the same gang is bartering and pleading for tickets to Piraeus, offering fabulous sums to squat on the decks of the old slow freighters among the lousy, filthy, evil-smelling and ragged refugees.

Every Greek is wearing a fez and trying to camouflage himself as a Turk but he realizes that he is spotted and will be included in the massacres which they expect will start when the Nationalists come.

Everywhere fez-topped Greeks are loading trunks, bags, baskets, bundles, women and children into springless wagons attached to skinny nags, harnessed with string and rope and starting to trek northwest.

Certain consular officials are accused of making a good thing out of nationalizing Greeks, their citizenship being given in consideration of suitable compensation, usually about 300 Turkish pounds, with reduced rates for large families.

ARMENIANS LAY LOW

The Armenians are laying low and saying nothing. Their people have been massacred too many times to attempt to escape what is coming and furthermore they realize that they are just as likely to get the knife if they fly with the Greeks as if they await the Turks. After all the Ottomans realize that they need the Armenians to lend them money and the Turks only get restive when they are charged 20 or 30 per cent interest on loans.

The Russian refugees, who have been here for several years, also

PROBLEM IS NOW BEFORE GEN. WOOD

Collectivists Threatening to Cause Trouble Unless They Are Favored

BY WALTER ROBB
"Times" Staff Correspondent
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MANILA (P. I.) Oct. 11.—Upon returning to Manila tomorrow from a prolonged inspection in the south Gov.-Gen. Wood will face the alternative of naming Collectivists to the Cabinet from the list of twenty-four names submitted by Senator Quezon, or of risking forfeiture of Collectivist support for his four-year program, which the general prepared on his trip through Mereland.

Voicing the Collectivist opinion, Senator Alegre said today that if Gen. Wood appoints "our men" he may count on support of any measure he wishes, but otherwise "no." Senator Alegre said he believed the general "wise enough" to see this.

The Collectivists control the Senate and appointments, but if he should care to run the risk Gen. Wood may refuse to accept the resignations of the present Cabinet members, who would then continue in office.

Senator Quezon's list includes ten Visayans, ten Tagalogs and five Ilocanos, representatives of the three most important ethnological groups of the island. Quezon since his return from Washington has continued to consult with Americans, and both American and Filipino sentiment is verging toward autonomy with the United States retaining sovereignty, notwithstanding the platform, which reiterates a stand for early independence.

The economic problems still engross Gen. Wood's attention. While in the south he arranged matters so that American ships could load hemp in Davao Gulf and thus have direct sailings for the United States without any interisland haulage.

AMERICA AIDING EUROPE

Administration Resents Assertion That Government is Holding Aloof; Many Investments Abroad

BY GRAFTON WILCOX
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The United States, in the opinion of administration leaders, is not holding aloof from Europe and leaving it in the lurch, as publicly charged many times recently both at home and abroad.

The administration feels, it was declared today by an official in high place in the government, that constant reiteration of the assertion that it is doing nothing for Europe is unfair and deceiving to the public as to what actually is being done.

Billions of American dollars, it is officially declared, have been poured into Europe from the United States with government sanction since the armistice and are now being used in the economic and financial rehabilitation of countries which suffered from the World War.

HELP IN NEAR EAST

As an immediate illustration of what the United States is doing to help the war-stricken people of the world, it was pointed out that in the Near East, where Americans have even less direct interest than in Europe, the United States is doing more to assist refugees than any other nation. Not only have American warships participated more actively than those of any other nation in the evacuation of refugees from Smyrna, but American charitable organizations contributed more money and American relief workers contributed greater service than those of other countries.

In the opinion of administration officials it is inevitable that American capital should seek investment abroad. With the United States the greatest creditor nation in the world, and with the American dollar at such a premium that few countries can afford to purchase American products, the administration realizes that the only sound method of restoring exchange is for American capital to seek investment abroad.

The administration, appreciating

Evidently bewildered by the headlights of the southbound Pacific Electric Long Beach car No. 19, Mrs. John Jones, 71 years of age, was struck by the car and carried several feet at Compton last night. She was picked up by the train crew and passengers and taken to Long Beach, but was dead when examined by Dr. G. H. Galbraith at the Seaside Hospital.

Mrs. Jones lived at 216 Caldwell avenue, Compton. Her husband was with her at the time of the accident. The body is at the Somer Co. undertaking rooms.

NEW SUSPECT IN MURDER

Prominent Churchman May be Arrested in Killing of Minister and Choir Singer

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW BRUNSWICK (N. J.) Oct. 11.—When the smoke screen of the arrest of young Clifford Hayes, charged with the murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, clears away, it is believed that the hand of suspicion will be placed on the shoulder of one in a walk of life higher than any ever reached by Hayes or the three others whose arrest thus far have been the only result of the murder investigation.

A story which is being investigated tonight is to the effect that a prominent member of Hall's congregation, who sings bass in the choir of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, of which Hall was pastor, and Mrs. Mills a choir member, was at the scene of the double murder on the night of its commission. It is told that the man, who is married, had taken a young woman for a ride, and that they were interrupted by sounds of shooting.

The man was so excited over the occurrence that he was unable to Dr. Hall's church for years, has go to his place of business next day. He will be asked whether he was the person who removed from the Phillips farm a blood-stained

CHAPTER VIII—MY RELATIONS WITH THE CHURCH

Much has been written and said about my relations with the church. Even when I was still a prince, and a student at Bonn, I realized the harmful influence of Kulturkampf in its last phase.

The religious rift did so much toward antagonism that once, for example, I was directly boycotted, while on a hunting expedition, by members of leading noble Rhenish-Westphalian families of the Rhineland belonging to the Ultra-Montane party. Even as far back as that I resolved, in the interests of the national welfare, to work toward creating a modus vivendi such as would make it possible for people professing the two creeds to live peacefully with each other. The Kulturkampf, as such, had come to an end before the beginning of my reign.

I strove patiently and earnestly to be on good terms with the bishops, and I was on very friendly terms with several, especially Cardinal Kopp, Archbishop Bimar, Dr. Schulte, Prince-Bishop Bertram, Bishop Thiel and, last, but not least, Archbishop Faulhaber and Cardinal von Hartmann. All of these were men far above the average and an ornament to the episcopate, who gave proof during the war of their patriotic devotion to emperor and empire. This shows that I had succeeded in clearing away the mists of the Kulturkampf and enabling my Catholic subjects, like others, to rejoice in the empire, in accordance with the motto: suum cuique (to each his own.)

I was bound particularly closely all my life to Cardinal Kopp, Prince-Bishop of Breslau. He always served me loyally, so that my relationship to him was most trusting. Of much value to me was his mediation in dealings with the Vatican, where he stood in high honor, although he championed absolutely the German point of view.

FRIENDSHIP FOR LEO XIII

Probably little is known by the general public of the friendly, trusting relationship that existed between me and Pope Leo XIII. A prelate who was close to him told me later that I had won the confidence of the Pope on my first visit by the absolute frankness which I showed toward him and with which I told him things which others intentionally kept from his ears.

Receptions by the Pope were conducted with tremendous pomp. Swiss and Noble Guards, in brilliant uniforms, servants, chamberlains, and ecclesiastical dignitaries, were present in large numbers—a miniature representation of the might of the Roman Catholic Church.

After I had traversed the courts, hall and drawing-rooms, in which all three men had arrayed themselves, I seated myself opposite the Pope himself, in his little, one-windowed study. The distinguished gentleman, with the fine, noble-featured old ace, whose eyes gazed piercingly at his visitor, made a deep impression upon me. We discussed many timely subjects. I was greatly pleased that the Pope spoke appreciatively and gratefully of the position occupied in Germany by the Catholic religion and its adherents, adding the assurance that he, for his part, would contribute toward having the German Catholics yield to no other Germans in love for their fatherland and in loyalty.

Pope Leo XIII gave evidences of friendliness toward me whenever he could. For instance, on the occasion of one of my visits to Rome, he accorded my suite and servants the honor of a special audience; he sent Prince-Bishop Kopp as papal delegate on the occasion of the consecration by me of the portal, which I had had added to the cathedral at Metz, and was so kind as to inform me of the naming of Archbishop Fischer of Cologne as cardinal which was done to celebrate that day.

On the occasion of the Papal Jubilee in 1903 to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of his accession to the papacy, I sent a special mission to convey my congratulations to the Pope, at the head of which was Freiherr von Loe, for many years intimately acquainted with him.

Not long after that—and only a few months before his death—I paid my third and last visit to the Pope. Though he was very weak, this 93-year-old man came up to me, holding both his hands outstretched. Concerning this visit, which was characterized by great cordiality on both sides, I immediately jotted down some notes, which recently came into my possession again.

The Pope said, among other things, that he could not but give his full approval to the principles according to which I governed; that he had followed with interest my methods of governing and recognized with pleasure that I had built up my rule on a foundation of firm Christianity; that such lofty religious principles underlay it that it behooved him to ask the blessing of Heaven upon myself, my dynasty and the German Empire, and to grant me his apostolic benediction.

"SWORD OF CHURCH"

It was of interest to me that the Pope said to me on this occasion that Germany must become the sword of the Catholic Church. I remarked that the old Roman Empire of the German nation no longer existed and that conditions had changed. But he stuck to his words.

Then the Pope went on to say that he must thank me once more for my unflagging attention to the welfare of my Catholic subjects; that he had heard about this from so many sources that he was glad to tell me personally how grateful both he and the German Catholics were for this attention to their interests; that he could assure me that my Catholic subjects would stand by me, in good and bad times, with absolute fidelity. "Is resteront absolument et infailliblement fideles." (They will remain absolutely and infallibly faithful.)

I rejoiced greatly at these words of appreciation from such an exalted source. I answered that I considered it the duty of a Christian sovereign to care for his subjects to the best of his ability, irrespective of creed; that I could assure him that, during my reign everybody could profess his religion without interference and fulfill his duties toward his ecclesiatical overlord; that this was a fundamental principle of my life, from which I could not be swerved.

Because I showed my Catholic fellow-countrymen from the very beginning that I wished to allow them complete freedom in the exercise of their religion, a quieter spirit was engendered in the land and the aftermath of the Kulturkampf disappeared more and more. But I did not conceal from myself the fact that, despite all politeness and friendliness, the prelates, with the sole exception of Cardinal Kopp, still continued to look upon me as the emperor, and I was compelled to take into account that, in the Catholic South and West, this idea would never quite vanish. Grateful acknowledgment has repeatedly been made to me of the fact that the Catholics were as well off, during my reign, as they could possibly desire; but the constantly more uncompromising attitude of the church on mixed marriages, and that of the Centrist party in politics, were certainly a sign that the antiheretical tendency still lived beneath the peaceful surface.

This made all the more intense my desire for the firm union of the Protestant churches—first, in Prussia, then in Germany, finally, in all Europe. My endeavors, in conjunction with the Chief Ecclesiastical Councilor, the General Superintendent, and so on, to find means of effecting this union, were most earnest. I hailed the Eisenach conference with joy and followed its proceedings with interest. I assembled all the general superintendents for the consecration of the church at Jerusalem, and also was able to greet invited deputations from Sweden, Norway and so forth, and I did likewise on the occasion of the consecration of the Berlin Cathedral, where, among many other deputations, the Church of England was represented by the Bishop of Ripon (W. Boyd-Carpenter,) the pastor of Queen Victoria of England, equally prominent as a writer and preacher.

Whenever possible, I worked toward compromise, closer relations and union, yet nothing definite resulted. Though church union in Prussia has been a success, Lutherans and Reformists kept apart in other sections of the Fatherland. Many local rulers kept sharp watch over their rights in relation to religions, and owing to this, were hostile to a closer union of the different creeds within their territory. Therefore, despite my endeavors, the German Protestant Church was not able to unite and make common cause against the elements hostile to it. Only through the emergency brought on by the revolution was this made possible. On Ascension Day, 1922, to my great joy, the "German Evangelical Church Union" was solemnly formed at the Schloss Church at Wittenberg.

During the first years of my military service at Potsdam I had felt deeply the inadequacy of the sermons, which often dealt only with dry dogmatic matter and paid too little attention to the person of Christ. In Bonn I became acquainted with Dr. Dryander, who made an impression on me lasting throughout my life. His sermons were free from dogma, the person of Christ was their pivotal point, and "practical Christianity" was brought into the foreground.

Later I brought him to Berlin and soon had him appointed to a post at the Cathedral and in my palace. Dryander was by my side for years, until long after the ninth of November, standing close to me spiritually and bringing to me spiritual consolation. We often talked on religious matters and thrashed out thoroughly the tasks and the future of the Protestant Church. The views of Dryander—mild, yet powerful, clear and of truly evangelical strength—made him a pillar and an ornament of his church, and a faithful co-worker with the Emperor, to whom he was closely bound, in the interests of the church and its development.

Since the 9th of November, Dr. Dryander also has been exposed to persecutions, but he has stood his ground courageously; the hopes, beliefs and trust of his King are with him and the Evangelical Church! The church must again raise up the broken nation inwardly, according to the gospel of "Ein'feste Burg ist unser Gott."

I cannot allow to pass without remark the influence exerted by the work—translated at my instigation—of the English missionary, Bernard Lucas, entitled "Conversations with Christ," as well as the sermons on Jesus by Pastor Schneller (Jerusalem,) and the collections of sermons called "The Old God Still Lives" and "From Deep Trouble," by Consistorial-Councilor Conrad. These brought us much inspiration and comfort by their vital ability to absorb and hold readers and hearers.

The fact that I could deal with religious and church questions with complete objectivity since ira et studio is due to my excellent teacher, Prof. Dr. Hinspeter, a Westphalian Calvinist. He cast his pupil to grow up and live with the Bible, eliminating, at the same time, all dogmatic and polemical questions; owing to this, polemics in religion have remained alien to me, and expressions like that autocratic one, "orthodox," are repulsive to me. As to my own religious convictions I set forth what they were years ago, in a letter to my friend, Admiral Hollmann, made public at the time, part of which is reproduced at the end of this chapter.

I was enabled to bring joy to the hearts of my Catholic subjects when I presented the plot of ground known as the "Dormition," acquired by me from the Sultan in 1898 as a result of my sojourn in Jerusalem, to the German Catholics there. The worthy, faithful Father Peter Schmitz, representative of the Catholic Society in Jerusalem, expressed to me the heartfelt thanks of the German Catholics on the spot in eloquent words at the ceremony of taking possession.

THE CHURCH IN JERUSALEM

When I conferred with him as to future building operations and as to the selection of persons to occupy the place, the old expert on Jerusalem advised me to select none of the order of monks there, since all were more or less mixed up in the intrigues and quarrels concerning the "loci sacri" (sacred spots.) After my return a delegation of the German Knights of Malta, under Count Praschma, appeared before me to express their gratitude. The design for the church, made by a very talented Cologne architect and skillfully adapted to the local style, was submitted to me. After the completion of the church I decided that the Benedictine monks of Beuron should take over the "Dormition;" they did so in 1906, also taking over the monastery built next the new St. Mary's Church.

I was on friendly terms for many years with the Benedictine monks of the Beuron congregation, with whose archabbot, Wolter, I had become acquainted at Sigmaringen. In medieval times the order always stood well with the German Emperors, of whom scarcely one failed to visit, in connection with his journeys to Rome, the magnificently situated Monte Cassino. When the Benedictine monks asked permission to establish a settlement on the Rhine, I had the splendid Romanesque abbey of Maria Laach—unused at the time—turned over to them. The order, which counts among its members excellent artists, including Father Desiderius, has brought new glory to the abbey, which had fallen into neglect and decay, by magnificent interior decorations. Often have I visited Maria Laach and rejoiced in the progress of its restoration, as well as in conversations with the intelligent abbots and in the hearty, simple reception on the part of the faithful brethren.

the present regime all of which keeps Andrew Bonar Law very much to the forefront.

LABOR BOGEY

Added to all this uncertainty is the bogey of a labor government which is being trotted out by newspapers which lean toward the premier. This fear is strengthened by the statement of the labor leader, J. R. Clyne, who says labor is destined to lead in England whether the oldest parties want it or not.

The campaign in the Newport by-election where the oldest parties are so split that the labor man has a good chance to get in, as also have many other labor candidates under like circumstances, is pointed out by some observers today as typical of what is possible in a general election.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Seven prohibition agents, armed with Federal search warrants today seized $225,000 worth of liquor, wine and alcohol in a building occupied by the Franz Trucking and Rigging Company, Inc.

ANALYSIS OF THE MEMOIRS

Kaiser Declared Religious Mountebank, "Protector of All Creeds"

BY S. FRED HOGUE

If one were to know nothing of the Kaiser's life but what is narrated in this and tomorrow's installment of his memoirs, he might be regarded as an apostle of tolerance. In addition to being "King of the rabble," he posed as the disciple of all creeds. In Prussia he was a German Lutheran; in Stamboul he was a follower of Mohammed; when received by the Pope he was an ardent Catholic—so much so that he says the Pope told him "Germany must become the sword of the Catholic Church."

In relating his religious activities it does not seem to have occurred to the Kaiser that some might regard his course as that of one who is "all things to all men." To me he recalls a religious mountebank, with a new make-up for every stage.

It is very possible, however, that his vanity caused him to place a wrong interpretation upon the utterance of the Pope. What he is supposed to have said to the Kaiser had been said by many pontiffs before him. The Holy Roman Empire was often referred to in the Middle Ages as the "sword of the church," and venerable Pope Leo XIII was giving voice to his faith that it would become so again. He could have said with equal propriety the same thing about a country that had relapsed into barbarism.

NEVER VERY MEEK

His narration of his audiences with the Pope simply discloses how susceptible the Kaiser was to adroit flattery.

Seldom did the Kaiser deliver an address in which he did not touch upon religious subjects. But he never did appear as the meek and lowly follower of the Nazarene. Sincere religious believers were incensed with his cool assumption that he "had formed a partnership with God."

But through all his religious profession there is a crimson thread that suggests ulterior motives. Claiming to occupy the throne by "divine right," one would not expect him to deny the existence of a divinity. He nationalized his God, referring to him repeatedly as "the German God," telling the German people that God watched over the Hohenzollerns as He formerly watched over Israel.

ARROGANT ON FIELD

The following extracts from an address delivered by the Kaiser to his eastern army in December, 1914, is a good example of how the Kaiser made use of religion to bolster up the German throne:

Be convinced that you are His chosen people. The spirit of God has descended upon me.

I am the Emperor of the Germans. I am the instrument of the Most High. I am His sword and spokesman.

Misery and death to those who oppose my will! Misery and death to those who do not accept my mission! Misery and death to cowards!

All enemies of the German people will be annihilated.

God has decreed this destruction: God, who commands you through my mouth to carry out His will.

How different from the proud and imperious monarch who thus addressed his troops on that day is the broken old man—the fugitive—sitting writing his Memoirs in Doorn.

He is said to sit for hours, turning over the leaves of the Bible, although latest reports have it that he has turned from his German Book of Prayer to a volume of love sonnets.

But the Memoirs were written before he assumed the garb of the ardent lover. It is possible that, while reading the Scripture in Doorn, he came for the first time upon the passage, "Blessed are the meek; for they shall inherit the earth." The Sermon on the Mount seems to have been eliminated from the copy of the Bible he read while Emperor.

AMERICA ISN'T HOLDING ALOOF

this, it was declared, encourages foreign investment in every way possible and has co-operated freely with American bankers in their efforts to secure legitimate sources of investment abroad. One of the tasks of Secretary of State Hughes has been, it is declared, to build up an American foreign policy calculated to give confidence to American capital that it will have the backing of the American government when it goes abroad.

With the American dollar at a premium after the war, the State Department was quick to apreciate the financial situation in the world. In a circular letter addressed to all American consuls, it gave instructions that American agents, who hitherto had sought only markets for American goods should investigate the possibilities of American investments. With American firms doing extensive business abroad, they would naturally seek to make remittances to the United States and would thus tend to stabilize American exchange.

American bankers in general have shown an entire disposition to work with the State Department in the matter of placing loans only where they will be of constructive benefit. Since President Harding and Secretary Hughes are committed to a policy of limitation of armament, they naturally look forward to the time when European nations will find it possible to reduce their land armaments as well as their naval armaments. Therefore it is to be expected that the State Department would frown upon any proposal by any American banking group to lend money to a European power which was known to be contemplating the use of that money in preparation for war. In this way, the American government is a great force for peace, since a majority of the nations could not make war without borrowing, and since the United States is the only nation in the world in a position to lend on a large scale.

WATER-POWER ACT ASSAILED

Bankers Roar Approval as Measure is Scored

Credit of State in Danger if Bill is Made Law

No Opposition to View Seen at Del Monte Meeting

BY CHAPIN HALL
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DEL MONTE, Oct. 11.—Worthington E. Creed, president of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, today swept the convention of investment bankers, of America from its moorings and injected the first big kick into the proceedings when he analyzed the water power bill in a brilliant expose of the pernicious measure. He brought the delegates to their feet in a demonstration which lasted for five minutes. Convention managers had been fearful that the debate would precipitate an acrimonious discussion, a fear that proved to be ungrounded, for there was no debate.

When Mr. Creed concluded his talk the opposition, if there was one, was in shreds and tatters. The convention unanimously sustained the report of the committee on public utilities and the resolution of the board of governors repudiating the act in a resolution set forth in these dispatches yesterday.

CREDIT IN DANGER

It was apparent at the conclusion of the talk that the investment bankers of the United States will look askance upon California offerings in the event of the passage of the Water and Power Act. Influential members of the organization asserted that the credit of this State will be stifled and its industrial progress halted if this great burden is laid upon it.

The act, said Mr. Creed, means the authorization of an unlimited deficiency bill. It gives to an unnamed board $500,000,000, and says to the members, "Go ahead and do the best you can. If you fail the money has been provided to pay for your mistakes." The speaker pointed also to the enormous increase to the tax burden which will follow the adoption of the proposed amendment.

"As soon as the $500,000,000 of bonds are voted, the bonds are tax free. The proceeds of the bonds will be used to buy property. This property escapes taxation. The expenses of the government in this State will go on just the same. The remaining property on the tax roll will make up the difference. The act is the most immoral act which has ever been proposed, and represents to a remarkable degre that great danger in a democracy; oscillation in government.

"The very foundation of America was that government existed to afford the citizen opportunity, liberty and security, and that government did not exist for business. And, if we do not hold true to those ideas, we shall lose America, because we cannot have water and power acts and have America, too.

STIFLES INDIVIDUAL

"The things are inconsistent, and the thing out of which our honor, our success, and our glory has grown has been the development of the individual in the country, development of his initiative and his self-reliance, his independence, his vision, his energy, and, if we turn to paternalism, if we turn to government for everything under the sun, if we continue to extend the functions of government, we shall snuff out the very spirit and life of America, and sink to the dull mediocrity of the paternalistic governments of the old world."

Interest in other routine reports was submerged by the water and power discussion. Delegates are beginning to get away for San Francisco, where a program of entertainment has been provided. The business of the convention will be concluded tomorrow, when officers will be elected, the usual amenities observed and the golf tournaments concluded. John A. Prescott of Kansas City is slated for the presidency. Vice-presidents will be Dean G. Witter of Blyth, Witter & Co. of Los Angeles and San Francisco; Arthur Sinclair, Jr., of New York; Eugene M. Stevens of Chicago; James C. Fenhagen of Baltimore, Phillip S. Dalton of Boston; secretary, Frederick R. Fenton of Chicago; treasurer, McPherson Browning of Detroit; governors, Ray Morris of New York, John W. MacGregor of Pittsburg, J. Clark Moore, Jr., of Philadelphia, Tom K. Smith of St. Louis; Eli T. Watson of New Orleans, W. A. Chanute of Denver, Frank Remick of Boston, Fred S. Borton of Cleveland, Joel E. Ferris of Spokane, and Walter S. Brewster of Chicago.

New York and Cleveland are the chief bidders for the 1923 convention. The place will be determined by the board of governors at the January meeting. Resolutions of appreciation for the manner in which the convention has been handled, will be a part of the concluding ceremonies. Friday night the Bohemian Club in San Francisco will stage a "jinx," which the delegates from the bay region intimate will be a fitting climax to a hectic week.

LARGE INCREASE IN NATION'S ADVERTISING

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—A substantial increase in the volume of advertising in the country was reported today at the convention of the American Association of Advertising Agencies. The aggregate total of appropriations by national advertisers for the year, the report said, was $250,000,000.

Newly-elected officers of the association include A. W. Erickson of New York, president; H. S. Gardner, St. Louis, vice-president.

GOVERNORS CALLED TO DISCUSS LAWS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OLYMPIA (Wash.) Oct. 11.—Governors of all the States west of the Rocky Mountains were today invited by Gov. Hart of Washington to attend a conference in San Francisco November 16, to consider uniform gasoline tax and speed laws and other legislation that he believes should be the same in all these States.

are packing up, being worried that they will be deported to Russia through a secret agreement entered into by Angora and Moscow.

The Russians are chiefly waiters, musicians, newspaper sellers, cigarette smokers and card players, interspersed with a few chauffeurs, sandwich men and dog exercisers.

A shipload of British women and children, aboard the Empress of India proceeded to Malta, resulting in the restaurants, cabarets and night resorts being plentifully patronized by tired and lonesome British business men, seeking a little recreation.

DEMIMONDAINES HAPPY

This has resulted in a distinct boon to the Russian demimondaines, who act as waitresses in restaurants of a certain class, where they sit down and drink with clients seeking company.

The Greek girls, who are denizens of the local red-light district, are remaining on the job, despite the reports that the Nationalists are coming. They do not share the worries of their compatriots about throat-slitting, but they are professionally downcast at the prospect of the departure of the generous Allied troops, who spent their sterling, francs and lire freely, interspersing their money with plenty of fights.

The city presented a grotesque appearance during the conference at Mudania, the wildest war rumors being heard everywhere by everybody on the streets. The sidewalks were so crowded as to seriously interfere with business. Street peddlers are selling everything from combs to cat meat.

The Turks and Greeks here hold the world's record in all weights for carrying the heaviest loads on their backs, it even being asserted that one fellow was seen staggering down the main street with a red-hot kitchen stove, the smoke curling gracefully from the chimney. Another had five caskets strapped to his back. He explained that he was seeking the probable location of a massacre and he hoped to get good prices for the lot.

The cat meat merchants are picturesque, but odorous. They carry screen-covered boxes like giant fly traps, with curious cuts of meat, evidently from curious animals, hanging inside. The butcher emits a queer cry, and the housewives descend and haggle over the price of bits of offal which are cut off with a big pair of scissors.

The toy balloon salesmen do a big business with the starving Russian paupers who like to amuse themselves thus, and the hairdressers' and manicurists' parlors are crowded continually with elegant though poverty-stricken Muscovite countesses, supported by American relief organizations, who feel compelled to have their fingernails polished and their hair waved daily.

REFUGEES TERRORIZED

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ATHENS, Oct. 11. — The Turk will enter Europe on the heels of 1,000,000 terror-stricken refugees —Greek and Armenian Christians —who are fleeing westward before the crescent and sword of Islam.

More than 500,000 of these exiles already have arrived in Greece, 500,000 more are on their way.

From the cities of the Asia Minor coast where the deportations and massacres still continue—from Constantinople, where the Europeans live under the threat of an invasion—from the Thracian plain where the word from Paris struck terror to 250,000 Christians who know the Turk of old, frantic rabbles today are streaming into Greece.

CATASTROPHE THREATENS

The migration may complete the catastrophe here. Greece—itself a tiny nation of 500,000—does not have food, accommodations or employment for this horde of penniless exiles. With winter approaching disease is already prevalent in the crowded concentration camps and the situation has passed the phase where the government can cope with it unaided.

The Thracian delegates to the Greek Parliament yesterday cabled Herbert Hoover asking for help from America. Americans and English residents here have organized temporary local relief committees which, however, do not reach the bulk of the suffering people. Beyond this nothing has been done for the thousands who daily are arriving.

The 500,000 women and children deported from Smyrna and the Asia Minor coast who landed on the Greek mainland and the Archipelago Islands are now augmented by the vanguard of the Thracians who already are crossing the Maritsa River and streaming into Dedegatch and Porto Lagos. There are 250,000 Greeks in Eastern Thrace and in addition 129,000 refugees from Asia Minor who fled there after the Smyrna fire.

PLAN EVACUATION

The Athens government already is making plans to evacuate these people but the situation is complicated by the lack of transport, there being only one single track line between Adrianople and Dedegatch over which the refugees must pass. The Greeks lying on the banks of the Maritsa River are crossing over while those farther inland are rushing their harvests in order to salvage everything possible before giving up their homes. There is a considerable wheat crop in Eastern Thrace and it is understood that the Greek government is anxious to purchase it in order to stave off famine from the refugees this winter.

OPPOSITION TO POWER ACT GROWS

Speakers Say Sentiment Against Measure Being Crystallized

Sentiment against the $500,000,000 Water and Power Act is increasing as election time nears and voters are interesting themselves in the measures to be voted on at the November polls, speakers of the People's Economy League, which is opposed to the measure, report, according to Clarke Van Benthuysen, secretary of the league.

"This sentiment is reflected in newspaper editorials and cartoons pouring into our office," he declared yesterday. "But few of the State's publications favor the act and a very great many are exceedingly vigorous in their denunciation of its evils."

Five organizations are to hear speakers from the league today. The program follows:

Eagle Rock—Women's Twentieth Century Club, 2 p.m. Miss Marie Brehm attacking the act.

Los Angeles—Southwest Ebell Club, Vernon Library, 11 a.m. Miss Ruth Sterry, secretary of the Women's Bond and Tax Study League, attacking the act.

South Pasadena—Women's meeting; Women's clubhouse, 7:30 p.m. Luther G. Brown, attacking the act.

San Pedro—Lions' Club, 12 m. John Dockweiler, attacking the act.

Los Angeles—Unitarian Church, 325 South Flower st. Ruth Sterry, attacking the act.

The program for the Ventura County Women's Angelo Council, Mrs. Horace Pope, and Mayor S. C. Evans attacking the act.

Pomona—Study Club, Miss Marie Brehm, attacking the act.

Lankershim—Chamber of Commerce, 8 p.m. Ruth Sterry, attacking the act.

Lomita—Farmers' Union, 8 p.m. Capt. Lewis Levy attacking, and J. H. Braly defending the act.

PAT HARRISON'S BLUFF CALLED

Adams Ridicules Statement of Democrat

Says "Solid South" Has Done Nothing for Fighters

Bourbon Congress Would Do but Little More

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—John T. Adams, chairman of the Republican National Committee, tonight made the following statement:

Senator Pat Harrisan of Mississippi, says a Democratic Congress should be elected in order that it may provide by legislation, justice to the American soldier. Surely, Senator Harrison cannot be serious.

"There are only three States in the Union which have not done anything, even of the most petty nature, for their ex-service men. Mississippi, Harrison's State, is one. Alabama and Georgia are the two others. Some Democratic "solid South" States have enacted trifling laws for ex-service men. Louisiana gives the American Legion the use of public buildings and armories; South Carolina has authorized a State medal for her service men; Arkansas has exempted American Legion property from State taxation. Pat Harrison's State has not done even one of these small and inexpensive things.

HAVE DONE NOTHING

"With the exception of one piece of legislation by North Carolina and two or three laws by Texas and South Carolina, the Democratic "solid South" has done nothing of consequence for the ex-service man.

"Contrast this with the record of Republican States. Twenty of them have provided cash bonuses for ex-service men. Seventeen give ex-service men preference in all civil service employment. Twelve provide educational aid for ex-service men. Ten provide financial assistance to ex-service men wishing to buy and equip farms. Fourteen provide State relief for needy ex-service men. Four provide State aid in assisting ex-service men to find work. Three have provisions for loaning funds to needy ex-service men. Twenty provide for admission of ex-service men to State hospitals with free treatment while located there.

"A stream cannot rise higher than its source. A Democratic Congress is always dominated by the "solid South." What Democrats will not do in their own States for the ex-service men they can not be expected to do in Congress. That is the record.

INDIFFERENCE SHOWN

"The attitude of the Democratic administration toward ex-service men was like that exhibited by the States of the Democratic "solid South." Its handling of Federal agencies dealing with ex-service men was one of indifference and incompetence. It was officially condemned by both the American Legion and a special committee of the United States Senate upon which sat Democratic Senators Walsh of Massachusetts and Pomerene of Ohio, both of whom signed the report.

These evils were not corrected until the Republican Congress created the Veterans' Bureau and backed the hospitalization plan. Since the Republicans came in control of Congress they have appropriated approximately $2,000,000,000 to finance the various agencies handling ex-service men. Practically all of the Federal legislation and appropriations for ex-service men date from the time Republicans came into control of Congress. The appropriations made by the Republican Congress for use of the Veterans' Bureau this year are over $418,000,000—the largest appropriation made by the Congress for any purpose except payment of interest on public debt.

The nation's defenders have always had to turn to the Republican party for whatever aid and relief they secured from the Federal government.

CHIEF NOT BOSS IN OWN HOME

Police Department Head Says Wife Was Handy at Tossing Dishes

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Asserting that his wife smashed three sets of dishes on his head, threatened to "put something in his coffee," and broke windows with wild throws of dishes aimed at him, John G. Eckstein, police chief of the twin villages of Lansing and Oak Glenn, Ill., has applied for a divorce in Judge Mangen's court.

PREDICT NEW MURDER ARREST

basket, in which were some rags, also stained with blood, and a copy of a New Brunswick paper dated September 14, the day the murdered pair left their respective homes. The basket was seen about 125 feet from where the bodies were found, but disappeared during the excitement of the day the tragedy was discovered.

Ralph V. Gorsline, a member of admitted that he picked up a young woman in his automobile on the night of the murder, rode around for a short time and took her home. It has been established that the young woman was Miss Katherine Ralstall, a member of the church choir in which Mrs. Mills sang. Miss Ralstall's mother today declared that her daughter was at home at 10:30 on the night of the murder and emphatically denied that she had been anywhere in the vicinity of the Phillips farm.

AUTOMOBILE BURNED

Gorsline's automobile was burned beyond all hope of repair on Trenton Road a week ago last Sunday, the day after he had been questioned at length by Prosecutor Stricker. He is to be questioned again tomorrow.

Although four persons are in jail, connected directly or indirectly by charges with the murder case, the authorities of Middlesex and Somerset counties made little or no progress toward solution of the mystery.

The Middlesex county authorities, including Prosecutor Stricker, expressed the belief that the murder is as far from solution as ever, while Prosecutor Beekman of Somerset county held stubbornly to the belief that in Hayes and Raymond Schneider, his accuser held without bail, as a material witness, he has the two principals in the crime. More than a hint came today that Gov. Edwards intends to take further steps in the case.

Broad intimations were received that the office of the Attorney-General of New Jersey may be called on to go into Somerset and Middlesex counties and take over the investigation.

This from an editorial in the Trenton Times was widely quoted today in New Brunswick:

SCORED BY NEWSPAPER

"Whatever the motive behind the strange antics of the prosecuting officials in the New Brunswick murder case they certainly are bringing the good name of New Jersey into disrepute all over the country. It will, indeed, be a sorry day if the latest arrest is merely a political gesture.

"But is it all politics? Or social influence? Or is it something more sinister?"

Pearl Bahmer, the 17-year-old girl, an intimate of Schneider, who is in Middlesex County Jail charged with incorrigibility, said today that her father had often threatened to cut her throat. The girl's father, Nick Bahmer, also was in jail, held on a serious charge preferred by his daughter.

The entire Bahmer family has held an unsavory reputation for years. Nick's brother was killed about five years ago during a knife battle with a negro. A jury found the negro's deed justifiable.

Pearl's father, who is 42 years old, was sentenced in 1917 to serve an indeterminate sentence of from two to fifteen years in the Trenton penitentiary for highway robbery. He was released after serving two years.

Pearl has been arrested on numerous occasions, charged variously with truancy, delinquency and disorderly conduct. A well-developed child physically, she has admitted to promiscuous relations with men since she was 12 years old.

CONFESSED RELATIONS

Her brother, "Happy" Bahmer, has been convicted of minor offenses eight times within a year. On two of these occasions he was arrested for beating Raymond Schneider. Pearl has confessed that her relations with Schneider were intimate for more than a year and a half. Schneider is married but separated from his wife.

"Happy" Bahmer is to be questioned tomorrow. What possible connection he may have with the case has not been hinted. He may be able to straighten out the conflicting reports regarding the family life of Nick Bahmer and his daughter.

Pearl's startling statement that "my father might have done it," when referring to the murder, is held by Bahmer's lawyer, Paul Ewing, to be merely the outgrowth of the girl's ill feelings toward her father because he had her arrested two weeks ago.

"At the time the girl was arrested she said she would get even with her father. Her charges are all a lie," said Ewing today.

DeBouchel and that it is not true, presents mere intrusion on his part, however well intended. He has not been named, and no person elsewhere than in Atlanta has been claimed to be making these infamous reflections on Mrs. DeBouchel."

COPIES OF LETTERS

Mrs. DeBouchel in the course of her conversation with newspaper men today, in the presence of her attorney, referred to copies of letters which she said she had kept in writing to Candler. Her counsel declined, however, to allow her to make the letters public at this time, intimating that he is keeping them in reserve for possible future use.

Mrs. DeBouchel, in announcing her intention to leave Atlanta for New Orleans, said she blamed the Candler family more than she did Mr. Candler for the present situation. "What Mr. Candler needs is backbone," she declared, adding that she was sorry for him. She reiterated her belief that Candler still loved her. She said, however, that no reconciliation now was possible, and that she was determined to obtain vindication.

Asa G. Candler, Sr., appeared at his office today, but stated he had nothing to say regarding the case.

Despite Gamble's statement in Atlanta, concerning the stories of Wilbur LeGette in Los Angeles, LeGette, who is staying at the Woodward Hotel here, yesterday sent the following telegram to Mrs. DeBouchel:

"Anything that I can do for you to assist you, don't fail to call on me. Keep up your fight and make them eat their own dirt. I gave their statements the lie. I am for you strong."

The Vineyards of Delano ~Offer You a Life Income

Wouldn't YOU like to own a vineyard with wondrous vines like these?

THE illustration is a reproduction of 3-year-old Thompson seedless vines at Delano and gives only a faint idea of the wealth of grapes produced in the wonderful Delano district, where the yield is from 12 to 18 tons of grapes per acre, which, when dried, make from 3 to 5 tons of Sun-Maid raisins.

If you owned 10 acres among The Vineyards of Delano—lands developed by the Southern California Development Corporation, 10 acres of the richest raisin land in California—all worry about your future would cease. You would be happy in the knowledge that in a few years these 10 acres would be making a splendid monetary return, the crop bringing you an income greatly in excess of the return on your money had it been otherwise invested.

Take your idle money out of the bank. Use $2000 of it for a payment on a 10-acre unit and let the Southern California Development Corporation do the rest—plant, care for your vineyard, bringing it to maturity, after which half of the crops pay the balance due on the purchase price.

These raisin lands are marvelous. See them now, while the grapes are loading down the vines. Satisfy yourself as to their amazing productivity and the wonderful prices their crops bring. Then come in and talk it all over with us before investing a single dollar.

When you DO invest you will assuredly pave the way to AN INCOME FOR LIFE

Directly in the Path of Expansion

LOOK AHEAD!

Pick your homesite with a view to the future. What will it be like five years from now? What will your environment be? What sort of neighbors will you have?

You can alter the appearance of your house—redesign—reconstruct—but you cannot change the location of the ground it is built upon. That is permanent for all time.

Look ahead! You want your children to grow up among the best influences. High class property means desirable neighbors, a forward-looking, home-loving community.

Then bear in mind that Belle Mead and Western Avenue Park are in the direct path of the city's tremendous expansion. That means property values must rise. And valuable homesites attract people of substantial ideals. They are a guaranty of worthy neighbors, of a high class community—the sort of environment you want your children to grow up in.

In the years to come your prestige will grow with the community; you will own valuable property at Belle Mead or Western Avenue Park. You will enjoy a high standing as a citizen and neighbor.

Buy now and make a high place for yourself in the community—and prosper with it.

STANDARD OIL STILL BOOMING

New Jersey Company Plans Large Dividend

Increase in Capital Stock Also Considered

Increase in Net Assets is Cause of Action

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Following the lead of other Standard Oil companies, Chairman A. C. Bedford, of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, announced today that a special stockholders' meeting has been called for November 8 to act upon a proposal of the directors to increase the authorized capital stock of the company from $110,000,000 to $625,000,000 and declare a stock dividend for each share of common stock or a 400 per cent stock dividend for each share of common stock now outstanding.

The par value of the new shares will be $25, the same as at present.

The directors also explained that they felt the shareholders should be advised that, in view of the requirements of the company for capital investment, they have no purpose to increase the aggregate amount of dividend disbursements at the present time. The present dividend is on the basis of 20 per cent annually.

When this new financing has been completed there will be $500,000,000 par value common stock outstanding. The balance of the proposed increase, about $125,000,000, will be held in the treasury to meet such needs of the company as may arise in the future, it was stated.

FUNDS REINVESTED

Mr. Bedford declared that throughout the twenty-three years since 1899 it has been the policy of the company to reinvest in its business all earnings remaining after the disbursement of dividends, and since 1911 there has been no change in the regular rate of dividend then established. During this period the substantial growth of the company's business, in line with the growth of the petroleum industry generally, has resulted, he declared, in a very considerable augmentation of its assets, largely by reason of profitable employment of such surplus earnings. On Dec. 31, 1921, the surplus was $592,017,621.

The steadily increasing disproportion between the company's issued capital and its net assets prompted the directors to take such action.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is the parent company of the so-called Standard Oil trust, which was dissolved by decree of the United States Supreme Court in 1911 into its thirty-three individual companies. Since the dissolution the aggregate quoted value of the stocks of the various companies has increased approximately $2,000,000,000.

The Standard Oil Company of New York, which recently declared a 200 per cent stock dividend, had a common stock capitalization of $75,000,000, with a surplus of $167,000,000. In common with the other Standard Oil companies of New Jersey, Indiana, California and Kentucky, it reduced the par value of its shares from $100 to $25.

DECLARES DIVIDEND

The Vacuum Oil Company in the Standard Oil group, with $42,000,000 surplus on a $15,000,000 common stock capitalization, recently declared a dividend of $7 a share in addition to the regular dividend.

Other Standard Oil companies which have been frequently mentioned as contemplating early dividend action, with their common stock capitalization and surpluses at the close of 1921, follow:

	Common Stock Capitalization	Surplus 1921
Atlantic Refg. Co.	$ 5,000,000	$ 27,708,040
Ohio Oil Co.	15,000,000	72,809,630
Prairie O. & G. Co.	18,000,000	93,706,851
Solar Refg. Co.	2,000,000	8,700,882
Standard Oil of Ind.	107,369,455	148,222,710
S. O. of Kansas	2,000,000	8,703,498
S. O. of Ohio	7,000,000	17,344,406

Standard Oil shares have been active in both the curb and stock markets lately. Standard Oil of New Jersey closed today at 236 1-4 as compared with a high of the year of 250½, established yesterday and a low of 169 earlier in the year.

SURGEONS FIND LONG-LOST KEY

Missing for Fifty Years, is Taken From Stomach of Patient

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—A door key that his father "lost" more than fifty years ago was found by surgeons operating on the stomach of Philip J. Keifer, 59 years old, recovering today in the Ashland Boulevard Hospital.

Shown the key, Keifer said he probably would have got a licking if his father had known who was responsible for losing it.

SOLOMON PROBLEM WITH NEW ANGLES

OIL OR LAND TRACT GIVEN TO INDIAN COMPLICATES PATERNITY CASE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—One of Solomon's problems was presented to the Supreme Court today for solution when it was asked to determine who was the mother of Thomas Atkins, a Creek Indian, to whom was patented lands in Oklahoma of great value because of oil.

The court, in reaching its decision, however, will not have the affections of a mother to aid it, for the child is long since dead and the woman the lower Federal courts held was the mother also is dead. The second woman in the case is alive, but demented.

When the Dawes commission made allotments to the Creek Indians it listed Thomas Atkins as a member of that tribe, and a patent for 160 acres of land was issued in his name. Years later, with the development of oil properties in Oklahoma, the land, awarded Thomas Atkins, located in the Cushing oil fields, was purchased by Charles Page from Minnie Atkins, a Creek half-blood. Minnie claimed title to the land as the mother of Thomas, who, she asserted, died while a minor.

Nancy Atkins, a full-blood, contested the title on the grounds that she and not Minnie was the mother of Thomas. The Federal government came into the case and asked that the patent to the land be canceled, contending that Thomas was a myth, had never existed and that the land had been allotted through fraud. To further complicate the case Henry Carter entered a claim to the property, declaring that he was the Thomas Atkins to whom it had been allotted.

The value of the property in oil already recovered and that which still remains was placed by counsel at $4,000,000. It was acquired from Minnie Atkins for a few hundred dollars. The lower Federal courts held that she was the mother of Thomas.

INSTITUTE URGES AERO DEVELOPMENT

FEDERAL CONTROL IS ONLY HOPE FOR INDUSTRY, SAY ENTHUSIASTS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DETROIT, Oct. 11.—Development of aeronautics in America is possible only under Federal supervision and regulation of flying, speakers representing all branches of aviation declared today in addressing the National Air Institute here.

The institute was preliminary to the annual meeting of the Second National Aero Congress, opening here tomorrow in conjunction with the national air races.

Licensing of pilots and aircraft, supervision of landing places and insistence upon emergency landing fields, education of the business and general public to the safety and desirability of aerial development and regulation of the legal rights and liabilities of aircraft, all under Federal regulation and supervision, were among the suggestions of the various speakers, who included Charles F. Redden of New York, president of a commercial aerial line; E. P. Warner of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Dr. Joseph S. Ames, Johns Hopkins University, and J. Rowland Bibbins, manager of the department of transportation of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

UNIONISTS TO SEEK RELEASE OF MOONEY

RAID SIGNALMEN PLANNING CLOSER CO-OPERATION WITH TELEGRAPHERS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CINCINNATI, Oct. 11.—Introduction of a resolution, probably tomorrow, on action to be taken in attempting to obtain the release of Thomas Mooney, California labor leader, now serving a life term in California for the throwing of a bomb into a Preparedness Day Parade in San Francisco, was announced tonight by Lee Grove, vice-grand president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen of America in convention here. Mr. Mooney was a member of the moulders' union when he was convicted of throwing the bomb which killed several persons.

Closer co-operation between the telegraphers and the signalmen, because of their partially allied trade, was urged by James Dewey of the Order of Railway Telegraphers.

The establishment of a policy committee, the first of its kind in the signalmen's brotherhood, to word in connection with the handling of all issues of national and international importance was effected in the adoption of the resolution.

A Remarkable Record

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for colds, croup and whooping cough for almost half a century and has constantly grown in favor and popularity as its good qualities became better known. It is the standard and main reliance for these diseases in thousands of homes. The facts that it can always be depended upon and is safe and pleasant to take are greatly in its favor when it is wanted for children.—[Advertisement.

WASHINGTON, octubre 11.—La Administración está resentida por el cargo que se hace a los Estados Unidos de haber abandonado a Europa a su suerte, y hace mérito de los miles de millones de dólares americanos que se están empleando en la reconstrucción europea con la ayuda y la sanción oficiales.

El Ministerio de la Guerra enviará al Brigadier-General Connor para que se ponga al frente de las tropas americanas en China, pues ese puesto exige un jefe de más alta graduación que un coronel. El Coronel Martin regresará al país.

Las disposiciones prohibitivas del Ministerio de Hacienda relativas a impedir la entrada de barcos extranjeros con licor, contendrán la salvedad de que puedan traer licor para usos medicinales.

John T. Adams, presidente del Comité Nacional Republicano, dice que el Congreso Demócrático estaría dominado por el "bolide sur."

El Ferrocarril de Santa Fe ha recibido de la Administración de Ferrocarriles, como liquidación, la suma de $21,500,000.

Aprehensiones de Conspiradores en México

CIUDAD DE MEXICO, octubre 10.—La policía militar anda muy activa aprehendiendo conspiradores políticos. Ayer se hicieron numerosos arrestos, entre los que cuenta el de Carlos Valdez, en Mazatlán, a quien se acusa de diseminar propaganda rebelde en favor de Murguía. El General Rojas, de fama revolucionaria en Puebla, es acusado de complots en Sonora con dos agentes revolucionarios.

Huelgas al Por Mayor en México

CIUDAD DE MEXICO, octubre 10.—Prácticamente todas las fábricas del Distrito Federal y del Estado de Mexico se declaran hoy en huelga general, como resultado de que los obreros no pudieron conseguir un aumento de 15 por ciento en sus jornales. Varios millares de hombres han parado de trabajar.

También se ha declarado una huelga general en las grandes fábricas siderúrgicas y fundiciones de Monterrey.

Los Americanos Dirigirán las Evacuaciones

ADRIANAPOLIS, octubre 11.—Estuvieron tan eficaces los americanos dirigiendo la evacuación de Esmirna, que va a suplicárseles hagan un servicio igual en la Tracia Oriental. G. H. Dennis, de Hallowell, Maine, en representación del Socorro al Cercano Oriente, llegó hoy, aquí para dar cuenta de las condiciones que reinan entre los refugiados del Asia Menor en el distrito de Adrianápolis, y para dirigir las evacuaciones que ocurrirán probablemente bajo el pacto de Mudania.

Los jefes de las sectas no mahometanas, incluyendo obispos griegos, armenios y búlgaros, así como el Rabino en Jefe judío, declaron que habría sin duda un gran éxodo. Algunos lo estiman en 400,000 gentes, complicándose la situación por el influjo de los refugiados de Asia Menor durante la última quincena, muchos de los cuales se han venido hasta Adrianápolis. El gobierno está acomodando a estos refugiados como si no hubierra surgido ya la cuestión de evacuar rápidamente la Tracia Oriental, y no se hubiera ya requisado cuanto transporte militar ha habido disponible.

Muchacha Lesionada al Intentar Escaparse

Al ir siendo conducida a la Estación de Policía de la Universidad, con otra mujer y dos hombres, acusados todos de ebriedad, una muchacha como de 21 años, que dijo llamarse Nellie Moran, saltó ayer del ómnibus policíaco, cayendo en frente de un automóvil, en el cruce de la calle Cincuenta y la Avenida Vermont. Costóle su imprudencia una conmoción cerebral, graves cortadas en el brazo derecho, y tal vez una fractura del cráneo.

Es Posible Deporten a un Rojo Mexicano

Tal vez se dicte orden de deportación a México contra Enrique Flores Magón, conocido anarquista, en audiencia que se celebrará hoy en uno de los Departamentos de Inmigración de aquí. El y su hermano Ricardo, que ahora se halla en la penitenciaría federal de Leavenworth, formaron la facción de Magonistas que tanta guerra ha dado a las autoridades mexicanas y americanas en los últimos veinte años.

Enrique salió libre de la penitenciaría en 1920, después de cumplir sentencia de tres años por actos revolucionarios, en los que estaban complicados su hermano y varias otras personas.

Ayer se supo de su aprehensión, y se anunció que el interrogatorio del mexicano continuaría hoy ante el Inspector en Jefe Burnett y el Inspector Sweet, del Servicio de Inmigración de los Estados Unidos.

MRS. WILKENS'S DEATH STORY CONTRADICTED

STATE ATTACKS DEFENDANT ON TALE OF WIFE'S MURDER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—The prosecution in the murder trial of Henry Wilkens attempted to show today that on the night of June 9, a few hours after the District Attorney's office had applied a "lie detector" to Wilkens's body to ascertain the truth of his story of his wife's death, the defendant had held a secret meeting with Robert Castor, which was followed soon after by the flight of the latter's brothers, Arthur and Walter Castor.

Four of the Castor brothers have testified for the prosecution, and one of them, Arthur Castor, is the chief accuser of Wilkens, saying that the defendant plotted with him and his brother, Walter Castor, now dead, to stage a mock hold-up which resulted in Mrs. Wilkens being killed. Wilkens had contended that the hold-up was a surprise, that she was shot by a strange bandit when he, Wilkens, drew a revolver to defend his family.

GOVERNMENT SETTLES WITH SANTA FE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—One of the largest settlements made by the Federal Railroad Administration was effected today with the Santa Fe for all claims in full growing out of the period of government operation during the war. After offsets had been made for claims on both sides the government handed the representatives of the Santa Fe a check for $21,500,000 in settlement in full for everything to date. This sum not only included all claims for the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe but for the following subsidiary companies as well: Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway; Pan Handle and Santa Fe Railway; Rio Grande, El Paso and Santa Fe Railway; Kansas Southwestern Railway; Grand Canyon Railway.

VERNON MAN CHOSEN IN PACKERS' BOARD

MEAT MAGNATES ADDRESS SCIONS AT CHICAGO CONVENTION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—The country's successful packers today delivered a message to their sons at a luncheon at which the young men, youths and boys ranging in age from 16 to 24, were introduced to delegates attending the convention of the Institute of American Meat Packers, and heard "how dad got to be what he is today."

"Be a packer, my boy," was the general tenor of the advice given the rising generation by those grown gray in the industry.

Charles E. Herrick of Chicago was elected president of the institute, to succeed Thomas E. Wilson of Chicago, who retired. T. P. Breslin of Vernon, Cal., was chosen as a member of the board of directors.

AMERICAN GRANTED SOVIET OIL RIGHTS

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Henry Mason Day, president of the International Barnsdall Corporation, today returned from Russia with what he declared to be the first contract with a foreign concern to be ratified by all the heads of the soviet government. It was a concession for the development of 400 acres in the Baku oil lands.

"There can be no question as to the desire of the soviet government to make possible the entry of American interests for the development of resources in their country," said Mr. Day.

Ratification of his contract, he said, "proved conclusively that the doors of Russia are open."

NUT INDUSTRY INVESTIGATED

Federal Expert Reports on China Walnut Crop

Orient Production Greater Than Supposed

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The first report on the walnut industry in China and Manchuria was received by Senator McNary today from Prof. C. A. Reed, nut expert with the United States Department of Agriculture.

The annual agricultural appropriation bill carried an amendment offered by Senator McNary, providing funds for this investigation, which the walnut growers of Oregon, California and Washington desired to have the government make. It was thought by those interested in the walnut industry that plantings should not be made in the Northwest if considerable acreage was being planted in the Orient.

The cultural methods practiced in China are not well understood in this country, nor is the quantity of production known. In Prof. Reed's statement to Senator McNary he says:

"From what I have already seen, I am ready to believe that the Chinese production of walnuts is much greater than has been supposed. Consumption takes a big part. The Chinese have been eating green kernels since early in June. All trees are either cultivated or semi-cultivated."

Prof. Reed's report states that the trees are free from walnut blight, and that he has found no grafted trees in the district visited, but that the trees are seedlings, being grown from nuts. The statement relates that this year's crop is beginning to appear on the markets, but is very green, and therefore of inferior quality, and that the exports to this country will probably not begin before the middle of this month. While a few first-class nuts are produced, Prof. Reed says the great bulk are thick shelled and not of the quality produced in California.

Senator McNary, who is himself a walnut grower, stated that he believed Prof. Reed's report to be thorough and of great value to the walnut industry on the Pacific Coast, and that Prof. Reed would return to America about the first of January and would thereafter make a complete report of his investigation.

The subsidiary companies are the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe; Panhandle and Santa Fe, Rio Grande, El Paso and Santa Fe; Kansas Southwestern, and the Grand Canyon.

WOOLWORTH COMPANY DECLARES DIVIDEND

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Directors of the F. W. Woolworth Company, operating a chain of 5 and 10-cent stores, today declared a regular quarterly dividend on the common stock and $1.75 on the preferred. They also voted to call for retirement on Feb. 1, 1923, all of the outstanding 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock at 125, which will require approximately $11,470,000, all of which will be provided from cash on hand so that no new financing will be required.

ARMOUR MUM ON PIT TRADES

Packer-Capitalist Evasive at Investigation

Control Boast Disclaimed by Export Head

Board Scribe Says Chicago Rule in Danger

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—J. Ogden Armour, meat packer and capitalist, declined today—for the present at least—to reveal to the Federal Trade Commission the extent of his speculations in wheat and corn during the period from July 15, 1920, to May 31, 1923.

Mr. Armour will appear again Friday morning after conferring with his attorneys, and tell the commission whether he will give it the figures sought.

Admitting that he had been in the market "occasionally" as a speculator during the period under investigation, Mr. Armour declined to name his brokers or reveal the lump sum of his long or short lines on any given day.

Mr. Armour defended speculation in grain and the marketing machinery which makes it possible because the farmer is afforded an opportunity to sell his produce on any day of the year in an open market. The producer does not always get the price he is entitled to, he admitted, but on the average, he said, the farmer does benefit by the system.

"Is there any way," Victor Murdock, vice-chairman, said, "to alleviate the condition known as the May 'squeeze'?"

"That is a very difficult thing to obviate," Mr. Armour replied. "So long as there are individuals in the world who do things that some people do."

VAGUE ON RULES

Mr. Armour said he was not familiar with the rules of the Board of Trade, had no opinion as to the fairness or unfairness of the "emergency carload" delivery rule and did not know whether on the two occasions it has been invoked, it operated to his advantage or disadvantage. The rule permits delivery on cars when the public warehouses are full.

"When engaging in future transactions do you notice any effect on the grain price due to the purchases or sales made by you?" the examiner continued.

"No, sir, nothing noticeable."

Murdock brought out that Mr. Armour gives little personal attention to his market operations, leaving the details mainly in the hands of Mr. Marcy or other associates or subordinates.

George E. Marcy and W. Benkert, the latter head of the export division of the Armour Grain Company, were both questioned about a statement attributed to Mr. Benkert, that "the Armour Grain Company controls the corn market of North America."

CONTROL TALK DENIED

Mr. Benkert denied having made such a statement.

Mr. Marcy said the anticorner rule adopted by the Chicago Board of Trade last January, providing for a committee to fix a fair price and a proper penalty when contracts cannot be fulfilled, had made corners impossible, but that because of the belief long held that it was not commercially ethical to default, traders had not taken advantage of this protection.

"You've got to have speculators to balance the market," Marcy said. "If you kill that you've hurt the farmer most of all.

"The grain speculators, however, have lost so much in the last two or three years carrying grain as it went down that they have gone into the stock market."

Arthur Cutten, whose name figured in gossip about the "May squeeze" last spring, has been subpoenaed to appear Friday. The commission expects to complete the hearing, which is being held in response to a Senate resolution, by Friday night.

BOARD WORKER FEARFUL

"Hedging and trading in wheat futures are being driven from Chicago to Winnipeg and Liverpool by the threat of the Capper-Tincher law," John R. Mauff, secretary of the Board of Trade, told the commission.

The supremacy of Chicago, which now handles more grain than all the rest of the world's exchanges together, is seriously threatened, he said.

Victor Murdock, vice-chairman of the commission, asked the witness if the Board of Trade rule limiting future dealings to four months of the year did not artificially restrict the movement of the corn.

Mr. Mauff denied that the four months' trading was a restriction and pointed out that when Herbert Hoover was controlling the market during the war time he limited trading to two month.

NEGRO CENTER MOVES NORTH

Black Population is Now in Northwest Corner of Georgia

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The Department of Commerce announced today that the center of negro population as determined by the Bureau of Census is located in the extreme northwestern corner of Georgia.

For the first time in history this center has moved northeast, being approximately 9.4 miles farther east and 19.4 miles farther north in 1920 than it was in 1910. The former movements have all been in a southwesterly direction.

TEXAS STRIKERS AND UNION CHIEFS TRIED

EIGHT ACCUSED OF PLOT TO WRECK SOUTHERN TRAIN SERVICE

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

EL PASO, Oct. 11.—Trial of five union labor leaders and three striking railway shopmen, charged with a conspiracy to wreck train service on the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio Railroad by placing mercury in the vital parts of locomotives, was started this afternoon before Federal Judge W. R. Smith.

The defendants are said to have committed overt acts in El Paso and San Antonio.

A large quantity of quicksilver seized by agents of the Department of Justice in a raid on a home of one of the workers was to be submitted as evidence.

The defendants are John M. Morgan, general chairman at San Antonio of the six striking shopcrafts; C. C. Hanley, general chairman of the Machinists' Union, Charles Poe, traveling organizer of the Machinists' Union, John B. Yockham, secretary of the Machinists of Houston; H. H. Dietz, secretary of the Machinists at San Antonio, and J. B. Williams, James L. Doak and John F. Doak, union machinists.

OFFICERS OF FLEET TO BE ENTERTAINED

WIDOW ON TRIAL FOR HUSBAND'S MURDER

ACCUSED OF KILLING MAN OVER HER LOVE FOR ANOTHER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LAKEWOOD (N. J.) Oct. 11.—Plump, matronly Mrs. Ivy Giberson went on trial for her life today before Supreme Court Justice Kalisch at Toms River, charged with the murder of her husband, William, while he lay sleeping in the bedroom of their Lakehurst home on the night of August 14 last.

Attired in mourning, Mrs. Giberson listened calmly, made notes on a paper pad, while Prosecuting Attorney Jayne in his opening address told of evidence in his possession which he said would prove that she sent her husband away on fictitious business missions in order to rid herself of his presence. The prosecutor inferred her desire to be rid of her husband—which he said he would prove. His death was prompted by interest in another man, a man to whom she had written daily, whom she had visited daily, and "continuously sought." This man, he said, is Harold A. Ganun, a married man with one child, who lives in New York City. The prosecutor also said he would show that through juggling of his bank accounts, which his wife handled, Giberson was $3200 poorer when he was killed than he had been led to believe.

Photographs and large sketches of the plan of the Giberson home and outhouses, in one of which one of Giberson's revolvers was found the day of the slaying, with empty shells in two chambers, were on display in the courtroom, which was crowded with men and women.

The first witnesses called were technical witnesses for the State, Dr. Frank Brouwer, Coroner, an undertaker, and his assistant, and several railroad clerks, who were among the first to reach the scene of the slaying, having been attracted by Mrs. Giberson's screams. The clerks testified to finding Mrs. Giberson loosely bound and unexcited. It was then she first told the story she since has adhered to—that two housebreakers shot her husband.

GENERAL ASSIGNED TO DUTY IN CHINA

EXPEDITIONARY COMMANDER TO BE GIVEN BROADER POWERS

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Brig.-Gen. William D. Connor, now an assistant chief of the General Staff, has been relieved from that detail and assigned to command the American Expeditionary Forces with headquarters at Tien-tsin, China, as a result of a change in policy reflecting the increased importance attached here to the Chinese situation.

The comparatively small military force in China heretofore has been commanded by a colonel. Under the new plan the troops at Tien-tsin will be under direct command of hte colonel and Gen. Connor will have broader functions as expeditionary commander, although no increased military force there is contemplated.

The change is in line with the recent decision of the State Department to assign Edward Bell of the diplomatic service as counsellor of the Peking Legation, a new post of greater importance than allowed the legation previously.

The troops in China are maintained there under treaty agreements worked out with China after the Boxer uprising. Their chief duty is policing and keeping open the Tien-tsin-Peking railway.

THREE DIE DRINKING POISONOUS LIQUORS

HOOCH OR CONTAMINATED BEANS BELIEVED FATAL TO RANCHERS

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WENATCHEE (Wash.) Oct. 11. As a result of either drinking poisonous moonshine or eating contaminated beans, officials say, three men, Mike Tenner, Charles Hanson and a man named Brown, are dead at Okanogan. They died yesterday within a few hours of each other. Officials have not determined the exact cause of the deaths.

A sample of beans from which they had eaten has been sent to the State health authorities for analysis and County Health Officer P. West is conducting an investigation. All three were ranchers and reside about thirty miles from Okanogan.

Possibility that the deaths were caused by drinking poisonous liquor was seen in the fact, it was stated, that a former neighbor of the dead men died recently from that cause.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color, 15c and 30c.—[Advertisement.

Seven Nations Have Boats Loading or Unloading in Water at San Pedro

For the first time in the port's history, vessels flying the flags of seven great maritime nations were yesterday within Los Angeles Harbor. In addition to the craft under foreign registry, ten American steamers in offshore trade were also in port, loading or discharging cargoes.

The situation presented one of the busiest days the port has experienced, and wharfage was at a premium, four vessels being forced to lie at anchor to await berths. At Pier A alone there were six steamers docked, including the American-Hawaiian liner Nebraskan, the Osaka Shoshan Kaisha passenger liner Seattle Maru; the Willsolo, of the Williams Line; the Shipping Board freighters, West Ivan and Lake Shore, and the coast liner Harvard.

Representing Nippon at the port were the Seattle Maru, from New Orleans for Yokohama, and the Japanese tanker Kanju Maru, undergoing conversion to an oil burner; flying the Mexican flag was the passenger liner Nyarit; the motorship Principio carried the flag of the German republic; the steamer Providencia came in with the tricolor of France; Sweden was represented by the new steamer Lygnern; while the Holland-American liner Kinderdijk carries the Dutch flag.

FAR EAST WILL SEE THIS CITY

Publicity Campaign to Start; Films of Harbor Are to be Exhibited

Los Angeles Harbor, its activities and possibilities, are to be carried into the Orient under a comprehensive publicity campaign to be put into operation by the Chamber of Commerce. Walter S. Wheaton, prominent steamship and railroad man, has been selected to carry the message of the local port into every commercial and industrial center of the Far East.

Mr. Wheaton is now in New York arranging details of the pioneer expedition of commercial organization and will return to Los Angeles this month shortly before sailing for Japan via the Philippines.

Motion pictures of Los Angeles Harbor, produced under direction of the Chamber of Commerce, will form the main feature of the trade exhibit, and the films are to be shown before every commercial body and trade organization in the Orient, according to plans of the local committee on trade expansion.

While in the Far East Mr. Wheaton will also devote his efforts to the opening of new trade channels to Los Angeles in connection with a shipping firm with which he is connected, it was announced.

FINE YACHT BOUGHT BY SPORTSMAN

Edythe, Diesel Motored Vessel, to be Fitted for Extensive Voyage

One of the biggest deals in Pacific yachting circles since before the World War was completed at Los Angeles Harbor Tuesday with the sale of the Diesel-motored yacht Edythe to George Whittel, Jr., millionaire sportsman of San Francisco. The Edythe, built in Long Beach two years ago at a cost of nearly $200,000, by John F. Craig, is considered one of the finest craft of her type afloat.

Mr. Whittel, one of the Coast's best known yachtsmen, came into prominence during the World War as an admiral in the royal Italian navy. He will completely recondition the Edythe and fit her for an extensive cruise, probably to European waters, it was announced last night.

The Edythe was the first Winton-Diesel yacht to be built on the Pacific Coast and is one of the most elaborately fitted craft under the American flag. She is 118 feet in length with a beam of twenty-one feet and nine-foot five-inch draft. Her twin screws are driven by two Winton-Diesels of 240 indicated horsepower.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND, Oct. 11.—Coal from Chile, 1800 tons of it, was an item in the cargo of the steamer West Kader of the Columbia Pacific Shipping Company, which arrived here today. She made the trip in fifteen days from Antofagasta.

The Ocean Motor Company's motorship Chaldamira will arrive here the 23rd inst. to load a full cargo of lumber for Antofagasta, according to information received today.

The British steamer Devon City is loading a cargo of bulk wheat for Europe.

With 4000 tons of wheat loaded here, the motorship George Washington departed today for Scandinavian ports. The Bergland of the same line will arrive here Friday to discharge general cargo.

Whether a group of longshoremen affiliated with the radical element on the water front will register at the municipal hiring hall or be refused work will be known by noon Thursday, the time set for acceptance or rejection of the municipal hiring hall's edict. A group of the men have refused to register at the hall and tried to keep others from doing it.

TACOMA, Oct. 11.—Vessels of the United American and American-Hawaiian Line took high point in active vessel movements at Tacoma today. Three affiliated lines will have three vessels in port this week, representatives of the Baker Dock Company say, in looking up sailing dates of their steamers. Next week the harbor will have several of the vessels under the American-Hawaiian flag here and Friday of this week the Iowan will be in.

At present the Ohioan, out from New York, but bound for Europe, is loading at the Baker dock, while the Georgian is taking lumber at the St. Paul mill. The Ohioan had a large amount of freight among the varied assortment being canned goods, boilers, pipe and baking powder. Out the steamer has doors, lumber and miscellaneous freight.

The Ohioan may get away tonight and the Georgian may not sail until early tomorrow morning. The Georgian calls at Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. The Iowan will load for Boston and New York. The Haddian of this line, which was dumped at Los Angeles by another ship, will not come further with it than San Francisco this voyage. Other vessels following are the Californian and Nebraskan.

The Davenport from San Francisco arrived at the Baker dock yesterday morning. After discharging freight she went over and loaded in the steam and sailed last night for California.

With lumber from Puget Sound ports and fir cargo, the British steamship Chas McVicar sailed today for Australia. The vessel will take lumber coal at Seattle and Honolulu.

The Mizi is due to return to the terminal dock tomorrow to load for California. The steamer has been taking cargo at Seattle.

The Japanese steamer Kanju Maru is expected tomorrow morning at the port dock to load the Orient.

Taking a part cargo of lumber from the port dock and copper from the smelter, the Willsolo, of the steamer Willsolo sailed tonight for New York.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 11.—Announcement that the Intercoastal Steamship Company will establish direct east-bound service between San Diego and Philadelphia and Baltimore, effective with the departure next month from this port of the steamer Stanley City, was made today by H. W. Dees, general manager of Norton, Lilly & Co. Dees said today that 1000 tons of canned fish and dried fruits, the largest shipment of the kind ever made, would be ready for delivery on the wharf to the east coast, would be taken by the Stanley City. The company's freighter Robin Kirk is due here Saturday from New York.

The turbine steamer Harvard of the Los Angeles Steamship Company will be placed on the San Francisco-San Diego run the latter part of this month, relieving the Yale, according to announcement made today. The Yale will go into the dry dock for inspection and overhaul.

The only arrival in port today was that of the schooner Vigilant, from Ensenada, with 100 hogs as the principal freight.

COOS BAY, Oct. 11.—Maj. Mayo of the United States army engineers' office, Portland, is taking samples of rock here for the tests preparatory to expected jetty construction which he plans to start here in March.

The Coos Bay Lumber Company steamer Ottilie Foss arrived from Bay Point this morning and is taking lumber for San Pedro.

After being in port several days for shelter, the steamer Bandon, with 1,000,000 feet of lumber from Mt. Helena, sailed this morning for Los Angeles and San Diego.

After taking on 850,000 feet of lumber at Warrenton, the steam schooner F. S. Loop shifted this afternoon to Westport, where she will complete her cargo.

The steam schooner Daisy shifted early this morning from Bay Point to Knappton, where she is loading 750,000 feet of lumber for California.

The steam schooner Halco, carrying 1,100,000 feet of lumber for Los Angeles, sailed this morning.

The steamer Despatch, which is to load 200 tons of flour here for South America, is scheduled to sail from Gray's Harbor tomorrow.

The British steamer Gothic Star is reported to have sailed from Vancouver for Australia with cargo due tomorrow. She goes to Portland and is to pick up freight for the United Kingdom.

The steam schooner Tahoe arrived today from San Francisco and went to Warrenton, where she will load 850,000 feet of lumber and then proceed to Willapa Harbor to complete her cargo.

The British steamer Baron Ogilvy arrived this morning from Dutton and is under charter to load wheat at Portland or Puget Sound. She may be sent to the latter port on account of the shortage of wheat in Portland.

SEATTLE, Oct. 11.—The Seattle Port Commission today received notice that schedules of slight increases in wharfage charges proposed by the commission had been approved by the State Department of Public Works. The increases are amendments to terminal tariffs Nos. 1 and 2 and the commodities affected are listed on Pages 4 to 9 inclusive of the published list.

Commissioners George B. Lamping and George F. Cotterill were chosen to represent the commission at the ninth annual convention of the Pacific Coast Association of Port Authorities in Oakland October 20 to 28. The commission passed a lease of ground space to the Hawaiian Molasses Company.

Capt. Louis Hansen, whose command, the auxiliary gasoline schooner Eagle, was crushed in the ice off North Cape, Siberia, August 14, today declared his intention of returning north in the spring. He is going to Vancouver to confer with Hudson Bay Company officials on the matter.

The Eagle's crew, Hansen said that business was paralyzed in Siberia by the abrogation of authority between the Reds and the Whites from day to day. When his vessel was crushed he and his crew of two took to their launch, which was picked up by the power schooner Chukotsk. The Chukotsk, Capt. Hansen said, was almost nipped in the ice.

Col. E. J. M. Nash, Pacific Coast agent of the Royal Mail Packet Steamship Company, was today advised that a fire in No. 4 hold of the Castilgannabin en route here from Nortis Bay was soon extinguished with slight loss. The freight damaged was for Victoria and Vancouver, the remainder being consigned to Japan.

The strike element of the crew of the Shipping Board vessel Wheatland Montana struck here today when the engine-room and the stewards's department, with the exception of officers, were manned by Chinese. The change was on an order from the owners made on the ground that orientals have to be carried another free of charge for the work on the other side of the Pacific because the whites cannot stand the heat there.

The barkentine E. R. Sterling, formerly the largest sailing vessel in the world, is en route to Seattle, her home port, from Australia with coal, she has been tied up at Sydney since the slackening of freights.

The Sea Monarch today towed to sea the schooner Watson A. West, bound for Honolulu with a full cargo of lumber from Bellingham.

PORT TOWNSEND (Wash.) Oct. 11.—The King Puyuni liner Taiyhyhina has reported here by radio that she will reach Seattle Friday. She has a consignment of raw silk.

The steamer Empress of Australia arrived here today en route from Vancouver to Hawarton for repairs. Her tonnage is 21,850, which was at the time she was built, $3361 to enter this country.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 11.—The liner Empress of Australia sailed at 6:45 p.m. yesterday for Hongkong for repairs. She went under her own steam, but was convoyed by the tugboat Nitinat. The Australian will undergo special care to have the ship ready by November 16, the next sailing date.

The steamship Canadian Winner is due at quarantine on Thursday from the Orient. She is in ballast.

VICTORIA, B.C., Oct. 11.—The marine department of the Chamber of Commerce received word today that the British tank steamer Cedarbank had sailed from Amsterdam for the Pacific Coast with two million gallons of kerosene oil. Part of the cargoes will be unloaded at Willingdon and the remainder at Seattle. This is the largest shipment of crude oil to this coast in three years. The product is said to be particularly fine and good refining results used in wharf construction to prevent the teredos, small marine insects, from eating holes in them.

The China Mail steamer China arrived in port this evening with 150 first-class passengers, twenty second-class and 172 steerage. Of the eleven passengers sixty-seven are for transfer to Havana, Cuba, and six for Mexico. The vessel is expected to dock early tomorrow.

As a result of the preliminary investigation into the collision which occurred in the Columbia river between the tanker Lyman A. Stewart and the steam carrier Walter A. Luckenbach, conducted by Capt. John K. Cantwell, a formal hearing has been set for next Monday, at which time the owners and members of the crews will be examined.

PORT NOTES

With 5500 tons of freight from the Orient crowding her cargo holds to the last inch, the steamer Matsonia Barry line West Ivan arrived yesterday morning from Singapore and other Far East ports via the Philippines. Included in the 7000 tons of freight for Los Angeles Harbor is included shipments of rubber, coffee, spices and tea. She is completing her first round trip voyage on the oriental service and her officers and crew have brought with them veritable menageries from China and Java, with chow dogs and monkeys predominating.

The greatest herds of wild caribou in the history of the Arctic are swarming over the hills through the suburbs of Dawson, Yukon Territory, for a radius of fifty miles, according to the crews of vessels arriving here from Alaskan ports. The great herd which annually treks through the Dawson district is now moving northward. The Yukon River traffic is also being seriously interfered with by the huge herds swimming the broad stream.

Entry of the Red Stack Tugboat Company, a San Francisco concern, in Los Angeles Harbor activities was foreshadowed yesterday by the report that one of its executives was to be dispatched to this port immediately. Capt. Ernest Mohr of San Francisco has been commissioned to proceed to Los Angeles Harbor to direct the affairs of the San Pedro Launch and Towboat Company.

Operators of Shipping Board cargo vessels will be allowed $32 to $40 per day for the purchase of consumable goods and engine-room supplies, according to a new fixed daily allowance policy which the board will put into effect on all its vessels November 1. The allowance does not include stewards's supplies, however, and the amount is graduated for the various sizes of ships ranging from 5000 tons to 11,000 tons. If the managing agent goes under the allowance he pockets the saving. If he goes over he has to pay. A trial period of six months is established. Representatives of the managing agents asked the Shipping Board commissioners that the individual operators be allowed to purchase supplies where they choose, but this the board overruled, declaring its intention to make bulk purchases for all operators.

The Arbitration Court at The Hague will this week decide in favor of the Norwegian shipowners who brought action against the United States Shipping Board involving 125,000,000 kroner for Norwegian shipping alleged to have been seized by the United States during the war, according to a dispatch from London received at the port last night. Argument before the Permanent Court at The Hague was closed September 1. It was not indicated at that time that an early decision was expected.

REPORT IS DENIED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Ambassador Pezet of Peru denied today the report appearing in a Santiago newspaper to the effect that he had notified Ambassador Mathieu of Chile that Peru would not accept amendments or reservations to the Tacna Arica protocol. Ambassador Mathieu would make no further comment on the report.

FRENCH SHIP, FRENCH SOIL

Law Demands Sailors Receive Daily Potion of Their Wines

BY FLOYD GIBBONS
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Oct. 11. — The French government today flatly denied that it is preparing to protest to Washington against the enforcement of the Daugherty decree.

"We think the existing treaties will forbid Washington from enforcing the decree," said one of the highest officials in Quai d'Orsay. "It will be almost two weeks before any French liner can be affected by the decree if it is enforced and we certainly will want to know how it is enforced and how it affects French interests before thinking of taking any action. A French ship is French soil wherever it is and I do not think America will try to enforce American laws on French soil."

French labor circles are concerned with the prospect of the enforcement of the decree, because the French law demands that sailors receive half a quart of wine daily and stokers one quart.

...action among the controlling miners which has successfully resisted not only economic argument and official intervention, but every appeal to impartial arbitration."

"Now to my mind there is but one thing to do in the union fields. You are tied hand and foot to the United Mine Workers, you have agreed to meet with a committee and it is your duty to meet them.

"You don't want any claims this fall that you did not carry out your agreement. But when you have heard the demands of the miners and find you can't get anything better than their demands and that the situation does not warrant the present wages, then it is time to quit and quit for good."

USES PISTOL TO WIN GIRL'S CONSENT

AGAIN TURNS CAVE MAN ON HONEYMOON; WIFE HAS HIM ARRESTED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NYACK (N. Y.) Oct. 11.—Arnold C. Tanner, a student, may have been able to win a wife with the aid of a pistol, but he cannot keep her by constantly threatening her life, according to the story told in court today by the bride, formerly Miss Mary C. Nelson, employed as a nurse in New York.

Mrs. Tanner haled her husband into court today on a charge of assault with intent to kill. He was held in $5000 bail.

According to Ms. Tanner, her future husband, on October 3, called at her home, began courting her on the porch and then, suddenly turning caveman, put a gun to her head and demanded her hand or her life. She gave him her hand, going at once with him to Pearl River for a hasty marriage ceremony.

On the tenth day of the honeymoon, she asserted, he again turned caveman. She had him arrested.

MEDICAL CONCLAVE SCORNS ETHER BODY

DOCTORS PROTEST THEORY OF SPIRIT ROAMING ABOUT DURING SLEEP

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ROCHESTER (N. Y.) Oct. 11.—A theory that while the physical body sleeps, an "ether body" wanders the world over, accumulating the stuff that dreams are made of, met with disfavor before the Mississippi Valley Medical Association's convention here today.

Dr. W. Stuart Loech of Rosean, Minn., talking on "The Pineal Gland and the Condition of Ego in Sleep," advanced the theory that there are two distinct bodies in every human being—one physical and the other known as the "ether body."

While the physical body sleeps, the speaker said, the ether body slips away for a nocturnal prowl that may even carry it to foreign lands, always to return, however, before the physical body awakens.

Protests marked the conclusion of his talk, and the convention unanimously ordered his address stricken from the records.

STRIKE HURTS LAKE SHIPPING, SAYS UNION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Since the strike of union seamen on Great Lakes freight boats on October 1, four boats have collided in the Lake Erie section, two of which are still aground, and three othrs are stranded in the Detroit St. Claire River, K. B. Nolan, secretary of the Great Lakes seamen's union asserted today.

Approximately 3500 members of the union, which comprises nearly 4000 members, have struck, he asserted.

REPLACING BARBER POLES WITH CLOCKS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—In a few years the time-honored and traditional red, white and blue barber pole may be obsolete, according to members of the National Barbers' Supply Association, now in convention here. In place of the well-known barber pole, they said, customers will see a red, white and blue clock. The change was ascribed to an effort to "keep abreast of the times."

BILLION DOLLARS BOBS UP

Government Bond Offering Subscribed Twice Over, Says Treasury Secretary Mellon

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The government's new bond issue—the first since the war—has been oversubscribed, Secretary Mellon announced tonight. The total subscriptions, it is understood, aggregate something near $1,000,000,000 on an offering limited to about $500,000,000.

Preliminary reports received from the Federal reserve banks show, Mr. Mellon said, that the subscriptions for the new 4¼ per cent bonds of 1947-52 are well distributed over all sections of the country.

Notwithstanding the oversubscription, the Secretary announced, investors who subscribe for amounts of $10,000 or less, or who desire to exchange their 4¾ per cent Victory notes, or December 15 certificates, for the new bonds, may still get an allotment in full upon their application, if tendered promptly to the Federal reserve banks.

"It is the treasury's intention," Mr. Mellon said, "to hold down allotments on the primary offering to $500,000,000 or thereabouts. With this in view the subscription books for this part of the offering will close at noon on Saturday, Oct. 14, 1922.

"Subscription books on the exchange offering will not close until Saturday, Oct. 21, 1922, and such subscriptions will continue to be alloted up to a limited amount, thus giving investors who desire to turn in their Victory notes or December 15 treasury certificates a further opportunity to invest in the new bonds."

Mr. Mellon expressed the opinion that the volume of subscriptions already received to the new issue shows that the bonds are proving exceptionally attractive to investors.

TUGBOAT SINKS IN LAKE WASHINGTON

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Oct. 11. — The tugboat S. L. Dowell, owned by the Fossell Tugboat Company, sank in 150 feet of water in Lake Washington here today after striking a snag off Mercer Island. George Wahl, master, and William Holslar, engineer, narrowly escaped drowning and were rescued by a launch after they had clung to a drifting barge for nearly an hour.

WOMEN'S BUILDING JAMMED

New National Clubhouse at Washington, Recently Opened, Hardly Large Enough for Purposes

BY CONSTANCE DREXEL
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The thousands of club women throughout the land who have subscribed for the new national clubhouse of the General Federation of Women's Clubs here will be glad to hear of Mrs. Thomas Winter's visit there the last week.

It is the first time since she raised $100,000 for the house at the club biennial convention in Chautauqua last spring that the president of the federation has been in Washington.

She found the demand for rooms for visiting club women so pressing that even the attic is being converted into transient bedrooms. As that is the fifth floor, an elevator is being put in. The garage in the back, which belongs to the residence, has been transformed into an attractive tea house, where Mrs. Winter has been quietly entertaining at luncheon and dinner.

According to this energetic president already the house does not seem big enough for the country-wide administrative and social needs of the federated clubs in Washington. So it will not be surprising if a larger building, probably one built to order, will be required for national headquarters of the General Federation of Women's Clubs here in Washington in the near future.

The women in both the Republican and Democratic national committee headquarters also are talking of wanting headquarters of their own where women of their clans may gather from all over the country. They are not satisfied with the office rooms adjoining the national committee suite of offices turned over for their use, but want something of their own. If they can't finance headquarters in any other way, the women will do it by means of a tea-room or cafeteria.

Another Alice Paul is still the guiding spirit of the National Woman's party, one misses the serene presence of Elsie Hill, the chairman of the party's national council. When she married Prof. Albert Levitt of the University of North Dakota about Christmas time, she would not even change her name and intended keeping up her work just as if she hadn't. Now one finds that she is not even in Washington, but is going to keep house for her husband while he works for another degree at Yale.

That three old houses opposite the Capitol which Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont bought for headquarters of the party may be transformed into a vision of usefulness and beauty seems probable in the announcement that Mr. Belmont is coming to Washington with Thomas Hastings, the New York architect, who designed the magnificent amphitheater in Arlington Cemetery. They are expected October 19.

The National Woman's party is showing other signs of life in a conference of almost the entire organization to be held for three days beginning November 11. Women lawyers will predominate. The main question will be equal rights legislation both in Congress and in the thirty-six State legislatures meeting within the next few months.

Upon inquiry at the National League of Women Voters as to what the league will work for in the next Congress the answer is a child labor amendment and re-creating the Interdepartmental Social Hygiene Board under the Department of Justice. The latter bill was actively supported by many women's organizations represented on the Women's Joint Congressional Committee last session and got on the calendar, but did not come up for a vote. As the budget carried no appropriation for the board, (of which Dr. Valera Parker was executive secretary) it went out of existence June 30, the end of the fiscal year. The women want it back under the Department of Justice.

On Road To Boneyard

"I have just finished a treatment of your wonderful remedy and can say it has done wonders for me already. For the past five years I have been unable to eat any but the lightest food and that but sparingly, as any food caused me to bloat with gas. I was reduced to a skeleton of ninety pounds, and was on the road to the boneyard. A friend in Birmingham sent me a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which I took, and I am sure it will entirely cure me of my trouble, judging from what it brought from me and the way I feel." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or mone yrefunded. At all druggists!—[Advertisement.

GRIFFITH RUMOR

FAMOUS DIRECTOR MAY FILM THURSDAY SPECIAL

By Grace Kingsley

Rumor is rife these days that there is more than a probability that D. W. Griffith may direct the film version of Victor Hugo's "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," which Universal is planning to make. It is known that the famous director has been approached on the subject by Universal. And that Griffith has long wanted to make another spectacle with historic atmosphere is also well known. In fact, Mr. Griffith gave out an interview in New York yesterday to this effect.

Irving G. Thalberg, director-general of Universal, who has been responsible for the many fine photoplays lately produced by that organization, when interviewed on the subject of Griffith last night, refused to commit himself. However, he did not deny the report.

Universal announced several months ago that the company would produce "The Hunchback," with Lon Chaney in the star role. Since this time, no further announcement has been made.

So it seems likely that as Universal intends making a superproduction of the story, they have been casting about for a superdirector.

Wanted to Know

Oh, after all, Bulwer-Lytton isn't such a much! Ann May, on being approached regarding a role in "Last Days of Pompeii," which Irving Cummings is to produce, inquired:

"Oh, were his last days so very sad? And what did he die of?"

More Films Abroad

News of more pictures to be made abroad by American producers is at hand. Roy Neill will produce three pictures in Italy for the Community International Corporation. They will be adapted from "The Conspirators," by Alexander Dumas; "The Marble Faun," by Hawthorne, and "Sands of Destiny," by Guy Bolton.

Miss Ellington Ambitious

That clever young lady producer, Frances Ellington, whose first picture, "Pied Piper," is evoking considerable favorable comment among the exhibitors, has some ambitious bees buzzing in her little bonnet.

These plans are nothing less than the opening of a string of bandbox theaters for children, stretching from the Pacific to the Atlantic. She said yesterday that New York capitalists who had heard the numerous complaints against showing adult stories to childish minds, were back of her in her project, which she hopes will materialize in the near future.

In the meantime Miss Ellington is busy planning her next picture, which will be "Cinderella." Four others, from between the covers of her favorite authors of our childhood, will follow in rapid succession.

Arnold Tamon In It

Arnold Tamon, long a pupil of Theodore Kosloff, has joined Maude Fulton in "The Humming Bird" at the Egan Theater, and will be seen in the role of the Apache mute, Chariot Muet. Mr. Tamon has been appearing in pictures of late with the Lasky organization.

Follies at Ambassador

Gorham's Follies are going to cut up high, wide and handsome at the Ambassador Cocoanut Grove during a special engagement to open Monday night. Doris Eaton, famous Follies beauty, heads the cast. The Gorham chorus is said to be the most beautiful on the Coast, and handsome and bizarre costumes will aid the spectacle to its high kicking success.

Jane Novak Rests

Jane Novak, Chester Bennett star, is taking a short vacation following the completion of "Thelma." She is reading stories diligently, but reports difficulty in finding one thoroughly satisfactory.

EVERYBODY WILL BE THERE

The roster of ticket purchasers for Douglas Fairbanks' interpretation of Robin Hood, which will dedicate Sid Grauman's new Hollywood theater next Wednesday evening resembles a special edition of the blue books of society and the film industry combined. The house was completely sold out before noon of the first day that the tickets were placed on sale, and there were fully as many buyers among society people as among members of the picture profession.

Prominent purchasers from filmdom included Arthur Edeson, who photographed "Robin Hood" and who is giving a little party to twenty friends; Jack Masters, also with a party of twenty; Mack Sennett, party of six; Robert Fairbanks, party of four; Marshal Neilan, party of six; Wallace Beery, party of four; Charles Maigne, party of four; Maurice Campbell, party of four; Lottie Pickford, party of six; Sid Franklin, party of six; "Lefty" Flynn, party of six; J. L. Frothingham, party of six; Harvey Thew, party of four; George Foster Platt, party of four; Jack Holt, party of four; Emmitt Flynn, party of six; Miss Ruth Allen, party of six; Julian Josephson, party of four. Practically every star in the industry will be there, many of them being included in the parties mentioned, while others have bought tickets at the theater box office.

GRAUMAN TO SHOW CLASSIC

The quality of wholesome human interest never has failed to satisfy the public, and this is one of the strongest appeals of "The Old Homestead" which will be presented at Grauman's next week.

Stage plays such as "The Old Homestead," "Shore Acres" and "Way Down East" have retained their popularity through many years, by reason of their heart interest appeal.

The film version has been greatly elaborated and enacted by a cast of great artists, headed by Theodore Roberts, the peer of character actors. The settings are unusually fine, with the village of Ganzey, a great storm scene which wrecks the town, the old homestead farm, the scenes in Macao, China, the New York views all combining to create a beautiful background.

LLOYD GOING TO RECORD LENGTH IN COMEDY

By Edwin Schallert

Lots of excitement.

Harold Lloyd's picture is probably going to turn out to be a six-reeler. One reel more than anything he has done heretofore.

Next thing you know, that boy'll be doing a ten-reeler.

They'll probably know at the Roach studio exactly how long the picture will be Sunday. That is when the final click of the camera will be heard, and thereafter Lloyd and his confreres will be scalp over soles into the cutting of the film.

If the picture is really six reels, it will be a record demolisher. For, I'm told, that it will consist in naught but comedy and thrills. There won't be the vestige of a plot, they say—not even as much as in "Grandma's Boy," which lately overturned a whole barrel of precedents.

The temporary title for the comedy is "Safety Last," which gives a clew as to its character. A further clew is furnished by the fact that the closing scenes will be shot Saturday and Sunday at the downtown store, the Ville de Paris. Not in the hosiery department, nor yet in the lingerie section, but, I believe, largely on the exterior of the building.

Lloyd has been busy on "Safety Last" for fourteen weeks. It has been a difficult stunt picture.

The cutting will require about two weeks more, and several previews will be given during the editing.

At the end of these various operations, Lloyd will set out for New York, to spend a vacation of some six weeks, before starting on his next picture.

"Doctor's Orders," which follows "Grandma's Boy," and immediately precedes "Safety Last," will not show until the end of November. It will probably have a prerelease screening in this city.

On his trip East Lloyd will be accompanied by his father and his brother, Gaylord Lloyd.

Buster Likes Feature Idea

Buster Keaton, it appears, is also a victim of the five-reel comedy microbe. That is the word, at least, from New York, where Buster is at present frolicking.

Most of Buster's recent comedies, like "Cops," which is showing at the Symphony Theater, have been three-reelers, and he thinks that by adding three parts gags and about two parts story to his present recipe for fun features, he can make them just as good in feature length.

Buster and Mrs. Keaton (Natalie Talmadge Keaton) and their youngster, Joseph, will return in about six weeks to the Coast.

Will Refilm "Spoilers"

"The Spoilers," the story of the Alaska gold rush, which contributed more to the fame of Rex Beach than any of his other films, is to be made again. Jesse D. Hampton has secured the screen right to the story through a special arrangement with Rex Beach and will produce the picture at the Metro studios in Hollywood.

"It probably will take a month to secure the organization I want," said Mr. Hampton. "I have in mind the director and cast whom I believe will be capable of making the new version of this great story. I have been in constant communication with Rex Beach and he will come on from New York as soon as actual production begins. He is eager to be right on the field during the filming of his story again."

"The Spoilers" will be the first of a series of special pictures which Mr. Hampton will film for Metro.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE IS SHAKY

Professionals Sway Trend of Specialty Market; Peace News Lacks Influence

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The movement of prices in the stock market today was one of decidedly nervous character. Just as on previous days of the week the atmosphere was charged with vague rumors of special distributions which might be made and while certain of the high-priced issues made substantial gains, the market as a whole was not one of pronounced strength, price changes in many instances being confined to small fractions. It was decidedly a specialty market, depending almost entirely by operations of the professional element, so far as the market in general was concerned, there was no particular influence at work that would make for a firmer price level. The signing of the armistice protocol in Asia Minor was a happening that failed to have any direct influence on the course of prices, if in the most particularly strange since there has been any or less of an ignoring of foreign news recently.

The whole tone, of greater moment as related to the market itself was the improved technical position as a result of the decline in prices on Tuesday. At that time might there may have been a number of professionals to put prices down by short selling, the main response to the reaction came through by professional in the form of a small demand.

The reaction which came about as a result followed the undertone, to such an extent that the immediate favorable news made it easy to push prices forward, especially as the latter part was of a character designed to further the ends of those speculating for the rise.

Mexican Petroleum again rose to a price well above 200 on a heavy volume of trading, and the net gain for the day in this highly speculative issue was 10 15 on purchasing in anticipation of day particularly favorable developments as related to the company itself. Buying of Standard Oil of New Jersey, on the other hand, was influenced directly by a report which persisted throughout the day that a 400 for cent stock dividend would be declared by the company. The declaration of this dividend was speculated at the close of the market. Standard of New Jersey being the leading oil company in the standard oil group to declare a stock dividend this year. The other stock dividends declared this year were those of Standard of Kentucky, Standard of New York, Standard of Indiana and Standard of California.

All of the financial interests showed strength today. The foreign exchanges were for the most part steady, although there was a slight increase in the demand sterling. Call money ruled at 6 per cent, as on previous days of the week. The foreign exchange market opening at the close showed a loss of 3-64 to 1-32 of a cent in sterling, francs and lire, and a gain of 1-64 to 1-32 of a cent in Belgian francs, guilders and marks. Sterling was quoted at 3.76 3-64, a new high price on the present rally. At the close, sterling was quoted at 3.76 3-64 to 3.76 5-64. The undertone of the market on London was strong and the continental rates were inclined to a somewhat lower level today, the quotations for francs, guilders and lire advancing while sterling eased off slightly.

The record of car loading for the week ended September 20 gave a further interesting indication of the recovery which is taking place in business. The total loadings were 1,011,561 cars, a gain of 12,000 cars as compared with the preceding week, and a level that is within 3 per cent of the record loadings for all time, established during the week of Oct. 15, 1920. The total for the week ended with September 20 was 10,000 cars as compared with the corresponding week last year, and 50,000 cars as compared with the corresponding week last year.

BOARD OF TRADE TO OPPOSE GRAIN ACT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 11. — The Chicago Board of Trade, with at least the moral support of other grain exchanges in the United States, and the executive backing of the Grain Dealers' National Association, will take immediate court action to test the revised Capper-Tincher bill in the Federal courts.

The law, which is to become operative November 1, has been declared invalid in the opinion of Henry S. Robbins, counsel for the Board of Trade, who won the recent case before the United States Supreme Court when the previous regulative act was held to be void.

President MacDougal of the Board of Trade, said yesterday that the court action, which members expect will be in the form of a petition for an injunction, is to be undertaken following a board of directors' meeting when the opinion of counsel was presented.

Mr. MacDougal said there was so much difference of opinion as to the validity of the law, it would be to the interest of all the grain exchanges in the country to hasten a test in the courts. He declared the directors regarded this as a "patriotic duty" and that they felt that the farmers were being misled, blinded to their own interests, while the government was becoming more bureaucratic.

Bankers Term Continental Conditions "Poison"

Policy of Aloofness Said to be Best Now

Cancellation Propaganda Overdone, is Claim

BY C. B. EVANS
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—There is more and more of a disposition among intelligent people in business to think home things and let abroad alone; "it is poison over there," says one. Even in the matter of international exchange, where ordinarily there is much speculation, in which many amateurs have indulged, there are times, notably this very day, when the experts themselves show much hesitation. One dealer said today "both New York and Chicago are afraid of foreign trade."

It is still true that there is constant speculation in millions of marks among those who know little or nothing about such things, but in the aggregate amount as converted into dollars this is almost negligible. The estimate of some authorities that we have been largely paying Germany's bills by buying her marks at high prices these many months, even years, has made an impression on the minds of the more intelligent and they are holding up. There is a good deal of legitimate buying to meet rather large purchases of merchandise in Germany, but even that is small as against the sales of currency still being issued in the Fatherland, for the German mark has reached the lowest point in its history this week.

This buying of German goods must appeal to students of the subject as significant and as threatening a still further decrease in our balance of trade, for the Germans are poor and will push their products in this direction to the fullest extent possible.

FEAR EUROPE

But the dominant element in the trade in continental exchange just now is fear of unfortunate political happenings. It is growing on the American mind that, while we all have a lot of the savage left in our natures, the European is a much more highly finished article in the line of savagery than the American. His instinct of robbery has developed itself into keener diplomatic quality and the more advanced physical weapons that are used in war. All this is the European polish which the American fears, while paying the greatest deference to the accomplishments of scholars and scientific men on the other side of the Atlantic.

Many an expression that one hears on the street indicates that the simple Yankee is not altogether dull with respect to the propaganda now going on in regard to the cancellation of the inter-government debts. "They are overdoing it," is a common remark. Suggestion in a quiet way has been going on for many months and now there is more open talk. McKenna has been here and Clemenceau is coming. The remission of these debts, if it comes, must come gradually and through a long process of thought on the part of people who now say "of course those debts must be paid." The idea must be worked into members of Congress.

MEN AND BUSINESS

Only 100 Working Days a Year in Construction Industry; Attempt to Remedy Condition

BY RICHARD SPILLANE
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

PHILADELPHIA (Pa.) Oct. 10. In the construction industry of America today the work days average less than 100 a year. Such is the declaration of the Engineering News Record in the first of a series of four articles dealing with wasted time in the second largest department of the nation's business. It puts the efficiency in the utilization of time in engineering works of construction at about 25 per cent, certainly not more than 30 per cent, and declared correction of this condition is a task for nation-wide effort on the part of engineers and contractors.

As a general proposition, the News Record declares, construction is halted from October to May of each year. "Winter work is attempted only to a considerable extent in building construction, underground work and heavy excavation. Other kinds of work are rarely undertaken unless in emergencies. In fact, effort is made to confine construction operations to work that can be completed within the recognized working season.

This winter idleness is the largest item of waste. To it add Sundays and holidays, rain, and mud interruptions, machine delays, transportation delays, labor turnover, inefficiency, strikes, accidents, sickness, plant shifts, yearly reorganization of forces, engineering delays, illogical practices in letting contracts, etc.

Cessation of construction in winter is prompted, the News Record points out, by the fact that cold weather, particularly frost, hinders certain processes, makes work uncomfortable, and generally adds to the cost. But, it insists, the processes which are actually prevented by cold weather are few. If the owners will pay the extra charges any kind of construction can be carried on in winter. But owners as a rule have been disinclined to meet the extra cost and the habit has developed among engineers and contractors of accepting winter as a closed season.

As winter work is not impracticable, but is halted because of cost, this reduces the problem of extending the construction period through the winter months to one of economics. The truth of this assertion is furnished by the fact that wherever the value of winter construction is established means of carrying it on are found without especial difficulty. A readjustment of the industry as a whole can be effected, it is urged, if it can be shown to be a fact that it pays generally to continue work in winter instead of letting plant and capital remain idle and the owners be delayed in getting the use of the improvement.

It urges (1) investigation to determine the kinds of work which lend themselves to winter performance; (2) methods and equipment for conducting construction in cold weather, involving consideration of housing, heating of site, and materials, substitution of machines for manual labor, etc.; (3) cost of winter work compared with summer work; (4) limit where extra cost of winter construction ceases to be profitable. Offsetting this extra cost is the saving through reduction of idle time of plant and organization and the service the completed structure would return to the owner.

Many suggestions are made for reducing the delays in highway construction. Among them are methods for shedding rain or drying surface mud. Others are for the elimination of delay in delivery of material, etc.

It is pointed out that double shifts, night work, bonus wage payments and such are not preventives of lost time. They help to utilize more efficiently only the time worked. Methods of utilizing the time worked, the News Record points out, have had intensive study while methods of finding more time for work have been ignored.

In closing its first article the publication says:

"It is not to be assumed that the construction industry has done nothing toward the improvements which help reduce lost time. The efforts have, however, been largely individual and the performances isolated. What value they have is ineffective because the results are not collected and analyzed. Concerted, purposeful effort is now demanded. It can be made now with more chance of success than ever before because engineers, contractors and manufacturers are well organized nationally and locally and possess co-ordinating and advisory organizations such as the Associated General Contractors, the American Society of Civil Engineers and the American Construction Council."

One thing certain is that this presentment by the Engineering News Record will make construction men think.

And certainly an industry in which the working days of the year are less than 100 requires earnest thought.

EXCHANGES TO CLOSE TODAY

Stock exchanges, banks and other financial institutions throughout the nation are closed today in observance of Columbus Day. As a result, the usual comprehensive market reports of The Times will not appear tomorrow. By way of exception to the general rule, the Los Angeles Grain Exchange and the Los Angeles Produce Exchange have ruled not to observe the holiday. The daily produce report of the United States Bureau of Markets will make its regular appearance.

An Attractive Investment
Strengthened by the New Tariff

THE new tariff law which increases the duty on Cuban sugar imports has materially strengthened the position of the Western beet sugar producers; and this in turn should give greater market strength to their securities.

The 7% bonds of the Holly Sugar Corporation, because of the ample security back of them, and the high earning potentialities of the Company, are very attractive at today's price.

Fuel Oil Demand Rejuvenates Petroleum Industry; Bonds Bring Premium; Mines are Active

One of the major reasons accounting for the recovery in the petroleum industry is the growing use of fuel oil. Public utility plants, naval and merchant ships, factories, textile mills, etc., are turning largely from the use of coal to fuel oil, and this sudden development is responsible for the fact that consumption of the fuel grade is now outrunning production.

The Mexican oil companies have been supplying a substantial part of the total amount used by consumers in the United States, but with the serious decline in production of crude oil from the Mexican pools, the eastern markets have been turning to California for a considerable part of their requirements.

Statistics compiled by the Harbor Commission show that the value of fuel oil exported through Los Angeles Harbor for the first four months of this year destined for domestic ports, aggregated $56,362. The month to month figures indicate that the total volume is increasing as the Mexican exports decrease, and the consumer demand for fuel oil increase. January was a heavy month with 13,948 barrels exported, and during February and March the amount decreased from the January total, but March was above February. April figures returned close to the January total, and while no recent data are obtainable, it is generally believed that a large part of the surplus stocks that California companies have had on hand is finding its way to eastern markets.

The rapid growth in the use of fuel oil has caused speculation in the oil industry as to the possibility of fuel oil displacing gasoline as the chief petroleum product.

The expansion in its utility has even surprised oil men who have worked for years to find some outlet for their heavy stocks of fuel oil that grow larger with each barrel of crude oil refined. Marketing companies were not able to discover much relief until the advent of the coal strike; and then disgruntled industrial consumers who saw prospects of recurring strikes went to the expense of outfitting their plants with fuel-oil-burning appliances.

Public utility power plants have diminished their coal consumption to around 2,434,061 tons. Power plants in New England have increased their oil consumption to 122,772 barrels, from 80,340 in the period between March and June. Public utility enterprises in the Southern States have shown a similar increase. Copper smelting plants, irrigation works, pumping plants, office buildings and paper mills are displaying similar growth in the consumption of fuel oil.

California fields will be expected to furnish a considerable portion of the supply that is evidently needed. The districts where the great bulk is produced are those of California, Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Mexico. Trade estimates state that the approximate fuel oil contents of the crudes are 78 per cent in California, 55 per cent in the Mid-Continent fields, 60 per cent on the Gulf Coast, 44 per cent for the Cushing crude and 81 per cent for Mexican crude.

The issue is divided into four groups under the classification of $40,000 sewage disposal bonds maturing from 1923 to 1942, inclusive; $117,000 fire department bonds maturing from 1921 to 1931, inclusive; $80,000 Arroyo Park bonds due from 1923 to 1930, inclusive, and $160,000 for additional sewage disposal purposes with maturities from 1923 to 1930, inclusive.

NEW GAS MAIN

Insuring Torrance of a gas supply sufficient to meet its greatly increased household and manufacturing needs, the Southern California Gas Company will start within the next ten days to lay a gas main between Compton and Torrance. The demand of the eleven big factories in Torrance for gas has grown to an extent where the present supply has proven inadequate.

The Long Beach line, which taps the Santa Fe and Signal Hill mains also, now runs into Compton. Gas from this line will be diverted to Torrance. The gas company expects to have the new main completed within sixty days.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Heavy buying of shares of industrial companies holding large surpluses of further reports of melon cutting again featured the stock market today. The main price tendency in which was again upward. Rails, which have been lagging behind in the last few days, became quite active today and some substantial gains were recorded by the high-grade shares.

Immediately after the market closed, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey announced its intention of declaring a 400 per cent stock dividend payable in shares of the present $25 par value, the capitalization of the company to be increased from $110,000,000 to $435,000,000. The stock fluctuated today within a radius of 5¼ points, closing at 2.36¼, a net gain of ½ point on the day, but 14 below yesterday's high. Mexican Petroleum closed at 1.99, a net gain of 5¼ points, after having established a new high for the year at 205¼. Both Pan-American issues also created new tops on rumors of extra dividend distribution. Other oils moved within comparatively narrow limits.

Overnight announcement of a 75 per cent stock dividend in National Biscuit was about as expected, the stock closing at 2.08, the same as yesterday, after having been run up to 2.11¼. Announcement of a 50 per cent stock dividend in American Radiator apparently was disappointing to speculative interests, that stock showing a net loss of more than 3 points on the day.

Shares of coal-carrying companies benefitted most from the buying demonstration staged in railroad shares, gains of ¾ to 1¾ being made by Lackawanna, Reading, Lehigh Valley, Norfolk and Western. Grangers also made good progress, notably Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Atchison, Southern Pacific and Great Northern preferred.

Steel prices were forced down during the afternoon reaction, but improved fractionally later in response to publication of weekly trade reviews showing a steady increase in production. Equipments also sold at slightly higher levels.

National Lead was boosted to higher ground, while Studebaker was active at steadily rising prices. Strength of United States Industrial Alcohol was based on revived reports that a Standard Oil Company was negotiating for its entire output. Sugar stocks responded favorably to the increased prices for the refined product. U. S. Realty broke about 7 points upon announcement that no dividend would be paid and that a preferred stock issue would be sold to retire debenture bonds now outstanding, but it rallied later, closing at a net loss of 3¾ points. American Car, Beech Magneto, May Department Stores and Fisher Body also were conspicuously weak. Fifteen shares of Atlantic Refining Company stock were sold at 1405 a share or $105 below the previous closing price.

Total sales were 1,188,000 shares.

An easier tone was noted in the call money market, the opening and renewal rate of 5½ per cent easing to 4½ before the closing. Time money and commercial paper rates were somewhat firmer, largely because of seasonal interior requirements.

These well-known Southern California business men constitute the directorate of—

Securities Loan and Discount Company

Frank P. Cooper, Fiscal Agent

The opportunity to participate in the enlarged capitalization of this company places at your disposal an investment in the most lucrative activity in the entire field of legitimate finance—THE DISCOUNTING, PURCHASE AND SALE OF FIRST MORTGAGES, TRUST DEEDS, ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE, BUILDING LOANS, REAL ESTATE CONTRACTS, MOTOR CONTRACTS, LEASE CONTRACTS AND ACCEPTANCES.

The experience of this company fully warrants the conviction that it will earn for its stockholders this same handsome return.

A most lucrative field for this company's activities is found in the handling of trust deeds and mortgages, acceptances and lease contracts. The gain depends on the rapid turn-over of money.

Another fundamental need for an institution of this character and a great opportunity for most profitable operation rise out of the extensive use of the partial payment method in purchasing all kinds of commodities.

Vast Field

Furniture, household appliances, homes and automobiles—these are but a few of the things bought on the time payment plan. As a result there is a vast quantity of commercial paper and accounts receivable created which constitutes excellent security and which can be bought at a profitable discount and then made the basis of rapid, continuous and highly lucrative turn-over of the money.

Keep in mind that the ultimate security—the house, the automobile or the furniture—becomes a better and better security every month because the indebtedness against it is being steadily reduced.

One exceedingly attractive feature is that the company requires no heavy investment in buildings or equipment, since it is a financial and not an industrial institution. It requires no large personnel, and but a comparatively slight overhead.

The Company's activities are not speculative in any sense. It buys no stocks or speculative securities of any kind, but deals strictly in first mortgages, trust deeds, real estate contracts, lease contracts and the commercial paper of fully accredited and well-established business enterprises in the Pacific Coast territory, offering fully adequate security.

Attractive Preferred Share Offering

Securities Loan and Discount Company is capitalized for $3,000,000. This is divided into 15,000 shares of 8% cumulative preferred stock, par value $100.00, and 15,000 shares of common stock, par value $100.00.

The preferred stock is entitled to dividends payable semiannually at the rate of 8% per annum, is preferred as to assets and dividends and is tax exempt in California and the dividends are free from normal Federal income tax.

In order to rapidly increase its working capital the Company is offering its preferred and common stock in units consisting of TWO SHARES of preferred stock and ONE SHARE of common stock at par value of the preferred stock alone—or $200—for a total par value of $300.

While the preferred stock conforms to all the requirements of a conservative investment, the common stock may easily attain a far greater intrinsic value.

After considering the personnel of this company's directorate—after being acquainted with the success achieved by the Motor Securities Company which has been absorbed by the Securities Loan and Discount Company, after investigating the vast field for its operations with eight departments handling eight different kinds of money commodities, we believe that the investment opportunity which it offers has no parallel in point of safety, plus handsome return, among securities now being offered in this market.

Complete information on every detail of the company's organization, history, present condition and the splendid prospects for the future will be furnished you upon request.

Barrington Says:

When you invest money in anything that has no definite form of increase in value, your security grows poorer from day to day. This is true even in the case of a First Mortgage. That is why lenders on mortgage require so much margin, because in the course of three to five years property loaned on may depreciate in value and the lender must always have plenty of margin for security.

Trust Deeds, however, are paid off in monthly installments and their security therefore is getting better each month. The payments are received faster than the property depreciates. That is one reason why they are a safe form of investment.

If you know how to buy these securities, how to trade in them so you can take advantage of the turn-over of capital, you can make a lot of money, but you don't how of course—even though you may think you do. For argument's sake however, suppose you do; not being a corporation you cannot possibly make the money trading in them a corporation can. Therefore, if you want to get some of the great profit there is in this business, you can do so only through being a stockholder in an institution that specializes in this class of security. We do.

Send for our Booklet — It will tell you All about us—Who we are and what we are.

Bryan says, "The country's property now. Don't wait." I offer you an unusual opportunity of investing in California country property on the basis of [illegible] and development by purchasing [illegible] that have been [illegible] in The Imperial Valley Farm Land Association, who own in excess of 10,000 acres South and Imperial Valley, land growth in California and extending up to Klamath, including the unsold portion of Grand View Irrigation. [illegible] among and early vegetables are now the big paying crops of the [illegible]. These lands are immediately adjacent to these crops. The best [illegible] in California land will, no doubt, start in Imperial Valley; and [illegible] near the purchaser will [illegible] substantially in the coming land [illegible]. I am and other are there at $[illegible]. The present value is much in excess of this amount.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Oil stocks on the Los Angeles Exchange appear to have had their period of marked activity, and have now subsided into a less animated state. Gains are fractional, and only the Union Oil Associates and Union Oil stocks are receiving any amount of attention, followed closely by General Petroleum. Both of the Union stocks sold at 155 1-2 yesterday, a gain of 1 1-4 points for the stock of the Associates and a negative result for Union Oil shares. General Petroleum acquired 1-2 point on the day's trading, the Midway Northern was up 1 point. Candelaria Silver was under pressure, and reacted to 57, a loss of 4 cents. Richmond Mining was sold at 25 cents; Telluride at 34 1-2 and Oatman United at 22 cents. United Eastern was up 3 cents, selling at $1.63.

A moderate amount of Goodyear Tire and Rubber preferred was liquidated at prices ranging around 73. Southern California Edison sommon was quoted at 108.

As today is Columbus Day, the Los Angeles market, in common with the other exchanges of the country, will not be open.

Grain Market Loses Slightly on Peace News

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Grain values moved up sharply after easing slightly early on the signing of the peace treaty in the Near East in ostensibly with a decline of 1¾@2¼c in wheat in Liverpool.

The surplus was taken off the market by the strong commission houses on the break, buying orders were uncovered. Wheat stopped its decline from the low, corn rose 1¼@1¾. The rise was on a reaction due to profit-taking and covering up for the holiday. Wheat finished with a net gain of ¾@1¾d and corn ¾@¾c. Oats were ¼ higher to ¼ lower and rye up 1@1¼c.

A good part of the buying of wheat was based on the belief that peace would be a strong bullish influence as it would remove the nervousness which has been a factor in financial and business circles in this country and abroad for some time past. Shorts were free buyers at Winnipeg as well as here and cash grain sold readily all markets with premiums advancing in the Southwest and in the Northwest due to milling demand.

An increase of 25,000,000 bushels in the world's available supply was largely in Canada and Argentina, but had little influence on values. The trade also ignored the reduction of 82,000,000 qtrs in the estimated world's crop as compared with the September 1 month ago. Export demand was restricted by inability to secure grain from the West due to transportation conditions.

December corn sold at a new high on the present upturn and the deferred delivering in new ground. Country offerings were light at excellent cash and offerings were light at times with a large number of stop loss orders caught on the bulge. Prices worked up to 67¾c and closed at 67¾c on evening up for the holiday and on profit-taking. Bullish sentiment, nevertheless, was the dominating feature in the news that attracted attention. Premiums on cash corn were ¼@1c better. Country offerings were moderate and 260 cars were quickly absorbed.

Heavy hedge selling of oats narrowed the discount under May to ¼c at the last. Strength in other grains was the main influence, but the belief prevails that prices for oats are selling too low. Shipping demand fairly good. Cash oats ¼@¾c better at completion with December, 39¾@40c; May, 42¾@43c. Receipts, 111 cars.

Rye showed more strength than other grains, with fair buying (if December by cash interests, mostly commission houses) of 2¼c taken to the East. The two northwestern markets had 260 cars.

MILD BATTLE OF HOOSIERS

between these two men who fight without rancor along normal political lines, the answer is that Mr. Beveridge will win, but that "he'll know he's been in a fight."

An impartial appraisement of the contest would be that if the rival party managers succeeded in arousing greater popular interest than appears at present, the normal balances between the two parties will be restored.

Most of the hysteria encouraged by war conditions seems to have been squeezed out of the Indiana political atmosphere, and, in common with other States, has left the voters wearied of the stock arguments, tricks and drives. If the private admissions of opposing managers are correct, it requires a salesmanship of no mean order to "sell" political wares in Indiana.

The fact seems to be that a vast majority of the Hoosiers are tired of both parties, and see little actual difference between them. In the absence of something more promising, the easy influence of habit probably will prevail. The most sanguine of Republican partisans admit the probability of a "light vote." He will be fully satisfied if Mr. Beveridge wins by from 20,000 to 50,000. The plurality of 185,000 for Mr. Harding two years ago does not figure in their calculations this year. The Democrats assert they will be able to roll up from 25,000 to 40,000 for Mr. Ralston.

HOUSE SEATS GONE

One thing appears to be reasonably sure. There will be from three to six Democrats in the next House. There are none at present. From this the Democratic managers argue there is certain to be a much larger vote for Mr. Ralston than for Republicans contended at present. The registration which is now progressing has shown a slump in the old time normal Republican districts and an increase in those that were Democratic districts before the war. Women citizens are expected to divide on "regular partisan lines." The managers and candidates are making intense love to them, so to speak—and the women are copying encouraging the flattering attentions.

The most impressive feature of the campaigning by both parties is that the two candidates for the Senate and the twenty-six contenders for the House are not so reckless in committing themselves to specific pledges as they did two years ago. The support of groups asserting special privileges is invited, but candidates are chary in promising concession in return.

Mr. Beveridge, whose course in meeting issues was established years ago, is not afraid of the tariff. He is an ardent protectionist, and is assuring his audiences that the new tariff measure will ultimately work out to the advantage of the farmers and industrialists of the State. Mr. Ralston is hammering away at the "economic bludgeon," as Republican Senator Moses described the tariff bill.

BACKS ADMINISTRATION

In meeting the attacks of Mr. Ralston and other Democratic candidates and spellbinders on the Harding administration, Mr. Beveridge has completely dissipated the charge of some of his Republican critics that he is not in sympathy with it. In a recent speech he said:

"A Republican Congress and President have already saved nearly $4,000,000,000, the expenditure of which, after the war was over, was called for by plans of the old regime, then as now, affiliated with billionaire anti-wastephobia."

Meeting Mr. Ralston's advocacy of the League of Nations (which figures only casually in the campaign) Mr. Beveridge has left no doubt in the minds of Indiana voters where he stands on that project. He has dismissed it with this terse statement: "As to foreign affairs politically—keep out."

Mr. Ralston charges in every speech that Mr. Beveridge does not approve of the four-power treaty negotiated by the armament conference convened by President Harding. His charge presumably is correct, because Mr. Beveridge will not discuss it.

Feudists in the Indiana Republican family who do not like Mr. Beveridge, for various ancient reasons, covertly insinuate that he intends to make war on the President if elected. That may or may not be so. But up to date the most partisan of Mr. Beveridge's critics has not been able to put his finger on a single act or utterance to justify such a statement.

HARDING SATISFIED

Other Republican feudists—and there are many in Hoosierdom—have seized on the omission to prove that Mr. Beveridge is "no longer a Progressive, but has turned stand-patter." Mr. Beveridge is conducting his fight his own way. That the President is satisfied with it was shown by his request that Mr. Beveridge run into Ohio to help out the party there.

Senator Watson is making speeches every day for Mr. Beveridge and not sulking, as some Republican critics predicted he would.

Senator New, who lost the nomination to Mr. Beveridge is expected to respond to the appeal the President is said to have made to him. Democratic predictions that Watson and New "may talk for Beveridge, but will knife him at the polls," seems to be based on hope and conversation.

Every agency of organized politics is being recruited by the managers of both parties. Their mutual complaint concerns money. The Republicans admit that business sources are "sore at the tariff and resentful over taxation."

Former Senator Taggart interprets the attitude of Republican business men as reflecting sympathy for the Democratic candidates.

American Owners to Obey, Ask Aid for Subsidy

ships will be placed at such a great disadvantage that national aid must be immediately given if the privately owned American ships now operating are to be maintained and the merchant marine and foreign trade developed," the directors' statement continues.

"The loss in profits to American ships from the sale of liquors will be inconsequential, and really is not a substantial factor in the situation. The serious loss will come from the driving of passengers to foreign passenger ships, not only in the trans-Atlantic trades, but more particularly in the trans-Pacific, South and Central American and West Indian trades, where all ships customarily touch at intermediate foreign ports.

WILL AROUSE ANIMUS

"Passengers between such ports will travel on the ships of foreign lines on which they can obtain their customary wines and other beverages. If traveling by American ships they will have to forego the opportunity of obtaining such beverages in an open or lawful manner, and either deprive themselves of them or resort to subterfuge. This is certain to arouse animus against American ships and driving the passengers to foreign ships will make those ships the instruments by which the trade of our competitors will be advanced and developed."

Virtually all officials of foreign-owned lines announced it would be their policy to "live up to the law, no matter what the cost," and to await the outcome of the Cunard Line's test of the validity of Mr. Daugherty's ruling.

P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, said such would be the policy of his line, although he believed "it is our legal right to carry wines and liquors as stores to be consumed during the voyage."

ALREADY LOSING TRADE

Shipping Board craft already are beginning to experience a serious falling off in passenger trade, said Franklin, although he would not ascribe the slump to the prospect of arid voyages.

"The fact remains, however, that in the last few days cancellations of reservations have been coming in thick and fast," he said. He named two small ships, each of which carries about 100 passengers, which lost from fifteen to twenty passengers by last-minute cancellations. On the larger ships the percentage of cancellation has risen by leaps and bounds in the last day or two, he disclosed.

"It is becoming more and more difficult for us to compete with foreign ships," said Franklin. "Every month something new pops up. The last was the tariff, so now we can't even paint a ship in a foreign port without paying duty on it when the vessels reaches the United States."

ACTION EXPECTED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Decision of the Cunard Line to seek an injunction restraining the government from enforcing its ban against the entrance into American ports of all ships bringing alcoholic liquors was expected by Department of Justice officials to be the initial step in the fight of foreign shipowners against the recent liquor ruling of Atty.-Gen. Daugherty, it was said tonight.

Officials retterated their readiness to meet the issue both as regards an injunction and in the matter of a test case which, they said, undoubtedly would be instituted, notwithstanding action on the restraining order.

LIBERTY OR BUST, SAYS PACHYDERM

Big Circus Elephant Free for Second Time Eludes Her Pursuers

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WILMINGTON (N. C.) Oct. 11. The big circus elephant that effected a second escape from her keeper here last night disappeared today in the semitropical jungle along the Brunswick River, where residents said there was little chance of her capture.

In her second break for liberty the elephant swam the Cape Fear River and at latest reports to the Wilmington police had penetrated far into the swamps lying between the Cape Fear and Brunswick. Three keepers went in pursuit, but the vegetation is so dense and the danger from alligators so great that their excursion encountered constantly increasing obstacles.

The big animal first became frightened by the barking of dogs when she was being loaded into her cage Monday night. She charged her tormentors through several back yards and then took off for the Greenfield Lake amusement park, where she was found stuck fast in a bog. She apparently welcomed rescue, but after a few minutes her previous taste of freedom proved too much for her, and she broke away again.

No one was injured as a result of the elephant's two breaks for liberty, but the property damage is estimated at several thousand dollars. On her way she made free with fences, lawns and flower beds, and toppled over several parked automobiles.

GIANT ARMY AIRSHIP NOW AT EL PASO

C-2, Buffeted by Dangerous Heat Waves, Was Forced to Land in Desert

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO, Oct. 11.—Buffeted by heat waves as dangerous to her structure as hurricane waves to a ship at sea, the giant Army dirigible C-2 landed at Fort Bliss this afternoon from Ross Field, Arcadia, Cal., having made but one stop during the 750-mile trip. The flight was made in sixteen hours' actual flying time, according to Maj. H. A. Strauss, commanding officer. The only stop made was near Cochise, Ariz., where the ship was forced to land on account of trouble with the gasoline feed pipes.

The first 550 miles of the trip were made in exactly nine hours, according to Maj. Strauss, who said the entire trip would have been made in about twelve hours if it had not been necessary to land.

The course of the Southern Pacific Railroad was followed. After arrival the ship was housed in a large hangar at Fort Bliss, and a detachment of men from the Twelfth Observation Squadron assigned in making repairs and regassing the two balloon nets with hydrogen.

The dirigible will remain at Fort Bliss for several days. Maj. Strauss said that the time for leaving would depend altogether on the weather.

HUGE BANK MERGER MAY BE EXPECTED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—Negotiations for a merger of the Mechants' National Bank of San Francisco and the chain of banks controlled by J. M. Henderson, Sacramento banker, are actually under way, according to a statement today by William E. Johnson, a vice-president of the Merchants' Bank. The Henderson banks are located in Sacramento, Oakdale, Fresno and Modesto, and credited with having total assets in excess of $50,000,000.

"The merger has not yet been effected," Johnson said, "and may fall through. Although announcement of the negotiations was premature, they are actually under way. The headquarters of the merged institution, if amalgamation is effected, will be in San Francisco. It is impossible to say at this point just what will be the outcome of the negotiations."

William W. Jones, vice-president and cashier, and Willard F. Williamson, an attorney, are credited with being the biggest stockholders in the Merchants' Bank, with W. F. Summers, president of the institution, also holding a large amount of the bank's securities.

All of the Henderson banks are conducted under the name of the Sacramento-San Joaquin Bank with the exception of Fresno, where the bank is known as the Union National.

FLASHES

rate the Warde family tree. Frederick Warde's father was an actor, his son Ernest is an actor and picture director, and now Ernest Warde's daughter Phillis is taking to the business like a duck to water.

Miss Warde yesterday registered at the Egan School, and hopes to come forth a full-fledged Juliet.

Song for Wanda Hawley

Charles L. Johnson, song writer who woos the muse in Kansas City, has broken forth into fox-trot music. Wanda Hawley is the inspiration, and in order that there may be no mistake, the composition has been named "Wanda."

Plans are now afoot to make use of "Wanda" as a part of the musical score for "Nobody's Money," a Paramount picture starring Wallace Reid, in which Miss Hawley plays the leading feminine role.

De Jari Among Us

How these dark, fascinating foreign stars do intrigue us, these days. Now it is a French actress known as De Jari, who has come to the United States to appear in pictures. She is in New York at present, but is expected to come West.

De Jari is known as the idol of the Paris flappers, so she must be perfectly lovely. She has been imported by the Amalgamated Exchanges of America, and will be presented for the first time in this country in their production, "The Madonna in Chains," by Edward Owins Towne.

Rogers's Tongue with Selznick

Now look out for something snappy! Will Rogers is saying things for Selznick News.

Leo Carrillo to Migrate

Leo Carrillo, star of "Mike Angelo," Edward Locke's new play at the Mason, is looking up his winter underclothing preparatory to a long season in New York.

According to the New York production plans of Oliver Morosco, Carrillo will open the fall season of the Morosco Holding Company at the Booth Theater. He will go direct to New York following the close of his engagement here.

The next Morosco New York venture will be James T. Powers in "Somebody's Luggage," and then will come "A Sporting Thing to Do," by Thompson Buchanan, produced here at the Auditorium.

Carmel Myers with Niblo

Carmel Myers is the newest star to be engaged for the cast of "The Famous Mrs. Fair," Fred Niblo's first all-star special for Louis B. Mayer. She will have the role of Angy Brice, a charming young lady who, while not quite a vamp, is nevertheless responsible for Mr. Fair's periodical wanderings from the broad highway of domestic duty.

CONVICTS RATE VILLAINS

Richard Barthelmess, whose latest release, "The Bond Boy," is now playing at the Kinema Theater, says nothing will ever induce him to portray a villain.

"I was never so impressed with the fact that nobody loves the villain as on the occasion of a visit to Sing Sing. I went there to see the convicts at a motion-picture show. The film was a melodrama, in which they had one of those old-fashioned villains.

"In one of the big scenes where the villain temporarily triumphs every one of the 1700 men in the hall hissed and showed that he would like to do him bodily harm. When finally virtue triumphed and the villain was downed by the strong arm of the law, everyone of the men enthusiastically applauded."

"The Bond Boy," is from the pen of George W. Ogden and was directed by Henry King.

WALLY VAN IN "DRIVIN' FOOL"

Regent Pictures, producers of "The Drivin' Fool," a comedy drama of thrilling automobile action, has secured studio space from the Christie Film Company, and work on the special production will begin immediately, states E. D. Newman, head of the recently organized company.

Bob Thornby, who has recently been producing his own pictures, has been engaged to direct "The Drivin' Fool." Wally Van, for many years a featured comedy star, is playing the title role. The supporting cast will be announced within a few days, states Thornby, who is preparing to shoot the first scenes as soon as sets can be constructed.

HOW HE WROTE "THE FAST MAIL."

"It never rains but it pours," and Lincoln J. Carter, the "father of melodrama" in America, who wrote, among other things, "The Fast Mail," which started its third week at the Alhambra Theater yesterday, is glad it is so. Rain laid the foundation for the Carter fortune, and made it possible for the playwright to retire to a place he has down on the Elkhart River, near Goshen, Ind., where he raises flowers and takes off his hat every time it rains.

Recently Mr. Carter left his flowers and the Elkhart River and went to New York to see how his old play, "The Fast Mail," looked on the screen. The famous old thriller was then enjoying a prosperous run on Broadway.

"I just wanted to see how the melodrama of today compared with those of twenty-five years ago," he said. While in a reminiscent mood Mr. Carter told how he came to write "The Fast Mail," his first play.

"I wrote it in a hall bedroom on a wash stand under a coal-oil lamp," he said. "And I was just 19 years old. I wrote it because for three weeks I had not received any salary from the theatrical company I was traveling with as property boy, and I decided I would write and produce a play of my own.

"I made a quarter of a million dollars with 'The Fast Mail,'" said Mr. Carter, mildly, "and I think Lewis Morrison, to whom I had once offered a half interest for $750, regretted that he had not accepted my proposition."

ROME WILL BURN ON LOEW SCREEN

Roman history in its most spectacular days lives again in the William Fox picture, "Nero," which will be shown at Loew's State Theater starting Sunday.

Nero, the villain of the superspectacle, was the original Roman high-roller. Invested with the imperial purple at the age of 16, inside of fifteen years he had exhausted all the pleasures of Rome—then mistress of the civilized world—and had become so unpopular that he killed himself to escape his own troops.

Nero had been brought up in the strict old Roman school, which scorned all luxury and idealized a soldier's life, but possessed the "artistic temperament." He studied music, painting, sculpture and poetry, and fancied himself as a singer. His mother, tried to keep him to the old Roman traditions, and early married him to an aristocratic lady, but Nero fell in love with a freedwoman. His mother refused to permit him to divorce his wife in order to marry his sweetheart, and he sent both his wife and mother into exile.

Poppaea Sabina, who belonged to one of the great Roman families, but was even wickeder and more unscrupulous than the Emperor, schemed boldly to ensnare Nero. One of the sensational scenes of "Nero" shows how she literally threw herself at the Emperor, who thereupon sent her husband a jeweled dagger, with the suggestion that he kill himself with it.

FIVE FEET TALL— TOO BIG FOR JOB

Harry Depp, who is just five feet, one inch tall, was handed quite a thrill the other day.

All his life he's been more or less of a runt, and was always too small for motion picture jobs. But when they wanted a jockey for Gloria Swanson's latest, "My American Wife," they called for Depp, but rejected him again—he was too big!

"It surely handed me a thrill," says Depp. "The only other time I feared I was too large for anything was when I rode the railway trains for half fare."

"SUZANNA" ALMOST READY"

"Suzanna," heralded as the crowning achievement of the genius of Mack Sennett, in which Mabel Normand is featured as the star, will soon be out of the editing and titling department, where, under the supervision of Mr. Sennett, this historical and romantic cinema play is receiving its finishing touches before release.

Announcement will be made shortly regarding the date chosen for the premier showing of "Suzanna," which undoubtedly will be at the Mission Theater.

PHOENIX PAIR IN WILD DASH

Arizonian and Nephew Elude Newspaper Men

Dernier Death Information Wanted by Sheriff

Officers Asked to Keep in Touch With Weber

In an apparent effort to escape the surveillance of newspaper men who had been camping on his trail since his arrival from Phoenix, Ariz., last Monday, Fred Weber of that city, along with a 19-year-old youth who had registered as his son, but who was learned to be his nephew, were leading a wild chase through the streets of Los Angeles, Alhambra and Pasadena last night in automobiles.

By 10 p.m., Weber and the youth, together with two other unidentified men, had "lost" one of the pursuing newspaper men's cars, and were motoring at breakneck speed through the streets of Pasadena in an effort to elude the other auto. Eight-cylinder motors roared and brakes screamed wild protest as the autos sped up and down main and side streets and swerved around corners in the wild chase.

PURSUIT BEGINS

The pursuit began when Weber and the youth stepped into a fast car outside the Alexandria early last evening.

Earlier in the day, a telegram had come from Deputy Sheriff Bell, at Phoenix, where the investigation of the Guy M. Dernier murder centers, to Deputy Sheriff Fox of Los Angeles. The message requested the Los Angeles official to get in touch and keep constantly in touch with Weber, from whom the Phoenix officials hope to obtain valuable information in connection with the Dernier death mystery.

Weber, it was ascertained by newspaper men here, arrived Monday night from Phoenix. He registered under his own name, and spent Monday night alone in the Alexandria. Whether or not his trip to this city was to elude Los Angeles newspaper men who had been sent to Phoenix is not known.

"SON" ARRIVES

On Tuesday, Weber had a cot installed in his room and the youth who represented himself as Weber's son, arrived. Three telegrams came to Weber on Tuesday. One of them, it has been learned, contained the information that Weber's brother Harry, a New York theatrical producer, had left New York and would arrive in Los Angeles Friday to confer with the Phoenix men.

The youth who posed as Weber's son was learned to be the son of this brother, instead. Harry Weber maintains a ranch at Chino, Cal., where his wife is now living.

Tuesday afternoon Weber and the boy spent in the Alexandria lobby. One long-distance call was put through to Chino, to the Weber ranch there. Inquiries

THELMA NOT FRIEND OF SLAIN MAN

Woman Missing From Crown City Sees Officers; Says Dernier Stranger

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Oct. 11.—Is Mrs. Thelma Karnopp, otherwise known as "Velma Lee Carson," 22-year-old widow who has made her home in Pasadena for the past two weeks, the mysterious "Thelma" sought as a witness in the Guy M. Dernier murder? If she is, she again has slipped through the fingers of the authorities, after frustration of a suicide attempt Sunday night at the house of Israel Venner, 365 North Raymond avenue, where she had been making her home. Monday she vanished. Venner thinks that she has gone to Los Angeles.

Representing herself as a widow from Tulsa, Okla., the woman came to Venner's home to room about two weeks ago. She used both the names of Carson and Karnopp. She said her father, named Lanning, lived at 904 West Sixth street, Omaha.

On Sunday she went motoring with Ralph Thomas, a truck driver of 761 North Fair Oaks avenue. In the evening she returned to her room, asking Thomas to wait a few minutes for her return. Soon after the smell of ether attracted residents of the house to her room. The woman was found unconscious with her head buried in a pillow liberally soaked with ether and covered with a towel.

The police were called, and by artificial respiration brought her to. The following day she disappeared. The police are investigating.

Late last night Thelma Karnopp walked into the Sheriff's office.

A group of deputies were in the office.

A tall, handsome, modishly gowned young woman strode in.

"Sheriff here?" she demanded.

"Not now," was the answer.

"Well, who'm I t' see," she asked. "I'm Thelma Karnopp."

Immediately efforts were made to get in touch with Deputy Sheriff Fox, who is handling the Dernier case as far as Los Angeles is concerned. While Deputy Sheriff Johnson talked wiht the woman, she intimated that, if desired as a witness, she would make the trip to Los Angeles.

YOUNG TO SEEK DAMAGES

Film Director to Sue Wife for Slander on Eve of Day She is Granted Divorce Decree

Today—one day before Mrs. Clara Whipple Young is legally entitled to her final decree of divorce from Jim Young, motion-picture director—a $50,000 slander suit will be filed against her by her husband, according to the latter's attorney, Herman L. Roth, last night.

And in a telegram yesterday from New York, where he is conferring with motion-picture producers, Young himself offered a reward of $5000 to any charity if his wife could produce letters to him from other women — letters she characterized as "so vile they couldn't be printed," and which she says she has in her possession.

It is Jim Young's vigorous answer to the sensational charges against him launched by his wife just after Judge Hahn, on September 28 last, had refused the director's legal move to set aside a property settlement by which Young had given his wife the property at 2000 Holly Drive and a sum in cash.

HIRED DETECTIVES

The slander action is based on Mrs. Young's statements to reporters, as reproduced in the Los Angeles Times of September 29, in which she said:

"Jim Young has spent time and money persecuting me, tormenting me, crucifying me, buying cheap detectives to hound me and lie about me. He has threatened me. He has pointed revolvers at my face. He has said he would burn down the house in which I lived. He has called me every vile name he could think of.

"Since my interlocutory decree he has asked me to be his mistress. He has asked me to go away with him for one week-end—and damned me heartily by letter when I refused without thanks. He has offered me $2000 to return to him his Ku Klux Klan membership paper and to give him back the bundles of letters he has received from women—some of them so vile they couldn't be printed.

BOOSTED HIM ALONG

"I can prove, too, that I made him a commercial success; that when I first met him he was making but $350 a week, that I took charge of financial arrangements, made contracts for him whereby he now gets $15,000 for every picture he directs and that I was able to assure Selznick and Joseph Schenck and others that he would live up to his contracts."

These statements by Mrs. Clara Whipple Young, made in the presence of Edward J. Doherty, representing the Los Angeles Times and the Chicago Tribune, and other persons, are "wholly false and untrue," says Young in the $50,000 slander complaint to be filed today.

Mrs. Young uttered them, he goes on to contend, "maliciously and with the intent to injure Young in his reputation and business," and that she knew they were untrue when she gave them out.

"Hatred, contempt, ridicule and obloquy" have been his lot as a result of the publication of his wife's statements, and he has been damaged to the extent of $50,000, which sum he asks for his good name and business, he concludes.

PUBLICITY FEARED

Young's action, as indicated in his telegram from New York to his attorney, is taken against the wishes of his family, who fear further publicity in the case.

The director is determined to clear his name, however, and for this reason the slander suit has been filed.

"Mrs. Young can't prove her statements—they are all false," said Attorney Roth yesterday.

"I cannot acknowledge defeat now, in view of what Mrs. Young has said against me in a public interview," said Jim Young early this month, shortly after his wife's sensational charges. Since then he has been conferring constantly with Attorney Roth by wire, and

FILM FOLK CALL OFF COURT ROW

George A. Siegmann and Wife Forget Troubles; Divorce Case Canceled

The divorce action of Mrs. Marguerite Siegmann, former motion-picture actress, against George A. Siegmann, cinema director, will be withdrawn today, it was announced last night by Attorney Herman L. Roth, who represents the wife.

Roth made the announcement with a wink. Then he explained the wink by saying that little Danny Cupid delivered a knockout blow to Old Man Mars in the Siegmann family, and that consequently the dove of peace is perched triumphant on the Siegmann roof.

After which metaphorical flight he let it be known that Mr. and Mrs. Siegmann have made up and are again living together.

Mrs. Siegmann sued her husband last month on the grounds of cruelty. At the time she stated he was so abusive that her position as housekeeper became intolerable.

In his reply Siegmann told of a half-minute train delay when he bade his wife good-by at a recent parting. When he returned, he told the court, he found she had drawn $2100 of his salary and had not paid bills amounting to $1500.

"She wrote me a very beautiful letter and then came the awakening in the unpaid bills," he moaned.

But that's all over now, and there's one less job for the divorce mill.

FOUR DEAD IN AUTO SMASHES

Fifth Accident Victim Near Death at Hospital

Cyclist Turns to Laugh at Truck Driver, Killed

Crash With Pacific Electric Car Fatal to Two

Three traffic accidents yesterday claimed four lives, and a fifth person lay dying late yesterday afternoon. One of the victims is a 5-year-old girl who died beside her father when the motor truck which he was driving was struck by a Pacific Electric car in Beverly.

The dead:

JOHN C. MOLENAAR, 506 Cynthia street, Sherman.

ELINOR MOLENAAR, aged 5 years, his daughter.

CLARENCE M. HINGER, aged 18 years, 144 East Forty-sixth street.

PATRICK J. CONWAY, Glendale.

Seriously injured:

John Soethout, 506 Cynthia street, Sherman.

Soethout was probably fatally hurt in the same accident that caused the death of Molenaar and his daughter.

Molenaar was driving a large truck of the Holland-Jersey Dairy Company across the Pacific Electric tracks at Doheny Drive, Beverly, early yesterday afternoon, when car No. 900, operated by Motorman C. Felstone, 1961 Burton avenue, Willowbrook, and Conductor W. B. Smart of Sherman, struck it.

GIRL KILLED

Traveling at high speed, the heavy car demolished the automobile. The little girl, who was riding with her father and Soethout on the front seat, was killed instantly. Molenaar died in the Receiving Hospital, where Soethout lies hovering between life and death with a fractured skull, broken ribs and internal injuries.

Doctors Dennis of Beverly Hills and Perry of Sherman attended the injured before the arrival of the ambulance to take them to the Receiving Hospital. City Marshal C. C. Blair of Beverly Hills investigated the accident.

Hinger met death when he turned to laugh at a truck driver whom he had just passed on his motorcycle.

Driving out Sunset Boulevard, the youth passed the truck driven by J. A. Magona, 168 North Main street, a Sam Seelig employee. Witnesses say he turned to laugh at Magona and did not see a wagon ahead of him, driven by V. Barney, 1724 Custer street.

He hit the wagon, spilling his machine and himself falling directly in the path of Magona's truck, which crushed him before it could be swerved. The youth died on the way to the Receiving Hospital.

"WET WITH WOOLWINE" WEAKENING

Platform of Return to Booze Costing Candidate Heavily Everywhere

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 11.—Failure of the Hearst publications, which are backing the candidacy of Thomas Lee Woolwine, Democratic nominee for Governor, to carry in dispatches sent to Los Angeles any part of his "light wine and beer" propaganda, is encouraging a conviction here and in other Northern California sections that, though the wet Democratic nominee has gained some support in wet centers in the north, he has damaged his political fortunes in the south beyond repair.

Experienced politicians who were at first inclined to believe that the slogan, "Wet with Woolwine," might prove an alliterative vote-getting enterprise, are beginning to lose interest in the fight of the pyrotechnic District Attorney from Los Angeles county and the sentiment existing in his own home territory, rather than in Sacramento, San Francisco and other so-called wet centers, is responsible.

Some of the avowed wet enthusiasts are now looking upon the light wine and beer crusade of Woolwine as an unfortunate venture for the wet cause itself, as numerous reports from all sections of the State, particularly from Southern California, where the most intense hostility for the wet District Attorney is finding expression, all tend to show an absence of any general response to Woolwine's stand.

Old tabulations of votes are being called for at the office of the Secretary of State by those who desire to check up for their own information and satisfaction the vote given in the various counties to the late Theodore Bell, who ran for Governor on the Democratic ticket with light wines and beer as his announced objective.

Bell, it is recalled, was a sincere and recognized leader of those who desire a modification of the Volstead Act to permit the manufacture and sale of wines and beer and his candidacy on the wet issue was not for the personally selfish purpose of getting votes, but was intended as a real effort on the part of the combined wets to discover public sentiment in California.

Bell was defeated by a majority of approximately 200,000, and hence the lessening of enthusiasm for Woolwine, who is by no means backed solidly by the wet faction, but is regarded more or less as the "last hope" of the irreconcilable and less respectable element of the wets, and who is offending regular Democrats by his apparent desire to be thought a nonpartisan.

Inquiry in hotels and in Italian and French restaurants shows that bell boys, porters, taxicab drivers and foreigners and others who do not understand the provisions of the Eighteenth Amendment, are enthusiastic in their support of the wet Democrat, but are prone to

SACCHARINE NOT LIFE

De Mille Believes Public Wants and Will Accept Plays With Unhappy Endings of Reality

BY CECIL B. DE MILLE,

Producer of Paramount Pictures Bearing His Name; Donor $1500 Prizes De Mille-Times Idea Contest

"What about an unhappy ending?"

Already that to-be-expected question has become a feature of this contest for a photoplay idea. The "happy ending" has been so usual in modern picture productions that many people are timorous about presenting something that might not be all sugar and kisses at the finish.

Here is what I think of the unhappy ending. It is my opinion that the public will accept and enjoy the so-called unhappy ending—when the unhappiness caused is merely that of unattained desire.

For instance, I had this type of an unhappy ending in "Male and Female." At the end Thomas Meighan marries the slavey, Lila Lee, rather than the gorgeous Gloria Swanson, whom he courted on the desert island.

Thousands wondered why I let Mr. Meighan marry Miss Lee instead of the woman, who was so patently in love with him. But it piqued your curiosity, didn't it? And it caused you to talk—and no harm was done except to lacerated feelings of the screen character taken by Gloria Swanson.

"WETS" HUNTING WILL O' WISPS

Wine and Beer Goal Mirage, Says Judge Bledsoe

No Real "Kick" is Possible Under Constitution

Candidates Urging Tilt of Lid Can't Do It

BY BENJAMIN F. BLEDSOE,
United States District Judge

The latest indoor sport seems to concern itself with a proposed amendment of the Volstead Act. From first one source and then another, we are being exhorted and resoluted to the effect that the Volstead law should be "liberalized;" that the lid should be slightly lifted; that "light wines and beers" should be made readily available for the alcohol-hungry sojourning in our midst. Before any one rushes headlong into an inglorious espousal of this new project, it might be well to subject it to the light of reason and the test of disinterested analysis.

"Light wines and beers!" Just what do they comprehend? No one sponsoring them has as yet advised us with any degree of exactness, but obviously they must mean wines and beers possessing an intoxicating effect. Nonintoxicating drinks—either the juice of the grape or the product of the grain—are now available in ample quantities. They, however, do not suffice. They possess no kick. They do not intoxicate. Therefore, those who want light wines and beers want something different, something which does have a kick, something which will intoxicate, and that something, it should ever be remembered, is denied to them by the positive and all embracing terms of the Eighteenth Amendment. In other words, those who urge the amending or liberalizing of the Volstead law to permit the manufacture and sale of light wines and beers are urging the nullification of the Constitution of the United States.

STATE CANNOT ACT

It is well to keep in mind that the Constitution explicitly provides that "the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from, the United States for beverage purposes" is prohibited. Neither Congress nor any Legislature, therefore, by enactment or want of enactment, may legalize the manufacture or traffic in anything intoxicating intended for beverage purposes. If it be intoxicating, it is a forbidden beverage, no matter what any Federal or State statute may say or not say.

Now, it is obvious that the present permissive alcoholic content of beverages—less than "one-half of 1 per cent"—may be increased by Congress, but may be increased only up to the point where experience teaches that intoxication will result—when it will produce intoxication "when imbibed in such quantities as it is practically possible for a man to drink." Further than this, because of the Constitutional mandate, Congress may not go. If it shall indulge in the attempt, the courts will be bound to hold its action nugatory. In other words, so far as such permissive legislation is concerned, Congress will have to stop just where the advocates of light wines and beers want it to begin—at the point where a given beverage ceases to be nonintoxicating.

Wine runs in alcoholic content from 7 1-3 per cent—the "lightest" made—to about 25 per cent. Beers run from 2 per cent to 7 per cent. Under prevailing judicial authorities and precedents, wine is always held to be intoxicating; beer generally so. Aside from the self-evident fact that nonintoxicating wines and beers are not desired by those who urge a change in the law, with respect to the first mentioned beverage at least, it would seem impossible to produce a nonintoxicating wine. "There is no such animal," light or otherwise. And unless it be nonintoxicating it may not legally be manufactured or sold, no matter what Congress may say about it.

The argument is frequently advanced by the overzealous and unthinking that because Congress has seen fit in the Volstead Act to fix and determine the permissive alcoholic content of lawful beverages and, in doing so, has declared that to be intoxicating, as a matter of law, while obviously it not intoxicating as a matter of fact (liquor containing alcohol but slightly in excess of one-half of one per cent, for instance,) it therefore may, in the exercise of similar power, fix the permissive alcoholic content at any per cent, even an obviously intoxicating one and that such action would, as a matter of law, be binding upon the

RICHARDSON INDORSED

California Good Templars Pledge Him Votes and Flay Woolwine's Wet Platform

Friend W. Richardson was unanimously indorsed for the Governorship of California at a session of the California Grand Lodge, International Order of Good Templars, conducted at the Angelus yesterday morning and attended by 300 prominent delegates from various parts of the State.

The indorsement of Richardson was made by a rising vote favoring the resolution introduced by Charles R. Burger of Pasadena, Past Grand Chief Templar. The resolution in full follows:

RICHARDSON INDORSED

"Whereas, the selection of a Governor for California this year is confined to a choice of two candidates, Friend William Richardson and Thomas Lee Woolwine, the former a life-long total abstainer whose active co-opecation with the friends of morality and progressive government are and always have been definite and pronounced, and the latter a sponsor for the law-defying liquor element and open advocate of the nullification of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act. Therefore,

Resolved, That the Good Templars of California, assembled in Grand Lodge session representing the temperance forces of this State, declare that while Good Templar recognizes no distinction of persons by reasons of race, creed or political affiliations, we declare as our belief that the Christian, law-abiding and decent citizenship of this State should lend an active support to Friend William Richardson at the polls next November;

Resolved, That we call upon our subordinate lodges throughout

Some of the Reasons Why WISS Shears Cut Best and Wear Longest

Remember, a coat of shiny nickel plate may hide poor quality and many defects. It makes all scissors and shears look alike. What is under the nickel plate is what you want to know.

Perfect Adjustment — done by experts, insures better and longer service without repairs.

Crucible Steel Cutting Edges — A piece of glass-hard, razor steel is forged on cutting side of each blade. Stay sharp in spite of hard use.

Accurate Grinding — sharpens the blades and gives them sufficient twist so they draw together at the edges and cut easily at extreme points.

Temper — accurate and uniform. Poor temper in ordinary shears means blunt edges that "chew" rather than cut.

Look for Trade Mark — Every article branded WISS is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction. Be sure you get a Wiss.

Perfect Screws — accurate to 1-1000 of an inch—of special, long-wearing material—prevent blades from working loose.

Handles Unbreakable — of drop-forged steel, are like the crank-shaft of an automobile. They never break!

Off-Set Handles — used by professional cutters for all day work. Blades lie flat against table. Follow pattern easily.

CELEBRATING NEW BIRTHDAY

Chamber of Commerce Now Thirty-four Years Old

Largest Commercial Body of Kind in Country

Enormous Undertakings Are Planned for Future

The anniversary of the founding of the Chamber of Commerce will be celebrated this morning when the board of directors gather for their regular weekly meeting. Celebrating the thirty-fourth year of the organization, past and present achievements, will be reviewed by the men who have served as head of the organization and a look into the future will be outlined by some of these city fathers.

Luncheon will be served to the following ex-presidents of the chamber: E. W. Jones, elected in 1888; A. B. Cass, 1901; F. Q. Story, 1902; H. S. McKee, 1904; J. O. Koepfli, 1905; W. J. Washburn, 1906; W. D. Stephens, 1907; Willis H. Booth, 1909; Joseph Scott, 1910; H. Z. Osborne, 1911; Arthur W. Kinney, 1912; Louis M. Cole, 1914; Robert N. Bulla, 1915; John S. Mitchell, 1916; L. D. Sale, 1917; Oscar C. Mueller, 1918; Watt L. Moreland, 1919; Maynard McFie, 1920; Sylvester L. Weaver, 1921.

LARGEST COMMERCIAL BODY

Growing from a handful of citizens banded together in the interests of this section and the State of California, the Chamber of Commerce of Los Angeles has become the largest commercial body in the country, numbering 9067 members, taken from every profession and business in the community who have effected numbers of progressive measures every year in the history of the organization. Within the past year, for example, it was announced by Sylvester L. Weaver, then president, that it was the ambition of the chamber to start plans for a new Chamber of Commerce Building, and within a few months the scheme was launched by enterprising officials.

At this celebration of the chamber's birthday members have the satisfaction of knowing that the entire bond issue for purchase of the new site at Broadway, Twelfth and Hill streets has been taken and plans for the beautiful new structures are progressing so that it is possible that by another year the officers will be celebrating the thirty-fifth anniversary in the new building.

500 NEW MEMBERS

Over 500 members have been added to the organization in the past twelve months and various new services have been added to the various chamber activities.

In the year of 1921, the busiest period of the organization since its founding, the Bureau of Industrial Music was organized under the industrial department and the organization service department was opened.

Closer co-operation has been established between Southern California and the central section of the State, Nevada, New Mexico, Arizona and Utah. More building in the city and the adjoining districts is reported and the foreign trade of the port has been pushed rapidly. New lines to Mexico and the splendid new freight and passenger service inaugurated to the Hawaiian Islands was accomplished, the latter under the tutelage of the chamber. Greater trade and manufacturing fields are assured to the city for all times by the energetic expansion made last year in these directions under the advisement of chamber officers.

Another step to further the interests of this region was taken during the year, when "Southern California Business," the official chamber magazine, was published for the first time. Not only do the members receive this periodical, but also other business men in this country and abroad, American and foreign consuls, shippers and traders.

PLANS FOR FUTURE

As to the future plans for the city and southern counties, the members will discuss the recently promulgated plans to name a special harbor committee of 100 experts to create industrial and shipping facilities for the people that will be utilized a half century later. Additional hydroelectric power must be secured to the city, community buildings and other civic improvements that will be topics for the city builders to develop concretely.

Out of 9000 chamber members there are but eleven charter members remaining in active organization work. Included in this list are the following: H. Jevne, John R. Mathews, A. E. Pomeroy, N. W. Stowell, C. A. Sumner, E. W. Jones, G. W. Parsons, J. B. Lankershim, E. L. Blanchard, Lee A. McConnell and H. Z. Osborne.

A special feature of the luncheon will be the serving of foods and fruits brought to Southern California since the founding of the chamber. The menu consists of the following: Avocado cocktail, tuna loaf, Bishop's biscuits, Hawaiian banana salad, cake, cactus candy and coffee.

Alguin Chase Not Ended by Legal Defeat

"I am looking up points of international law to discover means to gain custody of Alguin," said Chief Dep. Dist.-Atty. Keyes yesterday, after receipt of a telegram from Secretary of State Hughes, stating that extradition of the accused murderer of Detective Sergt. Fitzgerald is impossible.

The attempt on the part of the District Attorney's office to bring "Little Phil" to trial is by no means over, according to Mr. Keyes, who is co-operating with Chief of Police Oaks in the affair.

The telegram from the Secretary of State was in response to an appeal by Mr. Keyes to Gov. Stephens, which was forwarded to Washington.

"Extradition proceedings between the United States and Mexico being now suspended, regret I am unable to render any assistance in arranging for return of Alguin to California," was the text of the wire from Secretary Hughes.

IT'LL BE MICHAEL NOW

Pelican Mike Takes Unto Himself a Better Half; Bachelor Quarters and He Are Renovated

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Oct. 11.—And now Pelican Mike, gray old pouch bill of the Long Beach sands, is a benedict. Just when the wedding took place and who were present no one seems to know but Mike and Mrs. Mike and a possible few feathered habitues of the beach. But Mike is married, sure as anything. The old bachelor quarters on the west beach near the rock jetties have taken on a more spic-and-span appearance and Mike no longer occupies the place alone.

Beside him on his rocky perch and on his strolls along the beach, Mike is always accompanied now by a handsome female pelican. She's not exactly a flapper, but, on the other hand she's not so very old, according to local pelican authorities.

Great secrecy has surrounded the nuptial event, but it is reported in pelican circles that the loon who lives near by performed the ceremony. Naturally, neither the loon nor Pelican Mike and his spouse will say a word. They will submit to a view, but not to an interview.

Hundreds of Pelican Mike's old friends have paid their respects to the newly married couple and there have been not a few wedding presents, but Mike and Mrs. Mike, lost in admiration for each other, have little time these days for mere visitors.

HOMES FOUND FOR WAIFS

Society Finds Divorces Increase Number of Tots Seeking Foster Parents

Nearly 600 homeless and abandoned children, 588 to be exact, were received, placed in homes or supervised by the Children's Home Society during the last year, according to a fiscal report by G. F. Whitty, secretary, before the annual meeting of officers and members yesterday at the Los Angeles branch. In the same period, 227 children were placed with foster parents, 189 of these being legally adopted.

The annual meeting of the society, presided over by Charles E. Richards, president, considered reports by Mrs. Jessie Jordan, state superintendent, and a corps of her assistants in both the Los Angeles and Oakland homes. At the session also the following directors were elected for a three-year term: Julius A. Brown, Charles A. Baskerville, Z. L. Parmelee, Los Angeles; Judge P. J. Shields, Sacramento; Mrs. W. A. Walsh, San Diego.

NUMBERS INCREASE

The placing of 227 homeless children with foster parents during the past year was cited as an indication of the constructive work which the society is doing in the lives of boys and girls. Of the 242 new wards received by the society since the last annual meeting, 130 were males and 112 females, the American-born children leading, with a total of 166. Eighteen other nationalities are represented in the group of children in charge of the society.

Reports from workers for the society indicate that the number of homeless orphan and illegitimate children in California is increasing, the society having handled thirty-one more children during the past year than for the year previous. Operating expenses for the society were shown to be the same as for the previous year or $246 for each child enrolled.

MENTALITY HIGH

Mrs. Jessie Jordan, state superintendent, stated that in many instances the children now coming to the society for care and placement are of an increasingly higher type than in former years, the result of divorces and separations among men and women of education and culture. Recent tests made upon homeless children above five years of age showed them to be of a high mentality, some even registering 123.5, which is 23.5 per cent above the normal.

It was also pointed out that through the efforts of the society during the past year higher grade homes are being secured for these children. Of the 111 children received by the home from Los Angeles county in the twelve months just closed a large proportion have been placed in foster homes in this county.

PHOENIX PAIR IN WILD DASH

there of Harry Weber's wife failed to elicit any information.

At 6 p.m., Tuesday, Weber and the boy had dinner, and after a short while in the lobby, walked out. They purchased two papers carrying headlines concerning the Dernier crime, and then made their way to the Hillstreet Theater.

CALLS DETECTIVE

That same evening newspaper men engaged Weber in conversation. He told them that he meant to stay in Los Angeles the rest of the week, but did not speak of the Dernier case. Later in the evening, when newspaper men sought admission to his room in the hotel, he called the hotel detective to oust them, and maintained he knew nothing of the Phoenix case.

All day yesterday, Weber's whereabouts were not traced by the newspaper men.

CHECK OUT AT HOTEL

Late in the afternoon, he and the youth returned to the hotel. At 6 p.m. they checked out, but stayed around the lobby, very evidently on the lookout for some one. Newspaper men believe the Weber duo were watching out for their presence.

About an hour and a half later an automobile drove up to the Alexandria. Weber and the youth stepped into the back seat of the car. In the front seat were two strangers. The car speeded away.

Newspaper men had cars waiting, and they set out in pursuit.

Fast and furious the chase led, through the streets of Los Angeles. The Weber car resorted to speed; the newspaper men's cars kept pace. The Weber car stopped, while the occupants stepped out and looked over the machine, as though it were in trouble; the newspaper men's cars stopped just behind it—and waited.

And so the chase went on—through Los Angeles, with the speedometers at times registering fifty miles an hour; through Alhambra; into Pasadena. There one of the newspaper cars dropped out of the chase. Another kept on.

At a late hour, it was still following the Weber car, and no word had been received as to the location.

PUSH FIGHT ON LAW

Campaign Committee Working to Uphold Legal Recall Act

The campaign committee, consisting of the assembly district directors and assistants, the precinct director and chairman working to defeat the initiative petition for the recall of the act regulating law practice, has been called to meet in Department 10 this morning to complete the precinct organization. The call was sent out by Harry A. Hollizer, State campaign manager.

The act recently passed by the Legislature seeks to curb the activities of the legal department of banks and trust companies. The banks and trust companies opposed the bill, which was favored and promoted by the legal fraternity.

DERNIER CASE WOMAN TALKS

newspaper men and photographers approached her.

"I'm not the 'Thelma' of the Dernier case. I never knew Dernier. I never was in Phoenix, Ariz. And this in the papers about me is a lie!" she said.

"Are you the Thelma who tried suicide in Pasadena Sunday night?" she was asked.

"Yes; what about it?" she demanded.

"Why?"

"Well, that's none of your business, and wadda you think of that!" she exploded, and turned and ran as a news photographer "shot" a flashlight of her.

To Deputy Sheriff Johnson she denied any knowledge of the Dernier case. For further questioning, she referred the authorities to her Los Angeles address, which she gave.

She said she would be there before 1 o'clock in the afternoon, as she goes to work at that time of the day.

Then she turned and ran into an automobile which had brought her to the Sheriff's office. The automobile speeded down the street and vanished.

The automobile, No. 399900, California license, is registered as the property of R. R. H. Thomas, 761 North Fair Oaks avenue, Pasadena.

LAW URGED AS QUIETUS TO LIQUOR

Proposed Wright Measure Lauded as Effective Aid to Prohibition

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Oct. 11.—The Wright prohibition law can be enforced without a dollar's worth of additional expenses to the State and will pour into the State treasury hundreds of thousands of dollars in fines, Chief of Police C. H. Kelley declared today in response to an inquiry from the United Church Brotherhood.

The Chief declared it was impossible for two Federal courts, four Federal judges and thirty Federal officials to enforce the law against "the alien, ex-convict, bootlegging, murderous gang that seeks to undermine the Constitution of the United States and flaunt its flag."

"Bootlegging," said the Chief, "is being carried on by many former burglars, highwaymen and thugs who have found it more lucrative with less chance of severe punishment than were their former occupations. Many of our public officials have been bribed and corrupted by this horde of vultures, who would poison the world in order to fatten their own pocketbooks."

The passage of enforcement acts by forty-six other States, the Chief said, has driven their bootleggers into California and increased crime of all kinds.

DE MILLE SEEKS NEW FILM IDEA

or repressed desire may be quite as dramatic as the old-time tradition of tragedy through death. And certainly the former is many times less messy. There is tremendous drama in tragedy, that I grant you, but you can express that without dragging in a corpse.

It is human nature to recoil at a dead thing—and such a feeling of repulsion is not a desirable thing with which to send the public from a theater.

There is a middle ground in endings. You can get an ending that is neither too saccharine nor too much of the morgue.

Don't be afraid of the so-called unhappy ending. The public by actual experience has shown that they enjoy them—within the limits I have mentioned.

However, endings mark the final photoplay adaptation of the idea you may send in. I speak of them at this point, just to remove from your mind any inhibition against the unhappy variety because of a supposed feeling that I do not like them.

IDEA IS WANTED

An idea is what I want—and whether it leads to a happy or unhappy conclusion does not matter if it has the material for an engrossing, gripping photoplay.

The idea may be expressed in three or four words. It cannot be told in more than 300 words, and still win the prize. It must be in the hands of the De Mille-Times Idea Contest Editor, Los Angeles Times, before November 1, next.

The prizes, $1000 for first, $100 for second, and $50 each for third and fourth, will be awarded as soon after November 1, next, as the ideas can be canvassed.

No one is barred save employees of the Los Angeles Times and the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation and their families.

OFFICERS ELECTED

J. R. Bowish of Oakland, Past Grand Chief Templar of the State of Washington, was elected Grand Chief Templar of California, succeeding James P. M. Jensen at the election of officers yesterday afternoon. The other officers elected were as follows:

Grand Vice-Templar, Mrs. Florence Jeffs, Chief Templar of the Pasadena Lodge; Grand Counselor, Miss Hannah Anderson of Los Angeles; Past Vice-Templar of the State; Grand Secretary, Miss Alice Watson of Glendale; Grand Treasurer, John R. Bergstrom of Oakland (re-elected;) Grand Electoral Superintendent, Loren A. Swanson of Los Angeles (re-elected;) Superintendent of Juvenile Work, Mrs. Laura Olsen of Oakland; Superintendent of Temperance Education, Miss Myrtle B. Shaw of Pasadena (re-elected.)

The new officers of the organization were installed at the closing session last night, following the conferring of the International Degree on a large class, with Charles R. Burger, Deputy International Chief Templar, officiating.

when it turned over at Central and Magnolia streets in Glendale. Patrick J. Conway of 519 West Myrtle street, Glendale, suffered injuries from which he died in the Glendale Sanitarium several hours later. His three boys, Charles 5, Billy 7 and Jack 9, were with him at the time but escaped injury.

According to reports from the Pulliam, Keefer and Eyerick undertaking establishment, where the body of Mr. Conway was taken, the automobile turned over when a steering knuckle broke. A second report from the Coroner's office was to the effect that Mr. Conway's car collided with another machine and that the driver of the other car fled after the accident.

Mr. Conway, according to the undertaker's report, leaves a widow. He was an employee of the Southern California Telephone Company and a member of the Elks lodge No. 133 of Duluth, Minn.

'WET' WOOLWINE LOSING VOTES

revile him when persuaded that as Governor he could do no more to obtain wine and beer, legally, than one of themselves.

However, the general revulsion of feeling among the wet supporters may be traced directly to Woolwine's virtually only source of State-wide journalistic support, Hearst's San Francisco Examiner and Call and his Los Angeles Examiner.

Accounts of recent meetings addressed by Woolwine published in the Hearst San Francisco papers have not sought to ignore the nominee's outstanding issue, which is the light wine and beer issue, but those who have scanned the pages of Hearst's Los Angeles publication have scanned it in vain for mention of Woolwine's wet arguments.

This is accepted here as proof of the extreme unpopularity in Southern California of the wet stand of the picturesque Tennesseean. A great many of the supporters of Friend Richardson, the Republican nominee, assert that they are well satisfied with the political strategy adopted by Woolwine and are predicting that he will receive no considerable support even in wet districts when the facts of the wine and beer question are known.

Mr. Woolwine, accompanied by Hearst writers, is making an energetic campaign through the north, but has not so far aroused public excitement to the pitch where seats are unobtainable at his advertised meetings.

roof of the Arnold Building, Seventh and Figueroa streets, the radio listening public is dividing its time in looking over the exhibit and over its instruments at home. Fairly large crowds are attending the show, most of them coming at night to view the sights under the electric lights. Some very pretty instruments are on display, and some very novel ones also. The exhibition will continue until the 14th inst.

Yale University broadcasts its athletic events by radio to the surrounding cities this year. It is possible for anyone now within a distance of fifty or 100 miles of New Haven to receive by radio, play by play, reports of football games, hockey, lacrosse and other sports.

C. R. Kierulf & Co., exhibitors at the show, are giving away a very handy little card containing a list of stations heard in this vicinity.

Maj. J. F. Dillon, arbiter of the radio bugs in the Sixth Radio District, arrived from San Francisco yesterday, and was a visitor at the radio show in the afternoon.

The Plaindealer at Anaheim is contemplating the installation of a very fine receiving set in the near future, we are informed by W. W. Ernest.

SEWERS GET TASTE OF SEIZED LIQUOR

U. S. Marshal Sittel headed a posse of deputy marshals yesterday in the great indoor sport of poring about $60,000 worth of liquors of various grades down the sewer at the Federal Building.

There were whisky, wine, brandy and alcohol galore, much of the whisky being imported stuff and covered with foreign labels that seemed to be genuine. About $30,000 worth of the wet goods was bottled in bond and worth a lot of money as prices go these days.

TODAY'S PROGRAM

1:30 to 2:15 p.m.—Gladys Terrell, dramatic soprano, accompanied by Ruth Chambers, will sing: "Carita," by Wynne; "By the Waters of Minnetonka," by Lieurance; "Somewhere a Voice is Calling," by Tate. Lillian Rack, Hawaiian steel guitar, will play: "Aloha," "Drowsy Waters," "Kewpie," all arranged by C. S. De Lano. News items.

6:40 to 7:20 p.m.—Program arranged through courtesy of Purcell Mayer, violinist, who, with Melba Mayer, harpist, will play: "Ave Maria," by Bach-Gounod; "The Swan," by Saint-Saens; "Meditation," from "Thais," by Massenet. Shibley Boyes, pianist, will play two preludes by Chopin. Norina Coleman, dramatic soprano, accompanied by Mariaß Bemus, will sing: "The Rose Enslaves the Nightingale," by Rimsky-Korsakof; "Slumber Song," by Gretchaninow; "By the Waters of Minnetonka," by Lieurance. Helen Hatfield, dramatic reader, will recite: "Lasca." Bedtime story and news items.

Film Company Must Pay for Death of Man

Damages of $10,000 will be recovered from the American Film Company by Rachel E. Blackwell, for the death of her husband, Edward W. Blackwell.

Blackwell, who was injured, according to evidence given at the first trial, in an accident occurring in November, 1918, when a motor bus of the United Stages Company in which he was a passenger, collided with a car driven by an employee of the film corporation, sued for and recovered during his lifetime damages for the injuries he received amounting to $18,762.

The accident, it is charged, left him crippled and, in the hope of alleviating his condition, an operation was performed, from the effects of which Blackwell died. The widow then filed the second suit for $10,000 damages, was given judgment for the amount in the trial court and had the judgment confirmed when the film company carried the case to the District Court of Appeal.

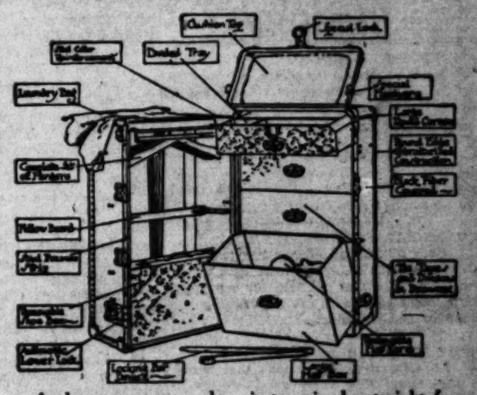
Bullock's "ONE O'CLOCK SATURDAYS" Bullock's closes Saturday at One o'Clock Bullock's

Bullock-Hartmann Trunks—A Service!

—A development which marks a far-forward step in the Bullock ideal "to develop stocks and service to a notable degree." A service which is unusual because the broad merchandising ability of Bullock's Luggage Store permits quantity purchasing of Hartmann trunks manufactured specially for Bullock's.

—A situation which means that Bullock-Hartmann trunks contain conveniences included for the particular needs of Southland travelers! And the quantity purchasing means that Bullock-Hartmann trunks can be offered at a figure much below that which would regularly apply.



—And a new group has just arrived—straight from the manufacturer. The Panama Model—a careful scrutiny of the illustration will reveal its many unusual features. A 11 hanger capacity trunk of gibraltarized construction with round edges—$52.50.

—The same construction of trunk in 14 hanger capacity—$56.00.

—Bullock's Luggage Store—Hill Street Building—Entrance on Hill Street.

Bullock's Sportswear Store for Outdoor Clothes for Women

New Sports Sweaters Clever! Swagger!

—and a particular Fashion has played favorites with her sports sweaters.

—Sports sweaters upon which the very nattiest of Fashion's quirks for Fall have been lavished. Sweaters which interpret, becomingly, the so-popular Russian blouse; exotic peasant colorings; novelly designed weaves; trig high collars—and other new effects which go to make this a season of inimitable style.

—Sweaters in lovely soft wools, sometimes combined with silk. Almost like coats, some of them are so long. Brushed wool trims enhance some. V necks, round necks, bateau necks, high necks are to be found.

—Sweaters in all the wanted colors at prices convenient to many purses.

—And think of the swaggerness expressed by a sports costume of knit skirt and one of these clever sweaters, topped with a matching scarf and hat set, such as is to be found, also in Bullock's Sportswear Store.

To complete the Sports Outfit are:

Sports Oxfords at $10, $10.50

—At $10.00: A sand buck, one-strap pump, with welt soles and sports heels. Also a two-strap sand buck pump with brown trim.

—At $10.50: A black suede oxford, patent trimmed, with flexible welt soles and military heels. Comes also in brown suede, trimmed in brown calf.

—Bullock's Sportswear Store, Seventh Street Building.

Halloween's Near! Prepare!

—At Bullock's are:

—Various colored Yama Yama suits, $2.75.

—Vari-colored Pierrot suits, $4.00. These suits come in sizes as small as 6 years.

—Noise Makers, 5c, 15c, 25c. Cow bells, 25c, 50c.

—Party Favors, for candy or nuts, 2½c to 25c.

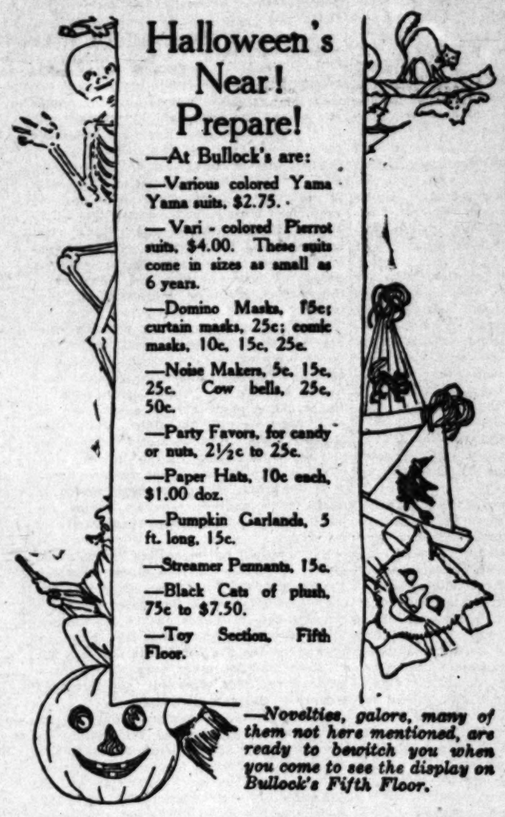
—Paper Hats, 10c each, $1.00 doz.

—Pumpkin Garlands, 5 ft. long, 15c.

—Streamer Pennants, 15c.

—Black Cats of plush, 75c to $7.50.

—Toy Section, Fifth Floor.



—Novelties, galore, many of them not here mentioned, are ready to bewitch you when you come to see the display on Bullock's Fifth Floor.

Program

Margarita Griffin

"Planning a Visit to South America," will be the subject of a talk by one who made the trip three times. Miss Griffin is teacher of Spanish in the John Muir Junior High School and in the Grand Ave. Evening School.

Louise Marie Bitter

Dramatic Soprano, will sing "Life" (Curran); "Chausen Pro Ban Cale" (Del Aqua); "Love, the Peddler" (Brewer).

Dr. Carleton A. Wheeler

Supervisor of Modern Languages in Los Angeles public schools, will speak on "The 250 Student Problem in Spanish."

For Little Tots from 2 to 5:

Wool Sweaters at $2.95

—When they walk, or ride, or play, or go to kindergarten, the tiny folks from 2 to 5 trip with merry feet and happy laughs if they are cozily, comfortably clad in woolly, warmth-giving sweaters.

—And many a happy one has been delightfully fitted with one of the tuxedo or coat style sweaters from Bullock's. Lovely little sweaters with belts and pockets, in cardigan weave; colors are buff, brown, cardinal and peacock.

—Little Girls' Sweater Section—Bullock's Fifth Floor.

A Suede Pump at $10.00

—"The Mavis"—it is called. The sort of shoe which is most charming when worn for street or semi-dress.

—A smart two-strap pattern in rich dark shade of brown suede—a shoe to harmonize explicitly with fall hues. Not least among its merits are the substantial welt sole and comfortable leather heel.

—The $10.00 price now quoted represents a reduction of interest—on this pump so well liked in Bullock's Section of Style-Supreme Shoes for Women, Fourth Floor.

Glassware from the Balkans

—Fancy glassware which is rife with oddity, bizarreness, riant coloring—truly expressive of Czecho-Slovakia, whence it comes!

—Cups and saucers to add a color note of cleverness to the tea table or the after dinner coffee service. The colors are blue, green, pink or orange; the handles are all black. The tea size are $1.50 each; the after dinner coffee size are $1.00 each.

—And Vases, Rose Bowls, Mayonnaise Bowls, too, share in this artistry of novel glassware; in colors of blue, green, white, black, pink, priced from $2.25 to $6.50.

—The Gift Balcony, Hill Street Building, is eager that you enjoy these new glassware novelties.

Console Victrola, $115

—"Every Musical longing is easily satisfied when there is a Victrola in your home." With the preeminent Victor Records, the art of the masters of the day is brought to your fireside—or the happy twang of the dance orchestra—or the stirring marches of the brass band—or the great hymns of prayer and praise.

—This console Victrola, style No. 240, is a style which is decidedly well liked nowadays; its graceful lines are harmonizing to modern furnishings.

—Equipped with new improved Victor tone arm and tapering "goose-neck" sound-box tube; automatic brake, speed regulator; newly designed, patented and improved, double spring, spiral-drive motor.

—Bullock's Phonograph Section, Sixth Floor, Seventh Street Bridgeway.

OVER THE BORDER

Lobsters and shrimps are on the free list under the new tariff, but the immigration act still keeps some of them out.

EXTRA LEAVES

Somebody says that the reason why the family Bible is so seldom seen on the parlor table in our bungalows is that there are no maple leaves out here to press.

FINANCIAL NOTE

They talk about using a hay press for a cash register in Austria. A man needs something like that to bale his currency. They might be able to use a threshing machine to make change.

THE WORRY BUG

An eminent scientist says that worry is a disease. The worry germs seems to have a wide circulation. The odd thing about it is that it appears to turn up about the time the landlord is asking for his rent.

THE USE OF TOBACCO

An Italian scientist says that tobacco kills the germs of meningitis, cholera, diphtheria and typhoid. The lady reformer remarks that if a cigar can kill a little bit of a germ, what will it do to a grown man?

A FAMILY AFFAIR

The will of the widow of the founder of the Winchester Arms Corporation leaves $4,000,000 to a Connecticut hospital. There's a reason. Next to the Ford family the Winchesters have probably done more than any other to accentuate the American need for hospital service.

THE DOPE RING

One-third of the prisoners in the Leavenworth penitentiary are said to be offenders under the Harrison Narcotic Act—in one form or another. There are over 900 of them in this department. Maybe the other two-thirds are bootleggers. Drugs and booze keep the jails working over-time.

MADE IT COUNT

In the last ten years the Southern Pacific system has passed out more than 50,000,000 pieces of literature advertising the various glories of California. Judging by the folks who have been dropping in during the last few seasons, some of it must have stuck. When you have a good thing it pays to advertise.

THE HOOP IDEA

Paul Poiret, the French designer for dames, has been trying to restore the hoop skirt, but is having a hard time interesting American women in the idea. They will not be poll parrots to Paul Poiret's suggestions. We have some designing women of our own and they do not care for the designs of the Frenchman. Women here will be wearing hoops about the same time they begin to use automobile tires to weight their skirts.

SKIRTS FOR WOMEN

Starting with a skirt that is twelve inches from the ground they now say that every inch a girl adds to her skirt adds two years to her age—so far as appearances go. Some of our grandmothers have been reveling in short skirts and learning to tango. If they are to be put back into long black drapes they will look their 70 years, all right, and will permanently join the wall flower class. The long black skirts should be reserved for girls under 16. They can wear them and still defy the mirror. Some one said that a woman is as old as her neck. That seems to be a mistake. She is as young as her legs.

PRECEPT AND PRACTICE

If we all practiced the precepts we preach, would the world be a better place to live in or would life here be quite impossible? We all believe in the cardinal virtues of thrift, courtesy, concentration, patience and energy.

Hisajime Hoshi, a little brown brother of Chicago, practiced those virtues consistently for twenty-eight years, the result being that from a capital of 200 borrowed dollars he has amassed a fortune of $10,000,000. The recipe is simple and we all agree with the precepts. But if we all, with the determination of an H. Hoshi, put them into practice there would not be enough money in the world to pay us our respective fortunes. Instead of being better off would the whole world be bankrupt?

A WILD BLADE

A woman who is 89 years of age and who was a friend of Abraham Lincoln is suing for a divorce from her husband, who is a giddy young rounder of 73 years. The husband is forever making dates over the telephone and sending flowers to his numerous sweethearts. Staying out all night has become a regular habit with him and the wife says she is getting tired of his wild behavior. He doesn't want to settle down and whenever he settles up it is with her money. She says she thinks he only married her for her money. She happened to have $400,000 and the husband has been digging into the wife's fortune ever since the union. It was the husband's sixth marriage and he says that if his present wife obtains her divorce he will marry again. Here is a swain who has De Wolf Hopper looking like a German mark.

THE SPIRIT OF COLUMBUS

On the night of Oct. 12, 1492, Rodrigo Triana won $100.

A Spanish sailor aboard a small carrack from the crow's nest screamed "La tierra" and the captain of the fleet gave him $100 as a reward for his vigilance.

The captain of the fleet was Christopher Columbus and the sailor was the first European to set eyes upon the new world of America.

It wasn't the mainland, after all, and it wasn't the island of Japan, where Columbus, after accurate scientific research and minute measuring of maps, had expected to dock his ships. His stumbling on the West Indies in his search for Cathay was a providential accident.

Thirty-five days out from the Canary Isles, with a half-mutinous crew and a sublime belief in Providence, Christopher Columbus pulled off the greatest achievement in history when he beached the Santa Maria on the shore of one of the group of the Bahamas. Nobody is quite sure upon just which island Columbus set the first white feet from Europe. Opinion, however, inclines to Cat Island. The Genoese mariner himself did not know on that historic October 12 that he had changed the whole course of human events.

But none of these things really matters. The gist of the achievement is that Columbus was responsible for first bringing European civilization to the lone and wild and trackless continent of America. That he did so in a sixty-three-foot, 150-ton carrack, on a miscalculated chart, under a misapprehension and in ignorance of what his discovery meant are mere details.

The point in the story of Christopher Columbus was not in the climax when his boats grounded on that unknown Bahama beach, but in the magnificent million-horsepower struggle he waged for seven desperate years before he could get his expedition started and in his invincible faith that, once under way, something big was sure to come out of it all.

Frith and fight won for him the immortal fame of unoceaning a new continent—and in these was no element of the accidental, the miscalculated or the unscientific. His maps may have been drawn askew, but his imagination shot straight to the mark.

In Portugal his honesty was betrayed, his plans stolen and the thieves who attempted to forestall him and reap the rewards of his researches made a ghastly failure of the adventure. But the spirit of Columbus persisted.

He went to Spain and entered the service of Isabella of Castile. She aided him in his fight against the obstinacy of the court and the ignorance of the authorities. Disappointment was again his guerdon. Even the Queen could do nothing for him. But the spirit of Columbus persisted.

He went to France and laid his plans before King Charles VIII, who treated him as a visionary enthusiast. But by this time a few scientific men of Palos were convinced. Martin Pinzon hurried back to the Spanish court and gained an audience with Isabella. She saw the laurels of discovery in danger of passing from Spain to France. That moved the courtiers. Columbus's persistance was at last rewarded. By special courier he was recalled to Madrid.

Even to the last parsimony ruled among the promoters of the expedition. The crew that was finally gathered together consisted of pirates, prisoners for debt, criminals released for the voyage only and a few able seamen. Columbus understood well the risks he ran of plunging into unknown seas with such a crew of rascals and ruffians. But his spirit persisted. And against the most tremendous odds that any adventurer ever had to reckon with Columbus made the most startling geographical discovery of all ages.

Such was the spirit of Columbus. It was the spirit of a man who, with his scientific data incomplete, still dared to take a chance. And so long as this heritage belongs to the people who have followed the example set by the discoverer of their continent they, like him, will wrest ultimate triumph out of every temporary setback in the sublimity of an invincible faith.

THAT TARIFF COMMISSION

One of the most important features of the new tariff law is the provision for the appointment by the President of a Tariff Commission, a sort of fact-finding body, reporting to the Chief Executive on conditions bound to exist throughout the country and requiring Federal action, and a judicial body as well, holding public hearings and making decisions of far-reaching import.

Under the law the commission is to gather for the President full information as to the differences in the cost of production of articles at home and abroad and make recommendations for Executive orders revising rates sufficient to cover the difference in the cost at home and abroad on any article coming within the tariff list.

There are about 4000 dutiable items in the law and every one of them is subject to change with the single exception of the rates on dyestuffs, which are the only ones fixed under the American valuation.

It is believed that such changes in the rates that Mr. Harding makes will be downward. Many of the rates were determined upon more than a year ago, when the tariff measure was first taken up. Since that time there has been a decrease in the price of many items, necessitating a revision of the duties.

The new commission is expected to get to work as soon as Congress provides the necessary funds, which it is believed will be furnished at the extra session that President Harding is expected to call about November 15. Members of the commission are appointed for a term of twelve years.

A tariff commission is no new thing in this country, but under the old laws they were only charged with the duty of compiling important information for the benefit of Congress and the President. The Chief Executive had no authority or power to shift the duties as is provided for in the present enactment.

Nothing came usually of the recommendations made by previous commissions. A board of this character was appointed during the first McKinley administration; the report, consisting of many volumes, is still cluttering up the corners and crannies of official Washington. Under the Fordney-McCumber law the President may carry out the recommendations of the commission, but the time that duties so fixed are to be a part of the law, without the action of Congress, has been placed at two years.

FRANK G. CARPENTER AGAIN

Ohio can boast many famous sons—eight Presidents, scores of illustrious soldiers and sailors, numbers of lawmakers and administrators, countless scholars, writers and scientists—and one world-famous explorer, Frank G. Carpenter.

Times readers, of course, require no introduction to this versatile traveler and litterateur, who, through letters, articles and pictures, has made visible to so many stay-at-homers queer, out-of-the-way crannies and corners all over the world.

Since the year 1888 The Times has printed contributions from this greatest of all globe-trotters, till in 1919 his indefatigable pen sought a temporary rest from its literary labors.

This was a heavy disappointment to our readers who had become accustomed to this interesting and educational feature in their Sunday Times. We will confess that to us also the discontinuance of the series was a cause of the deepest regret.

Therefore it affords us a double pleasure to announce that we are to have Mr. Carpenter with us again. A new series of articles will begin in The Times Illustrated Magazine of October 16 and will appear weekly thereafter.

As a writer of facile and simple prose, bringing before the public picturesque features and valuable information from climes far beyond the reach of the average ordinary experience, Mr. Carpenter has made for himself a unique reputation.

With him in imagination we have listened to the sleigh bells and attended richly costumed religious festivals in the old Empire of Russia, have sniffed the sickly sweet odors of Canton and Peking, rickshawed along the crooked colored streets of Japanese cities, sensed the spacious wastes of vast Australia, lost ourselves in he sweltering jungles of Sumatra and Borneo.

Through the magic of his pen and camera we have learned something of the queer customs and weird architecture of ancient India and blinked through the heat waves at the yet older monuments of Egypt; have stood quietly among the sacred memories of the Holy Land; have spanned oceans in a week and watched the sun set before regal Rio de Janeiro, wondered at the modernity of Buenos Aires, seen the cross on the top of the Andes or, again, with another reckless plunge onward, shivered in the rockbound fiords of icy Alaska.

But it would be impossible in one short article to mention all the places to which Frank Carpenter has taken so many armchair travelers on his personally conducted tours to the Antipodes and to far Cathay. There is probably no stamp issued by any country on the five continents that has not at some time or other been affixed to a letter from this practical and pleasant teacher of the new geography.

Mr. Carpenter, as correspondent for the Associated Press, learned his writing in the journalistic school before he made the gathering of strange facts from all parts of the accessible—and sometimes not so accessible, at that—portions of the earth his leading life work. This gives the charm of directness and simplicity to his travelers' tales, a quality that has endeared him to so many readers throughout the United States.

We may add that his work has been recognised by our schools and universities for its educational value and that he has been created a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society in London.

The readers of next Sunday's Times are going to start on a new series of voyages and travels with their old friend, Frank Carpenter, to discourse pleasantly on every interesting aspect of each fresh adventure. Better get your tickets now—it's all aboard for another globe-trotting excursion!

THE FIRST SIX YEARS

The child's first school is the family. Every parent knows this and most parents believe they do their duty by the little ones in paying attention to their home education. At the same time there seems to be an increasing number of fathers and mothers who too lightly relegate this responsibility to the paid expert.

As soon as the child can crawl and make his first attempts at inventing a language of his own his education begins. Indeed, Olive Schreiner asserts, "The first six years of life make us; all that is added is veneer."

Education for these first six years is entirely a home matter, yet how many fathers and mothers take to heart the truth of Olive Schreiner's assertion? "The souls of little children keep forever the shadow that first falls on them."

It is possible that in our preconceived ideas of what constitutes an education we have exalted the veneer at the expense of the solid timber. It is possible that we have underrated the immense influence of the first impression. The baby in arms may not appear to require much attention beyond ministering to its bodily wants and sustenance. That the brain is already formed and, like an extra-sensitive camera, quick as a flash to catch a lightning picture on a negative that may not be developed till many years have passed away, is an idea of child education many would reject as too extravagant to be practical.

Yet who can say at what stage the brain of a newborn infant begins to register impressions? Or that the only education that counts is that acquired in later years in the schoolroom or the practical university of life itself?

"The first six years of life make us." Who shall say that the first six months of life may not print spirit pictures on the untarnished mind that will still remain after the veneer of later education has been worn away by the friction of slowly grinding years?

SOLOMON'S FOUR MYSTERIES

Said old Solomon: "There be three things which are too wonderful for me, yea, four which I know not; the way of an eagle in the air; the way of a serpent upon a rock; the way of a ship in the midst of the sea; and the way of a man with a maid."

The serpent's way of ascending smooth and almost perpendicular surfaces by means of his efficient ribs has been plain to physiologists for centuries. Probably one of Solomon's neighbors knew the secret.

The way of a ship in the midst of the sea is no puzzle in these days of Leviathans. Solomon should have said "the way of a shipping board in the midst of the war."

As for the eagle in the air, we are only now, 2875 years after Solomon went to sleep with his fathers, solving the mystery. The eagle knew all about air currents and Solomon didn't. The eagle is easy for the men who make gliders. They prefer to copy the albatross, which does more difficult feats.

But the fourth thing that mystified the King of Israel is still giving its students a headache.—[New York Herald.

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM

BY HERMAN J. STICH

Do You Look Like a Winner?

An emperor in his nightcap, it was once remarked, cannot command half the respect of an emperor in his crown.

This is because only too often it is not what a man is, but what he makes people think he is, that gives him what he wants.

So, also, because all of us can see and few of us can penetrate a man of parts discounts them if he doesn't look it.

The world is made up of appearances—good, bad; different, indifferent; impressive, offensive.

We occasionally detect the knotty timber beneath the smooth edge, but it is expecting too much to ask us to divine smooth timber beneath the knotty edge.

Dress does not make the man, but it frequently indicates contents.

Stains, rips, bagginess, sloppiness, uncleanliness and the like are generally interpreted by customer or employer as corresponding to the condition of mind and character.

A man's clothes are talking, tattling about him all the time, and every man ought to be careful that his clothes say the right thing.

The world loves a winner and takes to the man that looks like one, even in the sense of the classic story of the captain of industry and the lobster.

The "captain" was lunching one day at his favorite club and ordered a broiled live lobster.

When the crustacean was served the millionaire noted that one of his great shearing claws was missing.

Calling the waiter, he demanded an explanation; he didn't propose to eat any crippled or diseased shellfish.

The waiter suavely explained that it was quite all right, merely due to one little accident, a fortune of war.

"Ze lopstaires were shut up togezzer in large cars of sea water and naturellement they di fight each other and some of zem did bite off ze claws of ozaires, but ze rest of ze lopstaires perfectly good an' fraish."

"Nothing doing," said the patron. "Take him away. Bring me a winner."

WOMEN AND MONEY

BY ALMA WHITAKER

Money being the root of all evil, and women being inherently improper, vide the authority of many of the very best saints (male,) it was eminently desirable for the good of humanity (male) to keep these two pernicious influences apart.

This great truism was properly appreciated and understood until quite recently in the world's history. If Providence had been so reckless as to endow any female with money or conditions had conspired to let a little money come her way the law stepped in and saw that some capable authoritative male in the person of father, husband, brother or son stepped in and secured control thereof. Up till a very little while ago, when the world was more sagaciously managed, woman had no property rights. The only way she could possibly retain control over anything she might possess was by the lamentable demise of all males with any legal "rights" concerning her. In some enlightened portions of the world this desirable condition still obtains.

But today the intriguing female has won any number of dangerous privileges regarding money. She has inveigled the amiable and trusting male into conceding and conceding until there are positively millions of women who have full control over their own fortunes or their own earnings, with the pitiable result that any number of males are placed in a most invidious position.

Without money or the control of money women were comparatively harmless. But given even a very little that they can call their very own, for which they have to account to no man, they promptly become most unpleasantly independent, uppish, intractable, positively unmanageable. Especially and particularly is this regrettable in the case of wives. Recall, for instance, Barrie's "Twelve Pound Look"—a little play replete with the deplorable results of a wife having enough money to buy a typewriter.

Or take that current story of Nina Wilcox Putnam's, "Laughter Ltd.," written in a high-comedy vein though it is. The tender, docile young heroine docilely and lovingly supports a fine, independent, old papa—until she has secretly saved up $400. And then, just when papa was righteously about to annex that $400, behold the preposterous young person buying a railroad ticket to Los Angeles, freedom and ultimately fame in the movies, with never a by-your-leave to that $400-yearning papa. Many a fond male parent must shudder to read that flippantly revealed tragedy.

Why, nowadays a great many wives talk glibly, shamelessly about "economic independence"—just another term for guileful defiance of the male of the species. No matter how generous their amiably protective husbands may be in doling our dollars—under suitable persuasiveness and coaxing—the creatures choose to regard the condition as beneath their dignity. Their dignity, forsooth! What have wives to do with dignity where money is concerned? And when the gentleman is not quite as generous as their rapacious greed deems essential wives all over this stricken country are making little secret hordes, pinching and screwing out of the housekeeping money, stealing, cheating, lying, just so they can have a pernicious, dangerous little bank account wherewith to purchase some vague, remote, futuristic "freedom."

That's the whole secret. Freedom! Women seem to think that a little money is absolutely essential to "freedom." So sordid. If women were really freedom idealists they would never think of such a sordid basis as mere money. Freedom, especially for women, should be a thing of the spirit—and, ahem, of course, they have had that kind all along. No, sirs, it wasn't just "freedom" they wanted, no, nor just the vote, either, the dangerous minxes wanted money, property, assets, financial rights and privileges. They wanted to be paid for any services they might render to labor and commerce and professional undertakings for all the world as though they had been born men and deserved it.

And now, incredible and deplorable as it may sound, there are even wives who think they ought to be paid for their services in the home—just like any hired housekeeper. This phase of the question is really too disgusting to dwell upon. What man, who truly loved his wife (and who had not the privilege of firing her if she didn't suit) would wish to insult the lady by besmirching her charms with a settled salary commensurate with the duties performed, for her to expend, heaven alone knows how? What might she not be tempted to do with it?

Just look what an effect money does have upon women when they are in complete control of their patrimony or their own earnings. It utterly demoralizes them as far as their attitude toward the superior sex goes. They lose their charming and desirable inferior complex forthwith. They hold up their heads as though they owned the world. They positively walk with a self-confident swish. They will look any man straight in the eye.

Consider what an effect these community-property laws have had upon once gentle, meek, concessional wives. Why, some of these women seem to think that it is vitally important to keep their homes unmortgaged, that certain properties should not be sold under certain circumstances and dare to withhold their now necessary signatures—thus preventing many a man from making millions in land near somebody else's oil wells that is sure to pump up vast wealth for somebody some day. And she actually takes the attitude that she is acting for the best interests of the family. Moreover, if the poor fellow has made most of his money since he married her, she insists upon the misguided letter of the law which gallantly presumes that she was a helpful instrument thereto and therefore has all sorts of pernicious rights. She was so infinitely more charming and attractive before these hateful notions were extant. What man, I ask you, can appear at his lordly best, in his finest protective guise, in his most sumptuous masculine independence of action when he has a community-property informed wife at home?

And think what alimony rights have done for divorce. Where once a righteously annoyed hubby threatened divorce with the superb knowledge that the law would be on his side and the lady henceforth a subject of public condemnation—as, of course, she should be—wives often glibly, impudently threaten the divorce themselves nowadays, strong in the ghastly consciousness that alimony—up to the hilt—will be forthcoming. Does a divorced wife, especially if the charge was mere incompatibility and mental cruelty, now bow her head in shame and suffer ostracism at the hands of her respectably attached sisters? She does not. She receives the sympathy supposedly due to a righteous martyrdom—and wallows in economic independence on the alimony. Why, she will shed an incompatible husband with unpleasant habits nowadays with a greater assumption of justification—and financial security—that she would drown the extra kitten.

And what sort of august and adamant paternal control can a good man hope to exercise over a daughter who is drawing a couple of hundred a month as a bank teller, owns half a dozen lots and an automobile and visits a beauty parlor once a week. Do such young women meekly submit to paternal authority? Is she going to submit with proper wifely docility to a husband who perhaps has never earned more than $150 a month in his life? Alas, sirs, she does not, she is not. Without her nasty money that woman would have been a dutiful daughter and a blameless wife. With money, and the deplorable knowledge that she can earn more, she regards herself as simply outside of, above all proper masculine authority—and it is most unseemly.

Women are, you see, the arch-parvenus of the world. Financial upstarts, quite outrageously, ostentatiously money-conscious. Money, sirs, has turned their heads to a most deplorable bumptiousness—and entirely ruined their sweet, tractable dispositions.

RAH, FOR CZAR TUFTS!

"Crush Hoipolloi of Golfdom in Dust; Let Ed Reign Forever," Cries Alma

BY ALMA WHITAKER

When it comes to Emperor Edward of the Tufts dynasty I am a whole-hearted monarchist. Dethrone Ed Tufts—ye gods, one might as well talk about dethroning King George. "But Brutus says he was ambitious—and Brutus and Cassius are honorable men."

Why, Messrs. Ed Tufts and Czardom were fashionable long before Judge Landis and Will Hays were ever thought of. Long before baseball found the urgent need of a Landis, long before the fourth largest industry of the United States felt the violent yearn for a Will Hays, Southern California golfers coveted and acquired Ed Tufts.

VERY ESSENTIAL

In no department of sport or recreation is a benevolent dictator more essential than in golf. Ever been to a big championship tournament where they didn't have one? Chaos worse confounded. No one to make decisions and decisions crying out to be made every five minutes. No one to come out and tell the brutal truths, and brutal truths violently demanding to be spoken. No one to call down the sinners or the bungiers—and sinners and bungiers sinning and bungling on every hand.

No one to settle disputes—and disputes raging all over the course. No one arbitrarily to settle handicaps, and every one questioning everybody else's handicap. No one, in fact, with the courage and prestige of human understanding to say, "Thus shall it be. Thus shall it not be," and clusters of disgruntled souls in beautiful golf stockings and bad tempers just craving, yearning, perspiring for ultimatums.

A GODSEND

Why, Messieurs, Tufts has been a godsend to Southern California golf. He has coaxed, bullied, enticed, compelled most every virtue, improvement, progress and advantage that golf enjoys today in this fair clime.

He has made Southern California famous as a golfing paradise to the four corners of the earth. He knows the Holy Bible of St. Andrews from Genesis to Revelations and can quote any Solomon or any St. Paul who has ever arisen in golf annals right off the bat. Neither conscientious nor conscienceless golfer could faze Ed Tufts. He knew whereof he spoke and he spoke it. No one has ever questioned a decision that Ed Tufts made—he was always tacitly accepted as the President and the Supreme Court without further argument.

SMOOTHS 'EM OUT

In the course of my seven years of golf scribing I have seen this benevolent dictator straighten out 1000 tangles—always decisively, amiably and only using real gentlemanly cuss words when they were violently necessary. And I have seen tournaments when Edward wasn't there. I have seen men hanging in anguish on phones trying to locate him. I have seen them dashing off wildly in high-powered machines to search for Edward and the boon of a mighty ultimatum.

Positively nothing could go on, proceed, evolute until Edward had been found and issued one of his sublime ultimatums to clear the air and remove the infuriated debris. And I have heard lordly golfers of supersuperiority who had been raging in the throes of prima donna tantrums, become docile lambs with no motive but the greater glory of the game and the greatest good for the greatest number, wreathed in tender smiles after an all-enlightening Tuftian ultimatum.

I once heard a disgruntled eastern tourist who knew not our Edward and his prestige say, "The man is no gentleman—and I have seen half the gentlemen in the club rush to declare, "Thank God for it, then," and explain with considerable heat that whatever Edward's brand of gentlemanliness was, that was the kind they craved—even as Gen. Grant's brand of whisky which Lincoln recommended his rival detractors to discover.

But Brutus and Cassius are honorable men. I hope they will hasten to read Marc Anthony's speech over the bier of Caesar, before any irrevocable step is taken. It will be most unfortunate for Southern California golf if history repeats itself too unpleasantly. Vive l'empereur! Long may he reign.

Battle Royal Ends in Scrap Between Races

Joe Schlocker won a well-earned decision over Joe Smith last night in the main event of the Newsboys' Athletic Club boxing card. Schlocker's speed and ability to take a lot of punishment won the bout by a wide margin, although Smith showed a lot of class.

The battle royal turned into a real battle when a member of the audience tossed a dollar into the ring and nine others followed. The result was three knockouts and an extra round between a mixed racial couple, Siki and Young Carpentier. Siki put up the fight of his life, but the white boy had the reach on him and kept him at arm's length. The decision was a draw, and the purse was split, to the complete satisfaction of all concerned.

Johnny Lawrence and Young Dix went through three fast rounds to a draw, as did Johnny Dundee and Hynie Miller. Both of these scraps were as fast as chain lightning from the start to the final bell.

Rocky Kansas won a decision over Benny Leonard in a snappy bout that nearly ended in a knockout. Alabam won by a technical kayoe over Kid Kilbane, by slapping him one on the ear that knocked him silly.

Young Kid Chile socked Kid Shannon around for a decision, and Kid Chavis won an easy victory over Young Clevis.

San Pedro Pete, champion newsboy battler of San Pedro, lost a fine fight to Benny Miller by a large margin. Benny took the lead all the way and his left came near putting Pete to sleep prematurely.

HUGGINS TO HEAD YANKS ONCE MORE

Cols. Ruppert and Huston Agree to Keep the Present Manager

BY MARSHALL HUNT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Miller James Huggins will manage the Yankees again next season.

This announcement was made here today after Cols. T. L. Huston and Jacob Ruppert, owners of the New York American League club, held a long conference with the little leader who piloted the Yanks to their second consecutive American League pennant this season, only to be humbled by the Giants in straight games in the world series.

Immediately after the Yanks were defeated in the recent post-season series, rumors were circulated to the effect that Huggins would not be re-engaged. Everyone well known in baseball from Frank Chance to the Yankees' bat boy was selected as the "logical successor to Huggins. Ruppert and Huston, however, said nothing, except that they as yet had not conferred with Huggins in regard to the signing up again.

Their announcement today proves they were satisfied with the manner in which Huggins handled the Yanks during the season just closed and mean to repose their confidence in him for another year, at least. It is understood that Huggins has signed a contract for only one season.

Huggins will rest up at Atlantic City for several weeks before undergoing a minor operation. He then will return to his home in Cincinnati but plans to take a short ocean trip before the next spring training period opens.

ENGLISH OUT FOR REMAINDER OF YEAR

An accidental kick in the stomach spelled disaster for the hopes that Coach Herbert White had for Jack English, speedy quarterback of the Pioneer football machine. Late last night, as the practice was coming to a close, English made a tackle and was kicked in the abdomen. Doctors did not state definitely that English would have to be operated on, but they announced that from all indications the player was suffering from a muscular hernia.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Tom Gibbons, light heavyweight of St. Paul, arrived today to complete training for his bout Friday night with Billy Miske, also of St. Paul, at Madison Square Garden.

SMALLPOX VERSUS PENNANT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—The hard luck of Patrick J. Kilhullen, catcher, may have a decided effect on the pennant race in the Coast League. Pat returned to Oakland last week from Denver and shook hands with a lot of his friends, among them a number of players on the Vernon club. Today Pat developed smallpox and is quarantined at San Leandro.

Pat was asked who he had touched since coming from Denver and mentioned the names of a lot of young ball players around Oakland. They were rounded up and vaccinated. Then he remarked that he had shaken hands with a number of the Vernon ball players and a wire was sent from Oakland to Los Angeles to have the Vernon players vaccinated at once.

If the Vernon players are vaccinated this week they will not feel much like playing ball. If it "takes" on them as it did on Pat back in Missouri last winter they will lose all interest in that fight for the pennant, in food, drink and about everything else except to cuss the doctor who vaccinates them.

LIGHTWEIGHTS START TODAY

All City High Schools Get Babe Grid Season Off

Manual to Play Los Angeles at Home

Lincoln Flyweights Will Go to Long Beach

Big brothers are due for a surprise this afternoon when the babies of the family start the lightweight football season in the city league. The little fellows have been practicing ever since training started for the heavier gridders, and the squads are now in fine condition, according to the coaches.

The feature scrap will probably be very much the same as the headliner act in the big league series which starts Friday. Los Angeles High School and Manual Arts usually waste about as much of the far famed brotherly love on each other as the average drunk has for a street-car conductor. Both of these midget teams have been growling at each other for a number of weeks and at last it looks as though they were going to have a chance to show which team has been telling the best brand of lies.

Long Beach and Lincoln are to meet at the Jackrabbits' institution and it is expected that the fur will fly far and fast. Both of these teams are on the razor edge of top shape and have nicely working machines.

Hollywood is to meet Poly on the Foothillers' grid in what appears to be a soft snap for the Hollywood team, but as the home of the unexpected seems to be Washington and Grand, there may be a reverse decision. Due to the lack of a field to play on, the Mechanics will have to hold all of their games abroad, as will their larger brothers. (Board of Education please note.)

Jefferson High seems to be running in the greatest kind of luck. The older team drew a bye for the first game, and the lightweight team did the same thing, thus both squads gained a big advantage and a week's time to gain strength in. Yesterday the Pasadena High School authorities came to a conclusion about the Franklin games for Friday, and announced that it would be played at the Crown City. Consequently the lightweights play at Franklin.

Chinese Champ in Main Event at Hollywood

Georgie Lee, world's champoin Chinese boxer, made such a wonderful showing against Teddy Silva out Hollywood Way last week that Matchmaker Frank Crowley has assigned him to the spotlight position on the American Legion fight card. "Dandy Dick" Griffin, the Fort Worth banty, will be the Sacramento celestial's opponent in the main go tomorrow night.

Billy Retchell, the "knock-'em-dead" ringster, of San Diego, will face Jimmy Marcus, the sensation of the Legion arena, in the semi-wind-up.

Sailor Billy Vincent and Spec Woods, a pair of hard-fisted young men, will clash in the special event. Kid Moha and Pete Herman, 98-pounders of class, will meet, as will Mike Nestor and Fred Brady, a brace of 158-pounders. Johnny Lee is slated to face Red Uhlan, a 155-pounder, in the second bout. Sailor Bernardo will tangle with Jimmy Farr in the curtain raiser.

WATER POLO MATCH ON FOR TOMORROW

The first major water polo game of the 1922 season will be held at Bimini Baths Friday night, when the Bimini Swimming Club, winners of the Southern California championship last year, meets the strong Y.M.C.A. team. The Bimini team, under the coaching of Steve Brown, has developed into one of the finest swimming aggregations in the West and will line up as follows:

Steve Brown, sprint; Glenn Dougherty, goal; Jack Boyd, forward; Leslie Urghart, forward; Logan Lampton, guard; George Tuttleback, guard; George Capo, center.

BALL PLAYERS' UNION IN MAJOR IS RUMOR

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Reports that major league baseball players were organizing an association to present demands to the club owners and to call a strike next spring unless they were met, were not taken seriouly by Gotham magnates today.

None denied the existence of a movement which has been under way about a year under the direction of Raymond J. Cannon, a lawyer of Chicago and Milwaukee, but all of them professed ignorance of the movment's present extent, its purposes and its membership.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Oct. 11. — Jack Josephs of Minneapolis, knocked out here two months ago by Travie Davis of Everett, is to have a return engagement Thursday night.

SARAZEN WILL INVADE COAST

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Gene Sarazen, world's champion golfer, conqueror of Barnes, Hutchison and Hagen, national and professional champion, will positively appear on the Pacific Coast this winter, starting on a tour January 1 at San Francisco. Sarazen's operation for appendicitis immediately following his wonderful victory over Hagen was so successful the youth will be out of the hospital in a week. The doctors say that he will be able to play golf again in a month.

REDLANDS WILL TAKE ON COVINA

Shake-up in Citrus Belt League Shifts Scheduled Games

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, Oct. 11. — The schedule of the Citrus Belt League for football has been all changed about, and as a result Redlands will not open the league this week as planned. Instead, Coach Malcolm Smith will take his Terriers to Covina for a game there.

Redlands was to have opened the Citrus Belt schedule in a game with San Bernardino. This has been postponed to the last of the season, however, and it is freely predicted that this will be the stellar game of the season. The new schedule follows:

October 20—Pomona at Redlands; San Bernardino at Chaffey.

October 27—Chaffey at Redlands; Riverside at San Bernardino.

November 3—Redlands at Riverside; Pomona at Chaffey.

November 10—San Bernardino at Pomona; Chaffey at Riverside.

November 17—Redlands at San Bernardino; Riverside at Pomona.

Redlands having a bye on November 11, Coach Smith has accepted a game with Occidental College freshmen to be played in Pasadena for the benefit of the American Legion.

HARPER IN SCRIMMAGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Oct. 11.—Elbert Harper, who played fullback at the University of Washington in 1920, but who has been on the side lines most of this fall because of a minor injury, is in the scrimmage again. Harper is expected to give Jimmy Bryan a struggle to retain the place of fullback.

TRACK MEET ON SATURDAY

Athletes Are in Trim for Affair at Riverside

Looks as Though Cromwell's Crew Had Big Edge

More Entries Than Officials Had Expected

"All is sitting pretty for the great free-for-all track meet which is to be held at the Riverside County Fair next Saturday afternoon," said Dean Cromwell, coach of the cinderpath sport at the University of Southern California, and manager of the meet at Riverside.

According to Cromwell, the entries have exceeded the hopes of all the officials of the fair, and excitement is running at fever heat in all of the Southern California colleges, despite the fact that all but about half a dozen of the entrants are U.S.C. track men.

"There is not much doubt about it," said Cromwell yesterday afternoon, "the U.S.C. team has this meet on ice. It looks as though the meet would be as hotly contested as any intercollegiate affair that would be staged during the regular track season. It will be a fine chance for the track coaches to see how the men on the team are coming, and a number of freshmen will have an opportunity to do some early season work."

ENTRY LIST COMPLETE

Entries were closed yesterday and are as follows:

Truly "a thing of beauty," New Buicks have attained a depth of reliability not yet sounded, and a height of beauty not yet attained in motor construction.

Tijuana to Come Into Dignity of Classy Racing Plant

RACING PLANT TO BE BEAUTY

Million-Dollar Structure Will be Erected

Cofroth to Give Tijuana New Grand Stand

Work Scheduled to Start on November 30

Erection of a new $1,000,000 racing plant at Tijuana, Mex., was announced yesterday by President James Wood Coffroth of the Tijuana Jockey Club in a long-distance telephone conversation from New York with Lewis H. Falk, publicity director of the Jockey club.

Ground for the new plant will be broken November 30, the date set for the opening of the winter meeting at the border track. The new course will be one and one-eighth miles, and will be built with several chutes, being patterned after the famed racing plant at Saratoga. Its construction will in no way interfere with the winter racing, which will be for 100 days or more.

IS INADEQUATE

The decision to build a new plant was brought about by the realization by the jockey club directors that the present structure is totally inadequate to accommodate the rapidly growing sport at the border course. Then, again, the present track is on low ground and there is likelihood of the storm waters from adjacent hills flooding the course.

Coffroth announced that the grandstand and clubhouse for the new plant will be of steel and concrete, that electric lights will be installed in every stall, and that about 1000 additional stalls, making more than 2000, will be built. The new plant will be modern in every particular.

"It will compare with any race course in America," said Coffroth.

The first big shipment of thoroughbreds for the annual Tijuana, Mex., race meeting to be opened November 30, passed through Los Angeles yesterday and included were the horses of several owners. The list came from Reno, Nev., and was headed by nine who will carry the colors of George W. Wingfield, Nevada millionaire, at the border course this winter. The Wingfield horses were in charge of Trainer George Berry and included were Erase, Ireosty and Tulle, which raced at Tijuana last winter and six yearlings, the sons and daughters of Atheling II and Hongkewood. Atheling II, which stands at the head of the Nevada Stock Farm is now recognized as the leading sire in America. Sixteen out of seventeen of his sons and daughters have won races and the first of these are just approaching 3-year-olds.

The great Melachrina, owned by J. H. McKay of Reno and the promising colt Buster Keaton, were included in the shipment. George Miller, well-known Los Angeles horseman, was represented by East Indian, a stake horse, Wild Thoughts and Fiesta. Marvin Allen, San Diego sportsman, shipped Paisley, a good winner in the East this summer while Lonnie Tryon's Catherine Maronne, a mighty clever racing idol, was also included. The entire lot were consigned to the Tijuana track and will soon begin their training.

Trainer Berry announced that three of the Wingfield yearlings have been named as follows: Porto de Oro, Main Street and Blushing and that the remaining three will be christened when they reach Mexican soil. Berry announced that Jockey C. H. Miller, well-known New York rainsman, will do the riding for the Wingfield string this winter.

Oaks Nose Out Seals in First Game of Series

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—With two men out and the bases full in the ninth inning, McWeeny, San Francisco pitcher, walked Maderas here today, giving Oakland the first game of the series, 1 to 0. McWeeny walked three men in succession and failed to deliver a hit in the second inning when the Seals had the bases full. The Seals' defeat advances Vernon to within one and one-half games of tying the Seals for first place.

Krause and McWeeny waged a bitter pitchers' battle until the ninth inning, McWeeny then passed Lafayette and Cooper, advancing Brubaker, who was on second—to third. Maderas was walked, forcing Brubaker home. The score:

RAIN HALTS GAME

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—The Cubs-Sox game was postponed today owing to rain.

When McGraw sent John Scott to the firing line in the world series we were treated to what we have been waiting to see for a good many years.

It is the practice of baseball, and particularly world-series practice, to send your best pitcher in against the other fellow's best pitcher. I always have had sort of a country hunch to the effect that this was poor strategy, this imperilling of your best bet in a doubtful venture—that it would be better to send in a long shot against the other fellow's derby performer, and leave the rest to the kind or unkind flings of fortune.

Your best pitcher probably hasn't at the most more than an even chance to win. The game is likely to be close, and if a small break goes against your man, his game is gone and he himself is gone for two or three days. But if one of your second-string men is defeated you have your headliner to send in against the opposition's second best the following day.

McGraw was one of the first to play psychology to the limit. This was through necessity. He had just about exhausted his apparent physical resources. Hoyt figured to be good, in all probability unbeatable. Mac had pitchers on the bench rated higher than Scott, but the best of them probably would be forced to bow to the brilliant young American League heaver. McGraw took the long chance. If Scott lost, such probably would be the fate of any other flinger he might send to the line. If Scott won it would give the dwindling prowess of his regulars a day's respite, and be a doubly crushing blow to the opposition, disheartening and paralyzing. As stated, McGraw did what we have been waiting many weary years to witness.

Strange legends going the rounds in regard to Yankee peculiarities. One is that Carl Mays refuses to relieve anybody except Waite Hoyt. Another that Mays speaks to only two men on the entire club. Also, that Bush refuses to leave box sometimes unless escorted by certain of his team-mates. These things being true, or less than one-half true, then Miller Huggins has the toughest assignment in baseball.

Now that the O'Connell deal has been completed, the working agreement between San Francisco and New York Giants has been terminated, according to Secretary Putnam of Seals, if working agreement it could have been called in the usual acceptance of that term. Which leaves the impression that Seals are as free and untrammelled as was the bar fly prior to prohibition, or the air before littered up with radio ragtime. Which side terminated the negotiations was not stated. Possibly there never was any intention of continuing them.

When White Sox forked over fancy price for Willie Kamm general belief was they had hooked one of the best young players in the pool. While the price on being analysed is said to have shrunk from $100,000 cash to $25,000 in money and a flock of players, or something like that, still it was a good figure. Now fans are beginning to wonder if Kamm is a victim of chronic Charley horse, or some other tendon ailment.

There have been repeated rumors of trouble which Kamm has experienced with his legs, and during the series with the Angels here he was limping most of the time. Strikes us that he is taking a big chance in playing in that condition. Never have we seen a player with as pronounced a limp as Kamm displayed here remain in the game for a protracted period. The trouble may be only temporary, probably is, but continued play might make it permanent. Such are the vicissitudes of a close pennant race. The Seals, with all their vaunted reserve strength, apparently had nobody capable of replacing Kamm.

WHAT THE PREPS ARE DOING

Los Angeles High School is still trying to get a good team together from the wealth of inexperienced material which Coach White has to choose from, and the beginning of the season it looked as though L. A. had the most good material left over of any of the city high schools. The loss of Dennie was a great blow but there is a possibility that Shoulder will be in time to finish the season. His shoulder has been steadily improving and Roy has finally been allowed to take it out of the sling.

Charles Barth, star end of the Manual Arts High School team, who has been developed into a fast and heavy line man, is likely to fill Foster every day. This boy has a world of speed and plays a fine defensive game, according to Foster, who is all swelled up over his find.

Bob Lee, shifty little halfback of the Franklin High School football team is bidding fair to make a great record for himself if he can deliver the same kind of goods in the games which are to come, as he is handing out at present in the practice. Last year Lee was not given a chance to play until the latter part of the season as he was saved by Coach Dougherty for the sprints in track. However, in the games in which he was allowed to play he kicked the pill over nearly of the ball and was pronounced one of the best high school football backs ever seen in the South.

The Phillips is doing a world of good for the Pioneers by the kind of hunting that he is doing this season. Last year he was laid out in the first game of the year which was played against Jefferson High School. After recovering from the ill effects of the game, Phillips went out and captured the punting trophy at the school. This season his leg is as good as new and his kicking seems to be better than ever.

Amos Buckley, former lightweight player of last year, seems bound to make his letter in the grid sport at Los Angeles High this year. He started the excitement by winning the 100-yard race in a contest at the school by showing a more complete knowledge of football tactics than any other man in school. After this he was given a chance to show what he could do in actual play and he made good. In the game which was played against Pasadena High he made a whole stack of yards against men who were twice his weight and men who had reputations as players. He is something of a shark, according to White, at snagging short passes over the line of scrimmage.

Nick Swiles, 200-pound Manhasset footballer, has been shifted from guard to tackle. The change was made because it was believed that the majority of the heavy players were playing tackle, and the backfield would have better protection if the "end trust" were placed in the way of the drives, instead of locating around at guard. Swiles has an immense amount of speed for a fat man, and the weight makes an impression on anything that it comes with when impelled by Swiles's speed.

Pete Thompson, best bet of Lincoln High school is decidedly out of luck for the Friday game against Long Beach. Something during the past week he managed to develop a ball on the back of his neck that makes him look like a second row with her lamps. He will not be able to play Friday unless the doctor can do away with the troublesome member in some way before the game is called.

Pasadena High school is not saying very much about what is going on in the football circles of the Crown City but according to the reports of teams that have suffered from the efforts of the Bulldog machine must be a wonder.

Philly Griffith has a bunch of men who are of the stellar type and men like Bagley, Downs and Thompson are only a sample trio but they show the caliber of the team. Downs was picked for all-southern fullback last year and Bagley was acknowledged to be one of the best backs in the South. Thompson is as fast as any end in the City League this year and has a natural faculty for football and all that goes with it.

THURSTON SHUTS OUT ADAMS'S INDIAN CLAN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Oct. 11.—Paul Strand drove in a run for Salt Lake in the first inning today, and that would have been sufficient, for Seattle was unable to make anything off Thurston's pitching. The score was 3 to 0. Dailey, who pitched in the ninth, allowed one of the Bees' runs. The score:

SACS WAKE UP AND DEFEAT PORTLAND

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 11.—Portland tried out a young busher today, Lefty Schwarts, who held Sacramento to two hits in seven innings, but gave six walks. In the eighth two more walks, McCann's two-base wild throw with two down and a pair of hits gave Sacramento three runs. Portland tied the score in the ninth, but in the tenth with Crumpler pitching, two more walks, a double and a wild throw to the plate by McCann gave the Sacs two runs and the game, 5 to 3. RAIN HALTS TROTS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LEXINGTON (Ky.) Oct. 11.—Rain today forced another postponement of the trots here.

MAY SETS NEW MODERN MARK

singling his first time up, thereby relieving Brother Frayne of that deep responsibility, fervent prayer and hair-splitting which goes with deciding a no-hit game, which is a sensitive subject alike with Mr. May and the official scorer in the nervous organism of our great national pastime.

Both Hughes and May were whacked one whack per inning for the first four rounds, but immediately tightened in the sleeve.

Unique rumpus in the fourth, which sent Bill Essick to an early shower and a seat in the bleachers. One down when H. Hercules Hyatt singled and Hughes soaked Hannah. Runners on first and second when French raised a towering wind-twisted fly, which descended midway between the plate and first, just inside the line. Sandow Griggs tried to strangle same, but in avoiding French he misjudged same. Ball struck end of his mitt and escaped. Being an eyewitness of the muff, Hyatt lit out for third, Baldwin, standing near Griggs, snatched up the ball and heaved to Deal, who tagged H. Hercules. Umpire Ted McGrew, behind the plate, ruled it an infield fly, automatically retiring French. As Hyatt had left second at his own risk, Beans Reardon, the base-running umpire, ruled H. Hercules out, also. Messrs. Essick and Hyatt immediately surrounded Mr. McGrew and protested. They claimed that McGrew had not declared it an infield fly, or if he did, that he was talking quietly to himself and nobody else heard him. Bill was bounced.

McGrew threatened to can others unless the Tigers quit spitting and hissing from the bench.

Messrs. Walter Boles, Rube Ellis, Kitty Brashier and Frans Hosp were seen conversing in the stand, and this gave rise to a report that it was kid day at the park.

PLUTOCRATS ATTEND

Then there were Messrs. Earl Houck, Bill Essick and Sam Grant appearing in the role of plutocrats. They are interested in a concern which brought in a 2000-barrel well. All plan on growing the side whiskers of financial responsibility, and pass their remaining days lolling around in the greasy lap of luxury. They claim it is a real well, not one of these wells which has to be stopped while oil is being changed in the crank case. If 2000 barrels of country gravy was coming out of that well every day it wouldn't look any better to these birds, who have worked all their lives when they couldn't find anything softer to do.

Just because of this sudden prosperity they won't change their Wingfoots for the grinding heel of monopoly. Neither will they destroy competition. The struggling Standard Oil Company will be allowed to live, unless it cares to come in as a subsidiary concern. Money may not slip from the new magnates as only money can slip from a greasy palm, but they are generous. They have already invited their friends to come down and get their hair oiled. Score:

INJURIES PUT TIGERS IN DUMPS

Only Three Regulars to Start in Whittier State Game

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO Oct. 11. — Gloom hung heavily over the Chaffey High School campus this evening over the prospects of the Tigers' football game on the local field tomorrow with Whittier State School.

According to Coach W. H. Kegley, probably not more than three regulars will start the game for Chaffey. Men who are out of the game as a result of injuries, chiefly of a minor nature, and illness include Capt. Dinger, end; Bailey, fullback; Riley, halfback; Drew, center; Bigley, Judd and Dinger, guards; and Magill, tackle.

Coach Kegley has been busy for several nights, however, giving the subs light work-outs and the Tigers will make a valiant effort to put up a snappy fight.

Two weeks ago Chaffey defeated Whittier State 20 to 6.

The total gate receipts from tomorrow's game will go to swell a $5000 fund for the relief of Smyrna sufferers, an appeal for which was recently received from Raymond Moreman, a local boy now in the Near East.

BATTERIES

City lights in the country

Living "far from the madding crowd" is a brighter existence than it used to be. The progressive farmer of today enjoys electric lights as well as electric power to pump his water and saw his wood.

Many thousands of farm homes, schools, stores and churches, as well as summer houses and yachts, have their own small power plants—and a great majority of these get their current from long-lasting Exide Batteries.

More than forty per cent of all the automobiles in the United States are owned by farmers, and here again the Exide Battery proves not only a comfort but a real economy on account of its long life and dependable power.

When it becomes necessary for you to have a new starting and lighting battery, remember there is an Exide built for your car—and it is so built that it will give unfailing service in your car longer than you would dare hope unless you have already owned an Exide—the long-life battery.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—Andy Smith's lengthy, imand unmarred string of victories may be pearing more significant than the given the Kerr-Warner ntain in Stanford's openand defeat at the of the San Francisco ge Club Saturday, is the test Bob Evans's gridders indiy they are able to give and undoubtedly put to the sobath system of California day, October 21.

Olympic Eleven Looms as Tough Babies

HOPKINS STILL BUCKING LINE

Perry Hopkins ex-Pomona High football and baseball star, and who later was a member of the freshman football squad at California, has left college to enter the agricultural game. He is now raising potatoes at Atalando, Cal.

Stanford-California game of 1919, when he was admittedly very fortunate to get away with a 14-10 victory. At that time Evans had nothing but old Rugby players. Now he has some of the strongest men in the game. And since that day Evans has watched the Smith team for three years, and he knows the California stuff as well as his A B C's.

SPOT IN HEART

Evans did not play his full strength against Stanford. He could have added another touchdown or two to his total against the red-shirts, had he chose to strengthen his team as he might readily have done during the progress of the game. Regardless of all that has been said about Boly Evans and Stanford, the ex-Card coach has a soft spot in his heart for the students on the farm, and he was not out to beat them bad. It will be noticed that his team played one of the cleanest of games against the Stanfordites, and that though the battle was at all times fierce, no one was carried from the field or noticeably injured. It might be added that the Cardinals, if they have to lose, would rather lose to no one than to Evans.

Evans will have no scruples against the Bruins. Latham will be replaced by Righter at center, in all probability, and possibly Majors by Here Bihlman. With a star backfield, with big and experienced linemen, and plenty of them, and with his uncanny and accurate faculty of diagnosing the game in progress and building the strength of his eleven as the battle wages, the Post-street mentor will undoubtedly give California the greatest fight it has met with in three years. A victory over Andy Smith is entirely within the realm of probability.

EVANS HOLDS OUT AGAINST "DOC" PAR

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DEL MONTE, Oct. 11.—Charles "Chick" Evans, Chicago, came into his own in the match play against par competition of the Investment Bankers' Association of America golf tournament. Evans, playing on the Del Monte course, was the only player to stand up against par. He started with one down to par, holding his own.

A large gallery watched Evans play. He made many brilliant shots. W. H. Thomas, Los Angeles, E. J. Burlingham, Chicago, Marshall Forest, St. Louis, and W. H. Eddy, New Orleans, tied for second place, finishing three down to par.

TWO TROPIES UP AT VERNON CLUB SHOOT

A. J. Stauber, twice winner of the Vernon challenge trophy, will be challenged to the award next Sunday, when a shoot is put on by the veteran gunner Bob Bungay. The two stars will shoot at fifty singles targets and at twenty-five doubles both from sixteen yards. Stauber will gain permanent possession of the trophy if he defeats Bungay.

Also on next Sunday the local and visiting shooters will get another chance at the Mark Lane trophy. The shoot in this case will call for 100 targets at sixteen yards. The high guns will be awarded take-home trophies.

SEE NEXT SERIES ON INSTALLMENT PLAN

STOCKTON, Oct. 11. — Forty frenzied fans of the thirty-third degree, determined to see the world series of 1923 or bust, are laying plans to buy a trip to the East next fall on the installment plan.

Approximately half of the forty have already signed for the trip and the full quota is expected within the next few days.

CUBS RAP WHITE SOX IN INTERCITY GAME

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—The Cubs got the edge on their White Sox rivals today by winning, 8 to 5. The National League has now won two games to the American League's one.

Osborne, who won the first game, came back today and was credited with the second victory. The Cubs won the game by bunching their hits. Inability of the Sox to hit in the pinches cost them several runs.

LIGHT DRAGOON WINS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

NEWMARKET (England) Oct. 11.—Capt. Forester's Light Dragoon won the Cesarewitch stakes handicap of £1000, with extras, run here today. A. De Rothschild's The Villager, was second, and Sir A. Bailey's Ceylonese was third.

GRID OUTLOOK NONE TOO GOOD

Coach Kienholz Uncertain Over His Eleven

Injury to Captain May Hurt Beach's Chances

Will Take on Lincoln High Coming Friday

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Oct. 11.—With Lee Bering, regular first-string fullback, out on account of scholarship difficulties, and Morley Drury captain and star end an uncertainty on account of an injured shoulder, Coach E. H. Kienholz is anything but optimistic tonight over the outlook for a Long Beach victory over Lincoln High in the first league contest for both schools Friday afternoon at Boward Field.

Adding more gloom to the situation, the Poly eleven went through a listless, sluggish scrimmage with the second team this afternoon that called forth from Kienholz anything but complimentary remarks. While there are none of the ardent followers of the local eleven who will not agree that Long Beach has a team of great potential possibilities this fall, they are also unanimous in the opinion that the quad must brace up and show more stuff than at present if it expects to emerge unscathed from the City League schedule.

AT FULLBACK

Harold Wilson is being used at fullback by Coach Kienholz in place of Bering, whom the faculty ruled ineligible for the opening league tilt of the season. The Hill brothers, Don and Al, who grind out touchdowns instead of coffee like two other brothers by the same name, will be seen in the halfback berths for Poly. Mattson, at quarter, will complete the back field. The ends will be taken care of at the start by Capt. Morley Drury and Dinty Evans, a brother of Hoggie Evans, present member of the California varsity. Prices will officiate at center. The tackles will be taken care of by Tandy and Wallace and the guard berths will be occupied by Lev and Anderson.

INDIANS VANQUISH CORONA PREP SQUAD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CORONA, Oct. 11. — A large crowd witnessed the opening of the football season at Sherman Institute this afternoon when the Corona High School team played the second team of the institute. This was one of the best initial games ever played at Sherman, each team weighing in at an average of 140 pounds. The Indians are acknowledged to be an exceptionally fast team and it was in the first quarter that they made their only score which won the game for them, 6 to 0. Coach Carl Mueller was greatly pleased with the showing the high school boys made.

FULL STRENGTH OF IOWA IN THE GAME

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

IOWA CITY (Iowa) Oct. 11.—"We hope to have all our regulars in the game Saturday and if we can throw our full strength into the contest, Iowa should play a good game," was the only statement Coach Howard H. Jones of the University of Iowa would make this afternoon as the western conference team left for Chicago en route to New Haven, where his players will meet those of his brother Tad, in the Yale Bowl Saturday.

MISS COLLETT LOSES IN BOSTON TOURNEY

NEWTON (Mass.) Oct. 11. — Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., woman's national golf champion, was defeated by Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, a former champion, in a nineteen-hole match on the second round of the woman's golf association of Boston championship play on the Braeburn course today. Miss Collett lost chiefly because of weak putting, her drives being strong.

MIDGETS TO CLASH ON GRIDIRON TODAY

While both the Lincoln High and the Los Angeles High lightweights will be settling affairs elsewhere, the L. A. High 115-pound football squad will be entertained by the Lincoln High midgets on the Rail-splitters' field, today.

Neither of these teams has played any practice games to date, and therefore just what either squad can do is not yet known.

PENO LEROY IS LOOKING GOOD

Manager of Local Team is Playing Classy Ball

Semi-Pros to Hold Meeting at Spalding's Tonight

Sam Lewis in Town Trying to Get Chucking Job

BY JOE BUSH

Peno Leroy, manager and second baseman of the Renshaw, Jones & Sutton ball squad in the Greater Southern California Baseball Association, has been attracting a lot of attention with his clever fielding and hitting in the pinches. Aside from playing second base, his regular position, Peno is no slouch behind the bat. Last Sunday at Glendora when the Renshaw, Jones & Sutton catcher failed to show up Leroy went behind the plate and caught a nice game.

Peno Leroy.

Leroy says that he expects to strengthen his team considerably in about a week and that then the R. J. & S. squad will make the going difficult for any club in the association.

Tonight the Greater Southern California Baseball Association will have its weekly meeting at the Spalding's sporting goods store. Two more clubs will join the association at tonight's meeting, bringing the total number of teams in the organization up near the fifty mark.

"Red" Killefer, manager of the Los Angeles Angels, has consented to give a short talk to the members present. As Killefer has been in the game a long time, all those that hear him talk tonight will in all probability learn a thing or two concerning baseball.

Sam Lewis, former San Francisco and Salt Lake pitcher, who finished the present season in the Texas League, has arrived in town and was in Spalding's yesterday trying to land a job with a local semipro squad.

The V. M. Ira Furniture Company squad has added four new men to its squad in order to strengthen for them coming winter season. The new men added are Carelton, Frost, Wirth and Webster.

• • •

"Rube" Eills, manager of the Downey club, is depending upon his battery to bring his squad through the coming winter season with more victories than defeats. Roy Hanna is doing the chucking, while Joe Ullman, former Hollywood High star catcher, is taking care of all the receiving.

GLOOMY'S MOANS

First and foremost comes the same old stall about not having anyone in the whole of the University of Southern California who could replace Irvine Armstrong wear the shoes of Johnny Boyle. It would seem that this is to be the chronic groan of Gus for the next hundred years. The race for the job is pure standing even as Newman, Cummings and Blair are all about on a par for the position.

According to the optimistic coach he is to have the pleasure of playing his team against a team that already knows all of his signals. Walter McMillan, brother of the famous Dan McMillan, and now quarter for Arizona, was a quarterback for the Trojans in the dim and distant past of 1919. As a result he has a complete set of the U.S.C. signals, which were used then, and Gloomy fears that the young man has a good memory.

Gilliland, who is playing half for the wildcats, was snapped by the Stanford Cards last year and shanghaied to Palo Alto, where he played a very successful season against the combining of other conference colleges. This year he has been transferred to Arizona, as he likes the dry air better, and is said to be the fastest halfback in the West. His weight at present is 162, which is a good solid asset.

Norman Anderson, demon 210-pound tackle on the Trojan eleven, has been done up for the past couple of weeks with an attack of "flu." Yesterday Henderson expected to see him in a uniform, but a report came that the big fellow was too weak to appear for practice. It is believed in the best of football circles that he will be on deck for the game Saturday. Gloomy prophecies that he will have little, or no chance if he has to play without Boyle and Anderson.

Henderson is also worrying a great deal about McClellan, former Pomona College end. He believes that Mac is going to do some dangerous work in the passing game, as he has a lot of speed and the Wildcats forward pass defense is perfect, while the Trojans' defense of this play is nil, nothing, and naught.

• • •

Quite a furore of excitement was caused in pigskin circles yesterday afternoon when One announced that he did not expect to enter Phil Tieman in the game Saturday. "Phil is still honeymooning," according to Henderson, but despite this, he still maintains that married men make the best football players. Tony Wayhan will enter the game in place of the handsome bridegroom, as a result of the fine playing which he exhibited in the Pomona game last Saturday.

GOOD CARD LINED UP FOR ANAHEIM ARENA

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ANAHEIM, Oct. 10.—Five classy bouts have been lined up for the Anaheim fight arena for next Friday night and the headliner affair promises to have the local fans on the edge of their seats until the gong rings down the curtain on the last round. Max Ryan and Neil Brady are the gentlemen who will provide this entertainment.

The other events, which have been announced here are as follows: Harry Lee vs. One Round Andrews, 154 pounds; Johnny McGraw vs. Joe Garcia, 128 pounds; Young Terry vs. Kid Welber, 138 pounds; Art Springer vs. Young Mondoya, catchweights, and Max Ryan vs. Neil Brady, 128 pounds.

FOREIGNERS PLAY ON A SOCCER TEAM

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—Siam, Venezuela and the Creek Indians are represented on the team that will play soccer for Swarthmore preparatory school this season.

The star of the team is Boonrod Jay Akor, son of a wealthy nobleman of Siam. Another player is Gustave Gomez, son of the Vice-President and nephew of the famous President Gomez of Venezuela. Jose Velasco, son of a Venezuelan diplomat, also is a member of the team. The Creeks are represented by Jimmy Bear.

JAPONETTE

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS

James Edgerton, arriving in New York from Paris, finds that the house of Edgerton, Yonkers & Co., from whom he has derived his small income, from which he had derived his clubs and goes to his apartments. There he finds occupied by two young women, Diana and Suzette Tetsumi, distant cousins, who like himself have been left penniless by the firm's failure. After mutual explanations it is decided that Edgerton shall remain and occupy the guest-room. The young women have taken this apartment to advantage for employment as social entertainers. Edgerton proposes that he be permitted to join the group. A Mr. Rivett calls and arranges to have the trio spend the summer at Adirondax, his country house in the Adirondacks. They go to Adirondax and there meet Rivett's family, Christina, daughter of the house, becomes interested in Edgerton. This bothers Diana, who, though she will not admit it, is in love with Edgerton. When Edgerton sees Christina's interest in himself growing he invites Billy Inwood, one of Christine's former lovers. Edgerton in the meantime declares his love for Diana. When Silvette hears of it she makes Diana promise to put him out of her mind. Jack Rivett shows signs of interest in Silvette, but she, knowing that his family have other plans for him, repulses his advances. Diana in the hope of stirring Edgerton to action does things and arouses in him a sense of the futility of his present occupation, points out to him that he should be doing a man's work. While out fishing with Diana he is thrown from his pony. He breaks his arm and returns to the house without letting Diana know. Here he informs Rivett that he has decided to leave and go to New York and seek employment. He at once enters the office of an old Yorke pal lawyers and by using attention to business is promoted rapidly. He writes Diana telling her of progress, but in doing so, mentions a Miss Fish, daughter of the physician who attended his broken arm. Diana is perplexed and in retaliation keeps the name of Miss Wallace in her letters much to Edgerton's discomfiture. In the meantime Billy Inwood, who has had an affair with a Mrs. Norman, attempts to have that lady permit him to announce their engagement. She refuses and he at once proposes to Christine. Edgerton's employer informs Rivett of Edgerton's progress. It then develops that the firm of Edgerton, Tennant & Co. is really owned by Mr. Rivett, though doing business under the old name. Jack Rivett informs his father of his love for Silvette. The father at first refuses to sanction this, but after consulting with Mrs. Rivett agrees. He then calls Silvette in and invites her to remain at his home, not as an employee, but as Jack's betrothed. In the meantime Colonel Dumaer and Agnes Walker are rivals for Dyan's favor. Wallace proposes, but is refused. Nana, however, permitting him to hope that she may later change her mind. Silvette decides to go to New York and show and Diana is induced to accompany her. She leaves Diana at home, hoping that Edgerton may return and call her on the telephone. As she sits remaining the telephone suddenly strikes her presence with its chime. Edgerton's arrival at the hotel is prompt. He proceeds to tell Diana, however, by the end of the interview, how much he enjoys the iron business. It being finally arranged that as Silvette is not to be married till spring that the three shall spend the winter at Edgerton's apartments in New York. Silvette, Jack and Mr. Rivett then arrive and Rivett asks Jack if he will arrange to take dinner with them after his return from Jersey, where he is to go on business. Jack replies that the Yorke pal will not make it. Rivett looks at him and remarked dryly: "Try."

"Little sister," whispered Silvette, leaning over Diana's pillow, where she lay, eyes closed, "are you any happier than you were this morning?"

"Yes."

"Very much?"

"Very much."

And that was all. Silvette looked down at the white face and closed eyes, sighed and extinguished the night light.

The eyes of happiness close only in sleep, or in the arms of the best beloved.

Silvette's excited heart began to sing with the first ray of the morning sun. Also she arose, dressed and breakfasted with her equally reckless affianced, which showed that their was a hopeless case and a recent one.

Dineen came and took Rivett away. Diana tasted a grapefruit in bed, and lay thinking until noon brought luncheon and her maid pro tem.

Jack and Silvette, unable to persuade her, drifted off somewhere into the sparkling confusion of the metropolis, promising to return and take her for a drive through the park.

About 5 o'clock she summoned her maid.

"Please say that I have gone to the studio apartment to get some things from my trunks," she said, and wrote out the address in case either Mr. Rivett or Mr. Dineen wished to communicate with her.

Then, in furs, walking skirt and veil, and her tired little heart already outstripping her feet, she went out into the sunset world upon the pilgrimage so long desired, so long and wistfully deferred.

Her pulse beat fast as she entered his street. The sight of the house filled her with sudden trepidation, but she knew that he was not there. She had nearly three hours alone before her, unless the others, returning to find her note, might telephone and interrupt her.

Her key turned smoothly in the lock; she crossed the threshold, holding her breath.

A dull, mellow light filled the studio. In the stillness a faint fragrance of tobacco hung in the air. Step by step she advanced, looking at each familiar object as she came to it and passed it—pausing to lay a gloved hand on the sofa where, ages ago, two very young people sat, touching with lingering fingers the empty silver bowl which once, on a summer day, had been almost hidden under a fragrant load of peonies.

Something behind her—and it was not a sound—made her turn. The white cat sat looking at her with no recognition in its solemn eyes; and when she moved forward, hand outstretched in wistful appeal, it calmly retreated into the demi light of the bedroom beyond.

The well of desolation was filling fast now; she sank into a wide chair by the tea table and, lifting her veil, touched her eyes with her handkerchief. Then, disciplined, controlled, she lay back looking into the bedroom where she and her sister had slept and awakened through those three magic days which even Fate allowed before foreclosing on her destiny forever.

Pink bars of sunlight slanted on the wall, warming the painted armor of a forgotten dead man—forgotten no more than some among the living. A great lady, painted in her jewels, seemed to flush and smile as a rosy bar crept across her cheek. Doubtless she, too, had loved before she died.

The girl extended her arm listlessly along the upholstered arm of her chair, and looked at her white-gloved hand.

In the hollow of that hand she had once held Love, and had smilingly released it. Out of that little palm Love had flown far beyond her ken; and there was no returning for that winged thing.

Then, very quietly, she bowed her head, eyes sheltered her hand, and remained so, motionless, for a long while.

The outer bell had sounded twice before she realized that it was the bell of the apartment. Dazed, she rose, stood a moment collecting herself, then walked to to the door and opened it.

Col. Curmew stepped jauntily in.

So astonished was she that she scarcely understood what he was about before they both were on the studio threshold—she instinctively retreating, he advancing wreathed in a smile so remarkable that it fascinated her.

"What an odd thing of you to do," she said, still confused by the suddenness of his invasion, groping instinctively for the reason.

"You left word at the Plaza; I understood," he said, his eyes fairly popping at her, then palely roving around the place.

"So this is your apartment?" he said. "What a discreet and charming little nest!"

"I think you don't understand," she said; "this is Mr. Edgerton's apartment."

He looked at her oddly, then burst into laughter.

"You clever girl!" he chuckled.

"What!" she said, bewildered.

But he only smirked at her.

"Look here, little girl," he said, "suppose you begin making your eyes behave, and come down to actualities. You know what I want; I know what you want. We've been wasting time all summer. I'm no fool; neither are you, as you show by selecting this nice, little nook for a good, sensible talk."

She only stared at him, thing ing she had gone mad, and he laughed and twirled his mustache.

"Nix for the baby stare," he said reprovingly. "I tell you I know what a girl like you wants—privacy, discretion, and the usual. . . . And I've got it, little girl—wads of it!"

The grotesqueness of the dream seemed to make her stupid; she tried to find some sense and reason in what this man was saying to her, strove to comprehend him, his visit, his words.

"Are you asking me to—marry you," she said, confused.

"Marry you!" he repeated, his expressive features suddenly blank, then jocular again.

And, suddenly staring into the sinister smirk, she comprehended, and turned ashy white.

Even he could not mistake the genuineness of that white horror.

"You—you d-don't understand," he stammered, his effrontery shaken. "I—perhaps I didn't understand you, either. But I thought—I supposed—"

His top hat fell clattering on the floor; he stooped and picked it up, lifting a redder and more impudent countenance to confront her.

"After all," he said with a sneer, "I had a right to think you knew what you were about—a girl, alone, who lives on her wits."

He hesitated, malignant now, writhing internally under her pallid contempt.

"By God!" he said, "you're nothing better than any other hired woman! I helped hire you myself." And added, between his teeth: "You little clawing cat! I know damned well you're an adventuress, but your game is beyond me—"

He swung insolently on his heel and found himself looking straight into the ——— of Jacob Rivett.

EUROPEAN BILLIARD STARS ENTER EVENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Two of Europe's leading billiard stars—Eduardo Horemans of Belgium, continental champion, and Roger Conti, French champion — today filed their entries for the international professional 18.2 balk-line billiard championship to be held here November 14 to 21.

Willie Hoppe of New York, former 18.2 title-holder, was the first to enter the tournament and will make a strong bid to regain the honors he lost last year to Jake Schafer at Chicago.

Schafer recently arrived in New York from his home in California and has announced he will send in his entry before the end of the week.

DEEP GLOOM AT BRANCH

Gloom reigns at the Southern Branch. Harry Trotter no longer wears that smile of yore since three of the Cub star performers have been declared ineligible, according to the new ruling of the conference. Hastings, center for the Vermont avenue lads, and Marty and Cropsey, Cub linemen, are the victims of the new ruling.

Who will fill the gaps created in the Cub squad has not yet been satisfactorily answered. Trotter announced last night that Wescott would possibly be used at end, while Jack Sergel may be placed at center. No candidate has yet been suggested for the other berth.

"I don't see where folks get the idea that we have a wonder team," Trotter stated. "Some of them think that when we go over to Redlands, we will go on the field and everything will bow before us. When Guy Daniels admits that he has a 25 per cent stronger team than he had last year, I cannot see how anyone can expect the Cubs to clean up. The best that we can do is to fight, and to make a creditable showing, and believe me, we are going to do that."

Coaches Trotter and Cline are putting the Bruin squad through a series of secret practice scrimmages this week in preparation for the first conference game with the Bulldogs next Saturday.

An incentive was given to the branch grid men when Jerry Mumas, a graduate of the University of California, stated that he would give a loving cup each year, to the man who was of the most service to the Southern Branch on the gridiron.

admission and welcome today throughout the Bay District.
Thousands of the antlered brotherhood from all section of the state and hundreds from beyond the borders swarmed through the streets of the bay cities today, purple and gold badges and flower-decked pennants making one riotous color scheme from Santa Monica to Venice. With hotels and apartment-houses crowded to capacity and with more reservations pouring into headquarters every hour Elk officials are freely predicting that the present reunion will be the most successful ever held in the State. More than 10,000 visitors are expected in the

EXPLOSION DEMOLISHES OIL STATION

Lomita Postoffice Also Wrecked by Blast from Air-Compressing Tank

The Lomita Filling Station, at Lomita, and the postoffice of the port suburb were practically demolished shortly before daylight yesterday when an air-compressing tank of the service station exploded with a blast that was heard for several miles. One woman, Mrs. E. G. Lynn, of Two Hundred and Sixty-fifth street, Lomita, was injured and property damage exceeding $2000 was caused by the explosion.

Mrs. Lynn was in the postoffice at the time and was pinned under the debris of the wrecked building, being released with difficulty by rescuers. Cut and bruised by the falling wreckage, she was removed to her home.

The early hour at which the explosion occurred was all that prevented a possible loss of lives. Had the blast occurred a half hour later scores of citizens would have been in the building calling for their mail, it was said. The wrecked service station was owned and operated by Charles M. Smith. Mr. Smith said that no insurance could be collected on account of the accident, as no fire insurance policy provides for an air explosion.

HOTEL MAN ACCUSED BY DETECTIVES

Proprietor Charged With Attempt to Resist Search of Hostelry

Asserted to have offered armed resistance when Police Detectives Partin and Nickens of the police flying squad early yesterday morning attempted to search a room at his hotel at 102 South Spring street for a man who was previously reported to have held up and robbed Cleo Smith of $500 at the end of an asserted poker game, Charles E. Servais, proprietor, was arrested and placed in the City Jail on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

According to the report of Detectives Partin and Nickens, they had been ordered by Lieut. Slaten to investigate the report of Mr. Smith that he had been held up and robbed. When they arrived at the hotel the night clerk, they declared, first refused to admit them and called Mr. Servais. Mr. Servais, they reported, ordered them to leave the hotel, and when they asserted that they believed a felony had been committed, drew a revolver and thrust it menacingly against Detective Nickens. Detective Partin stated he grabbed Mr. Servais's hand and disarmed him.

Later the detectives said they searched the room in which Smith declared he had been robbed and found a poker table, chips and cards.

ROAD DEFERS TO BABES

Santa Fe Engineers Upset Tradition so Slumbers of Youngsters Will be Undisturbed

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

DEL MAR, Oct. 11.—Just to keep from disturbing the dreams of two babies, a time-honored custom of the Santa Fe Railroad has been altered. It has not been changed by request or by order, but simply through the observation and kind-heartedness of engineers running between San Diego and Los Angeles.

For years it has been the habit of engineers on northbound trains to start their whistles shrieking just in front of a red house which is the first they pass on the southern fringe of Del Mar. The red house sits just high enough above the track for such whistlings to funnel into it so violently that it sounds as if a calliope contest had suddenly broken loose in the living-room. But the engineers did not know that, and the people who were until lately in the house did not mind—it served to break the monotony.

But recently a family with two babies bought that house and moved into it, and every day now the babies' beds are rolled out on the veranda. The younger is brand new and sleeps there all day, the elder is 2 years old, and takes a nap there, too. During the first few days after the new family moved in the mother was kept on the run by the whistling trains, every one of which awakened her youngsters. But the observant engineers soon noticed that, and now blow their whistles either just before they reach the house or just after they have passed it, and the babies sleep on.

The family in the red house have addressed a letter of thanks to the considerate engineers.

CRONIN EXPECTED TO QUIT

County Jailer's Return From Vacation Revives Rumors of Friction With Officials and Resignation

Robert E. Cronin, for more than a year the jailer of Los Angeles county, is expected to hand in his resignation to Sheriff Traeger today, according to rumors heard about the Sheriff's office late yesterday evening.

Cronin was waiting outside Sheriff Traeger's private office when the Sheriff left for home last night, after a conference earlier in the day had apparently realized nothing definite in results. The Sheriff would neither confirm nor deny the rumor that Cronin had been asked to resign.

The jailer was expected to return to duty last Monday, after having a month's leave of absence, but until last night Acting Jailer Mark Bailey was still in charge.

For several weeks it has been understood that Cronin's asserted activities about the jail were not in accord with the Sheriff's views, and that conditions in the jail had caused a distinct breach between the jail officials and the deputies assigned to the criminal department.

The affair was brought to a head after the trial of Herbert Wilson, one-time preacher, who was convicted of slaying Herbert Cox, his comrade, while both were attempting to break from jail last April 9. Several prisoners testified that Wilson had liberally dispensed money about the jail in return for his testimony favorable to his cause. It also came out that gambling was permitted among the prisoners with the apparent authorization of the guards. The commissary maintained for the use of the 450 prisoners was also said to have been a prolific source of income to Cronin.

For weeks investigation by the grand jury loomed as a possibility. Cronin was known to be at outs with the other departments under Sheriff Traeger. At this time he went upon his vacation, his place being temporarily taken by Mark Bailey. His return to duty has forced action from some quarter, it is believed.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Clark, who prosecuted Wilson, scathingly denounced Cronin in his address to the jury, and demanded that the matter in toto be taken to the grand jury. A statement issued later by Clark outlined the impossibility of tangible evidence, the majority of the witnesses being felons.

Charges against Cronin filed by the Sheriff with the Civil Service Commission are believed to have been made, in which sensational accusations were contained. Cronin's rumored resignation is said by some to have been hurried by a perusal of the charges, and a wish to keep them from the public.

Cronin has been jailer since the removal of George Gallagher, shortly after Sheriff Traeger succeeded W. H. Cline in March, 1921. Formerly he had been working as a deputy sheriff with his brother, Jack, who died last winter. He was held in high regard by the prisoners, who, upon the occasion of his birthday, presented him with an expensive diamond ring.

LEFT OUT OF PICNIC

Water and Power Workers Denied Opportunity to Attend Gathering of City Employees

While the City Hall will be closed today and two-thirds of the city employees will have an opportunity to enjoy the Discovery Day holiday at their third annual picnic to be conducted at Sycamore Grove, 3200 employees of the municipal water and power departments must labor throughout the day, the Board of Public Service Commissioners having declined to grant the workers the holiday.

As a result, there were angry protests from the public service employees and a committee headed by C. R. Lewis, general chairman of the picnic committee, waited upon Mayor Cryer yesterday afternoon and enlisted his support in an eleventh-hour effort to induce the Public Service Board to change its mind and declare the day a holiday.

The Mayor was unable to communicate with President Del Valle of the board. The Mayor said that he was in sympathy with the public service employees' request and believed that inasmuch as the day is a State holiday that all except employees needed for protective and emergency work on the power and power lines should be given the day off.

At the offices of the commission it was stated yesterday afternoon that the board had received a request from the department employees for the day off and that the board had denied the request on the ground that "it was deemed inavisable" to close the public service offices on account of the large amount of work on hand, new orders for water, electric light and power services being received, and because of the extra work which has been caused by the city's taking over the Los Angeles business of the Southern California Edison Company.

So, while the rest of the city employees picnic at Sycamore Grove today, the public service workers, men and women, will keep open house for water and power customers at 207 South Broadway.

TWO HUGE BUILDINGS PROMISED

Masons and Y.W.C.A. Arrange for New Quarters at Long Beach

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Oct. 11. — Two important additions to the city's list of splendid institutions are assured, it was revealed today following the action of the Masonic bodies of Long Beach and the Y.W.C.A., who have determined to erect large new homes for their respective organizations.

A new Masonic Temple, to be located at the corner of Pine and Seventh street, and to cost in the neighborhood of a half-million dollars, is being contemplated and the first steps toward the realization of the plan will be the organization of a new Masonic Building Association.

Announcement has also been made by officials of the Long Beach Y.W.C.A. that that organization has purchased a site at Sixth and Pacific avenue on which the first unit of a series of Y.W.C.A. buildings will be erected in the near future. Although the consideration involved in the purchase of the site, a valuable downtown corner with a frontage of 150 feet on Pacific avenue, it is understood that the property cost the association about $70,000.

Members of the Y.W.C.A. board will visit similar institutions in Los Angeles, Pasadena and other cities with a view to gathering ideas for the construction of the new Long Beach home.

JUSTICE, HIS TOPIC

"Justice in the Justice Courts" will be the topic of an address to be delivered by Justice Edward Judson Brown this afternoon before the Philanthropy and Civics Club. The meeting will be in Elks' Hall and will commence at 1 p.m. Judge Brown also will speak in favor of the firemen's and policemen's pension fund, which will be an issue on the November ballot.

GIRL HURT IN ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE

Leaps From Police Auto and is Seriously Injured; Drunkenness Charged

While being taken to the University Police Station with another woman and two men in charges of intoxication, a girl about 21 years of age, giving the name of Nellie Moran, yesterday leaped from the car in front of an automobile truck at Fiftieth street and Vermont avenue and suffered concussion of the brain, a possible skull fracture and a badly lacerated right arm.

The girl had been taken into custody by Police Officer Magnes, together with Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Minor, 6612 South Figueroa street, and L. R. Taylor of Long Beach, at Ninety-sixth street and Vermont avenue. She was riding with Taylor in the back seat of a police car driven by Officer Underwood. The The others arrested were being taken to the station in another car driven by Officer Howard, it was stated.

Immediately after the accident the girl was picked up and taken to the Receiving Hospital by F. Landsiedel, 1157 West Seventy-fifth street, in his car. Later the Minors were booked at the City Jail on charges of drunkenness and suspicion of felony. The girl was ordered held at the Receiving Hospital on the same charges. The driver of the truck which is said to have run over the girl when she leaped from the police car was R. K. Cadwille, 1006 North Rampart Boulevard.

Store to Have Toy Menagerie for Children

Kiddies from all parts of Los Angeles are planning to attend the annual toy circus and side-show which is to be given by Robinson's store next Saturday morning and afternoon on the fifth floor of their building.

Clowns, trained mules, trained pigeons, mechanical toys of all sorts, including a large mechanical elephant which eats, wags its tail, moves its eyes and trunk, all by electricity, will be displayed.

According to the store management, a show will be given at 10 a.m., preceded by a parade, and a performance at 2 p.m., preceded with a grand march of all the circus menagerie and its performers.

The pageant was staged last year with such success that the store decided to again give the little tots a treat. This year every boy and girl that comes to see the exhibition will be presented with a toy balloon. Officials of the store have ordered several hundred of the balloons.

There will be a regular tent on the floor, which will contain a reserved section for the children. Parents are invited, but they must bring a child. There will be no admission charged.

TO PROTECT ZONES

The welfare committee of the City Council is preparing to recommend a campaign of prosecution of those who violate the zoning ordinances of the city by establishing businesses in zones inside of which commercial establishments are not permitted.

People and Their Troubles

Listen, World!

WRITTEN AND ILLUSTRATED BY Clare Robinson

The other day a young woman applied at the police station in Mt. Vernon, N. Y., for a guard to accompany her home while she packed her clothes. "My husband left me because I bobbed my hair," she said. "Will you help me? I am afraid to go back home for my clothes without an escort because I fear my husband may come in and beat me. He was awful mad over my having my hair bobbed."

Doubtless, this will occasion much sage head wagging as to the degenerate tendencies of modern styles. Far be it from me to discourage all good souls who are looking for degeneracy in every dewdrop. However, it might be of some small interest to quote a few passages from Alice Morse Earle's "Home Life in Colonial Days." This concerns a style of hairdressing "in those good old-fashioned times" when righteousness was rampant and evil dasn't show its nose:

"There was one fashion which was so untidy, so uncomfortable, so costly, and so ridiculous that we can only wonder that it was endured for a single season—I mean the fashion of wig-wearing by men. The first colonists wore their own natural hair. The Cavaliers had long and perfumed lovelocks, and though the Puritans had been called Roundheads, their hair waved, also, over the band or collar, and often hung over the shoulder. The Quaker, also, wore long locks.

"But by 1675 wigs had become common enough to be denounced by the Massachusetts government, and to be preached against by many ministers; while other ministers proudly wore them. Wigs were called horrid bunches of vanity, and hundreds of other disparaging names, which seemed to make them more popular. They varied from year to year; sometimes they swelled out at the sides, or rose in great puffs, or turned under in heavy rolls, or hung in braids and curls and pig-tails; they were made of human hair, or horsehair, goat's hair, calves' and cows' tails, of thread, silk and mohair. They had scores of silly and meaningless names such as "grave full-bottom," "giddy feather-top," "long-tail," "fox-tail," "drop-wig," etc. They were bound and braided with pink, green, red and purple ribbons, sometimes all these colors on one wig. They were very heavy, and very hot, and very expensive, often costing what would be equal to $100 today.

"Little children wore them. I have seen the bill for a wig for William Freeman, dated 1764; he was a child 7 years old. His father paid 9 pounds for it and the same for wigs for his other boys of 9 and 10. After wigs had become unfashionable, the natural hair was powdered, and was tied in a queue in the back. This was an untidy, troublesome fashion, which ruined the clothes, for the hair was soaked with oil or pomatum to make the powder stick."

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Frank Rebuttal

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In a late number of The Times I read a letter from a Canadian woman named I think something like Higgins.

In this letter she takes the liberty to sneer at the American women for having small families. She boasts of having six and scorns the average American women for having only one or two.

I don't think Mrs. Higgins has much reason for rejoicing in her large family. The savages often have twenty or more. I would like to tell her that in America quality not quantity is what we want.

The real reason we American women have small families is this: we don't want to be tied down to the nursery all the time; we have more important things to do. I for instance serve on the jury, and the election board, and I am a member of two bridge clubs, and several social clubs, and I find I haven't a moment that I can call my own. My two children are away at boarding school and there they will stay until educated. No, we American women don't care for large families. We know it means no end of worry and don't pay for the time and expense and if Mrs. Higgin don't like our way of doing things why don't she stay in Canada where she belongs with the rest of the Canadians.

ANNA MILLER.

Here's Thomas Again

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] May I say a word or two in reply to the letter from your correspondent in Hawthorne, who presumes to insert 300 words of blub-blub in a discussion I have had with another correspondent? The latter's discreet silence in pursuing a controversy in which he is wise enough to know he has been bettered is now contrasted by the Hawthorne bull in a china shop who objects to he knows not what written by he knows not who. I should not waste my ink upon him if his case did not present some material, however poor, for curious speculation on human folly.

This interrupter in a discussion between strangers chatting in the forum of the press says I derive the "pity of every logical person" because of my "affliction of ingrowing, incurable egotism with no saving grace of an appreciation of humor."—I hesitate to quote the entire sentence with its original syntax out of consideration of the reader. The words in themselves, however, reveal some glammer of a thought.

How does this gentleman of Hawthorne assume that my egotism is ingrown when, he charges, it is so much in evidence; and if ingrown by what right of logic of a "logical person" does he assume that it is incurable? All egotisms are curable, as Plutarch long ago observed, but one thing is not curable and that is folly and the height of folly is attempting to meet one's betters in a tilt of wits.

As for my lack of the "saving grace" of "an appreciation of humor" there may be some merit in the charge since I have gone to this length in taking seriously a communication from an antagonist unworthy of my steel that should have brought at most a hearty laugh.

As for the editor of this column, I still consider him an ass for not having printed my communication of a fortnight ago.

THOMAS GILMAN.

Liked the Tone of It

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Again, in this Sunday issue, we are made to feel that The Times has put forth another of those great editorials, brief and perplexed though it is, in "Must We Drink Of This Cup." It is a manifestly sincere inquiry as to what is the matter with our social order, that it is about to start another chapter of cosmic horrors.

For, permit me to say, the thing that breeds war in Europe and Asia is precisely the same thing in character that is a daily social warfare in the United States: That sets citizen against citizen, neighbor against neighbor, in the mere mechanical processes of getting a living; that should by this time, to keep pace with our inventive progress generally, be operations of automatic and inevitable harmony, good will and precise, matter-of-fact justice.

Another name for this primordial thing that is the matter with all the nations is—anarchy; not the amiable philosophy of that name, of harmless futuristic speculation, but the practice of the habit in which our human history began; and that is being gradually exposed as a social futility by the saner and more competent methods of enlightened modern capitalism; the practical phase, without the declared purpose, of the revolution into effective democracy; in which this same capitalism will become the business of all, and in which the war motive will disappear, for the lack of an imaginable object or grievance.

Russia is fumbling clumsily with the idea, in working back from the impossible extremes of communism; while it still must go heavily armed, for the safety of its great national interests against the commercial marauders, while it seeks to put its house into a new and untried order.

And this deadly, individualist capitalism, nationalized, is to be our salvation from all the forms of war, including its own! "The life so short; the art—of living—so long to learn."

A. GEORGE.

What's In a Name?

PASADENA, Oct. 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] You see it is this way: Every Sunday when I open The Times Illustrated Magazine I first read every line and word of the first page of reading in it, whether I read anything else in the issue or not, because it seems to me the "pieces" written there are some of the finest kind of Sabbath literature.

And today I was wondering why it was always so good; and so I figured out the reason is because the conductor and manager of that page is named John McGraw-erty.

TELLS TEACHERS OF ILLITERACY MEASURE

An important meeting of the School-teachers' Association will be held in the Auditorium Building, room 202, tonight. Ira F. Thompson, candidate for the Superior Court bench, will deliver an explanatory address on the Towner-Sterling bill now before Congress.

The measure calls for a national appropriation to reduce illiteracy to a minimum and assist State and county schools. It is proposed that the appropriation be divided among the various States as the necessity for educational furtherance appears.

Question: How long has Representative Volstead been in office? Who is his opponent in the coming election? R. E. T.

Answer: Mr. Volstead was first elected to the Fifty-eighth Congress from the Seventh Congress District of Minnesota. His opponent in the coming election is the Rev. Mr. O. J. Kvale of Benson. Mr. Kvale is a Democrat, who claims to be dryer than Mr. Volstead. He is pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America.

Q.: Has any study ever been made showing the effect of the temperature of a room on school-children? C. H. J.

A.: Supt. Hines of Crawfordsville, Ind., reports the following: When the temperature of the school-room was 80 deg. Fahr., the class was restless and dull; 74 deg. Fahr., dull; 72 deg. Fahr., restless; 70 deg. Fahr., excellent work; 68 deg. Fahr., best work of the day; 66 deg. Fahr., splendid work; 65 deg. Fahr., class happy and full of energy; 60 deg. Fahr., too cold for good work.

Q.: Are automobiles used by the majority of laundries in the United States? C. A. G.

A.: Of 271 laundries surveyed, 56 per cent use motor cars in delivery.

Q.: How much land is included in Golden Gate Park?

C. H. R.

A.: This park, which is located in San Francisco, occupies 1013 acres.

Q.: What is the origin of the use of coffee? T. P. E.

A.: The Abyssinians of which country the coffee plant is a native say that it has been in use from time immemorial. A story of the fifteenth century from this country relates that a flock of sheep browsing on the shrubs of the coffee plant became lively and sleepless at night. This fact was noticed and the Mohammedans used the leaves and later the berries as a stimulant to combat sleep during worship, which was a long and wearisome service. The use of coffee was thereupon prohibited by the orthodox Mohammedans.

Q.: Is the greengage a plum?

W. S.

A.: The greengage is a famous variety of sweet plum. It originated in France, where it is known as Reine Claude, from Claudia, Queen to Francis I. Its English title is after a clergyman named Gage, who introduced it to England.

Q.: Who were Geri and Freki?

A.: According to the sagas these are the wolves of Odin. They lie at his feet and he sits on his throne in Valhalla. Odin needs no food, so he gives all the meat set before him to his wolves.

Q.: How did the ocarina get its name? F. M. L.

A.: This musical instrument was first known in Italy or Austria. The name is the Italian dimunitive for oca meaning goose and was applied to the instrument on account of its resemblance to a goose egg.

Q.: Under which Pharaoh did the exodus of the Israelites from Egypt take place?

A.: It is still a disputed question under which Pharaoh the Exodus took place. The traditional and most general view is that Rameses II was the Pharaoh of oppression and Menphthal of the Exodus. The mummy of the former has been discovered.

Q.: Is there a tower that can be rocked by the pressure of the hand? G. R.

A.: This is true of the Sather bell tower on the campus of the University of California at Berkeley, erected as a memorial by Mrs. Jane K. Sather. It is 302 feet high and is so built that in the event of an earthquake it would vibrate like a tree.

Two Buildings Put Up Solely to Burn Down

A demonstration of fireproofing by means of a newly devised linseed oil paint, the invention of Gen. Fernando Somoza Vivas, will be given Saturday afternoon at 2:30 at Sunset and Hillhurst Boulevards.

Two frame buildings have been erected, identical in size, shape and material used. One of these has been painted with ordinary paint, while the other has been coated with the Somoza fireproof paint. Fire will be applied to both structures.

Other tests will show the fireproofing of telephone poles, roof shingles, inside woodwork and also of curtains, rugs and similar fabrics through use of fireproof starch and other preparations.

Fire Chief Scott and other city officials will witness the demonstration, which will be given under the direction of the inventor himself. A factory for the production of his patents will be put up in Oakland, and a $600,000 corporation has been formed to market the goods. J. H. Weber, with offices in the Junior Orpheum Building, Los Angeles, is Southern California agent.

How Better Than Pills?

The question has been asked, In what way are Chamberlain's Tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is, they are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then, they not only move the bowels, but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion.—[Advertisement.

Rheumatism at 60

S. S. S. Thoroughly Rids the Body of Rheumatism Impurities.

Somebody's mother is suffering tonight! The scourge of rheumatism has wrecked her body; limping and suffering, bent forward, she sees but the common ground, but her aged heart still belongs to the stars! Does anybody care? S. S. S. is one of the greatest blood-purifiers known, and it helps build more blood cells. Its medicinal ingredients are purely vegetable. It never disarranges the stomach. It is, in fact, a splendid tonic, a blood maker, a blood enricher. It banishes rheumatism from joints, muscles and the entire body. It builds firm flesh. It is what somebody's mother needs tonight! Mother, if you can not go out to get a bottle of S. S. S. yourself, surely somebody in your family will. Somebody, get a bottle of S. S. S. now! Let somebody's mother begin to feel joyful again tonight. Maybe, maybe it's your mother! S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

How glorious you will feel, mother, when your rheumatism is all gone. Let S. S. S. do it. It will build you up, too!

for Loss of Appetite

This weakening condition arises from the failure of the body to dispose effectively of waste products of digestion. The system needs to tone up, stimulate, and regulate the system thus inducing a healthy appetite. A teaspoonful of fresh air and drink ENO'S "Fruit Salt" first thing every morning.

Beauties Face Theft Charges; Hint Frame-up

The case of Elaine and Marie Littel, young beauties accused of stealing a wrist watch and $40 from Chauncey P. Reynolds at a recent party in a downtown cafe, was adjourned yesterday in Justice Hanby's court until tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Significance is attached to the fact that there were present in Justice Hanby's court, ready for the hearing yesterday, "Gus" Oliva, the San Francisco millionaire who is defendant in a $100,000 breach of promise suit brought by Elaine Littel, one of the two prisoners.

With Oliva, it was reported, were two San Francisco detectives, as well as an attorney. Attorneys Kittrelle and Schunck, representing the girls, declare the theft charge against them is a frame-up to injure their reputation.

WIFE TELLS OF "OTHER" WOMAN

"Confidential" Worker in De Coo Tangle

Spouse of Police Head Files New Complaint

Divorce Wanted by Husband, Papers Assert

The "other woman" who stalked unseen and unknown in the former matrimonial mazes of Police Commissioner Charles A. DeCoo yesterday made her appearance, although still unidentified, when Mrs. Lydia DeCoo filed an amended complaint for divorce in the Superior Court. The third angle, which has not been mentioned before, is said to be a woman "enjoying a confidential position with Mr. DeCoo."

The new woman, in whom the police commissioner is said to have been interested, was first mentioned to Mrs. DeCoo by her husband when he "extolled her attractive qualities." Then, it is charged, the wealthy lumberman and former church official is said to have taken the woman of mystery with him to the hospital when Mrs. DeCoo was ill. The wife, she states, objected to this but Mr. DeCoo persisted.

OTHER WOMAN

It is charged by the wife that Mr. DeCoo brought from the State of Washington a young woman and later engaged her in a confidential capacity, the nature of which Mrs. DeCoo says she is unaware. After this, it is stated, the husband insisted on discussing the attractive qualities of the third party both in the presence of his wife and of other people.

Later it was necessary for Mrs. DeCoo to return to the hospital and it is charged that during this time the husband spent a great deal of his time with the stranger. He took her to the beaches, riding in his car and then took her to dinner.

Apropos of the habit of Mr. DeCoo to bring the woman to the hospital, Mrs. DeCoo states that her husband at first "rebuffed her pleasant advances to him while she was in the hospital" but that later "he ignored her and treated her in a rude, distant and uncivil manner."

The desire for a divorce was constantly the subject of Mr. DeCoo's letters while he was in Missouri, the complaint states. He insisted, she charges, that he be permitted to get a divorce in that State that unfavorable publicity might be avoided here. Then he expressed a feeling of happiness since he and his wife had parted. He also told her that his love was dead, the complaint adds.

DEMANDS DIVORCE

"I will get a divorce if I have to go through every court in the land to get it," the commissioner is credited with announcing. Then he wrote, so the complaint states, "The only thing we can do is part and have a settlement. If you want to get a divorce you may do so; if not, I must." The legal separation was desirable both from a business and personal aspect, Mr. DeCoo is said to have told his wife.

Mrs. DeCoo, who lives at 620 South Virgil avenue, asks for $300 a month alimony. She also asks that the court restrain her husband from disposing of any community property until a settlement has been reached.

It was stipulated at the time of filing the amended complaint by both Mrs. DeCoo's attorneys, Lawler and Degnan, and by the husband's representatives, William and Guy Lewis, that Mr. DeCoo's original answer would serve in this action.

The couple were married in Frankfort, Ill., Feb. 12, 1896. They separated here last June.

CONFESSION BRANDED FALSE

Took some wild flowers to Jesse's grave. I could hardly stand there and see his name engraved in that place. And still, I'm glad I had it done. Dick hasn't phoned for two days. I wonder if he is out of town. He certainly puzzles me. Every time I see him he acts different. I can't quite understand his actions and yet I feel sorry for him in one way. There seems to be so many people missmated in this world. Senora acts rather sad lately. But I guess she hasn't much to be glad about. George phoned last night. I hope he don't call again tonight."

This was all Alberta Meadows wrote as her own life's happenings on Memorial Day.

COUPE STORY FALSE

Phillips also expects to tell the jury when his wife appears for trial on the charge of murder that he purchased a coupe for Mrs. Meadows, giving his personal check for it until she arrived later in the day with the money. Deputy Frank Dewar declared last night this statement was false. He stated that he possesses the original check for the payment of the automobile and that it bears the signature of Alberta Meadows.

Deputy Sheriff Dewar also has a letter from A. C. Fike, salesman for the Western Motors Company, who sold the automobile to Mrs. Meadows on May 24, last. Her diary states she received the money from the Pacific Electric Railway, on May 12, last.

Refutations of the truth of Phillips's statement were numerous at the Sheriff's office. Undersheriff Biscailux declared Phillips, in the presence of Attorney John B. Haas, emphatically denied his acquaintance with Mrs. Meadows was ever more than a casual acquaintance, that he had only met the girl on one occasion.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Dewar said that while he had Phillips in his custody following the crime, Phillips denied he had ever had any intimate relations with the girl.

"He told me that Alberta was a good girl," said Dewar, "and that his wife was a victim of unreasonable jealousy. He said that on a night prior to the murder he met Alberta and her younger sister on Figueroa street. The two girls were in a Ford coupe. 'If I wasn't married I'd go with you,' Phillips said he told Alberta. 'This car is only built for two,' Alberta replied curtly, meaning there was no room for him."

"Phillips's statement is an outrageous lie!" exclaimed Acting Dist.-Atty. Asa Keyes.

"It is a miserable attempt to besmirch a dead girl's good name," said Undersheriff Biscailux. "Phillips must explain to me this report he has so widely circulated."

"It's all a lie!" declared Mrs. A. Tremain, the slain girl's grandmother. "He ought to be hanged. He knew as well as I do that he only saw Alberta two or three times. Her diary proves there was no affection for him."

Mr. Tremaine, the dead girl's father, said: "I have nothing to say except that I have been legally advised that I have a case of criminal libel. I shall consult my attorneys, Elmer T. Bromley and Ralph Bacon, and Dist.-Atty. Woolwine; if they advise me that the case is one of criminal libel I shall no doubt proceed."

While condemnation was descending upon Phillips from various quarters, the District-Attorney's forces were completing their plans for the trial of Clara Phillips, scheduled to open on October 20.

MANY WITNESSES

Twenty-two prosecution witnesses have been subpoenaed.

Peggy Caffee, eyewitness to the murder, will tell of the death struggle on Montecito Drive.

Jack Munson of Pomona will testify to the finding of Mrs. Meadows blood-splotched automobile.

L. E. Jacobs, Mrs. Mola Swain and Mrs. Carrie V. Colly, employees of the First National Bank, where Mrs. Meadows was employed, will tell of seeing Mrs. Phillips in the bank on the afternoon of the murder, when she is said to have made inquiries about Mrs. Meadows. They will also be character witnesses in behalf of the slain girl.

Genora Tremain, sister of Alberta, will tell of the meeting with Phillips prior to the murder and other incidents of her dead sister's life.

Other witnesses will be:

Guy Millman, clerk at the Baltimore Hotel, where Clara Phillips registered under an assumed name;

B. Taylor, bell boy, who heard loud talking in a room occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Phillips on the night of the murder.

Frankie Lee, who saw Clara Phillips and Peggy Caffee drinking on the day prior to the crime in the rooms of "Dick" Covington, and at which time Mrs. Phillips is said to have called Covington "Daddy."

FOUND BLOOD

Prof. J. Arthur Maas, who found blood on Mrs. Phillips's shoes, gloves and on the door and floor of Mrs. Meadows's car.

Dr. A. H. Zeller, who will testify it was human blood.

Attorney John B. Haas, to whom Phillips first confessed his wife had slain Alberta Meadows.

Albert Tremain, the dead girl's father, who will tell of the girl's home life.

Dr. Wagner, county autopsy surgeon, who conducted the post mortem and diagnosed the cause of death.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Dewar, who took Peggy Caffee to Shorb Station to identify Mrs. Phillips as the slayer of Mrs. Meadows.

L. W. Streeter, taxicab driver, who drove Clara Phillips on the afternoon of the murder.

G. W. Cleveland and H. O. Hickcock, who saw Mrs. Phillips and Peggy Caffee enter Mrs. Meadows's automobile shortly before the murder.

H. M. Hill and W. A. Cochran, police officers, who found the broken hammer handle and other telltale pieces of evidence.

F. H. Litchfield, Times staff photographer, who photographed the murder scenes.

Mrs. Warren.

Mrs. Bonnot.

Mrs. McElroy.

WORKMAN DIES SUDDENLY

Dies of Heart Disease in Front of Undertaking Establishment

As he was walking by the E. L. Overholtzer undertaking establishment, 1236 South Grand avenue, yesterday morning, a man identified as Steve Sipas, aged 36 years, of 656 East Thirty-ninth street, fell dead.

Sipas, according to the police, was on his way to work, and had just alighted from a street car at Pico street and Grand avenue. As he fell on the sidewalk pedestrains ran to his assistance and carried him into the undertaking establishment. It was determined there that he had died of heart failure.

Police Catch Detective of Fiction Tales

Y'know sherlock Holmes? Surely, you must. Well, as he is pictured in Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's books and in every picture of him that artist has drawn, so stalked a mysterious figure up and down Andrews street last night.

Trick hat, trick monocle, trick pipe, trick everything—just as Sherlock is supposed to have worn 'em—the stranger had 'em on.

Finally one of the less terrorized natives of Andrews street approached him:

"And who are you?" he queried.

"Me?" quoth the stranger—"I am Sherlock Holmes. And I have all the dope on the murder of Fred Oesterrich here some time ago!"

The police took care of Mr. Holmes. They are asking him now about Mr. Oesterrich's death——and other things.

the filing of today's action is the result of his determination to clear his name.

FRIDAY, THE 13TH

Tomorrow — Friday, the 13th inst.—the interlocutory decree of divorce, which Mrs. Clara Whipple Young obtained on Oct. 13, 1921, will become a final decree. Young's intention for some months past had been to oppose the granting of the final decree and to submit a cross-complaint whereby he would seek a divorce himself.

Under the law, this would have been impossible, according to a statement a few days ago by Milton M. Cohen, attorney for Mrs. Young, and consequently the wife's decree will become in force tomorrow.

In moving last month to set aside the real estate and cash settlement he made on Mrs. Young, the director charged his wife with intimacy with a Robert Russell, who, he alleges, occupied the same house with her at 2000 Holly Drive. Affidavits were obtained from detectives which told of seeing Russell and Mrs. Young together in a bedroom of the house.

Judge Hahn, in denying the director's motion to set aside the settlement, said that his mother had taught him to assume a woman's purity and innocence until she is proven otherwise, and contended that Young had failed to prove his charges against his wife.

It was immediately after this action by the court that Mrs. Young gave out the interview to Edward Doherty, which forms the basis of the new slander action.

Oust Landlady for Neglect to Renew Lease

Ruben S. Schmidt, sitting as judge pro tem, yesterday ordered Mrs. Lillian Brown to vacate the Miller Apartments at 1116 South Flower street because she failed to renew her lease on the property within the proper time. In making his decision favoring Mrs. Hulda Miller, owner of the building, the court dismissed the charges that the apartment-house was being run by Mrs. Brown in a questionable manner.

When the case first came to trial it was testified by city officials that 10 per cent of the local apartment-houses and 25 per cent of the hotels here were dens of vice. It was charged that the Miller Apartments were in this class. By the ruling of the court, however, no such charges were sustained.

"WETS" HUNTING WILL O' WISPS

courts. But in the reasonable and practical effort to make the prohibition contained in the Eighteenth Amendment effective, Congress had the right to legislate against things non-intoxicating in order that the sale of things intoxicating might be forfended against. But this is a far cry from giving to Congress authority to legislate permissively in favor of intoxicating beverages in the face of the Constitutional amendment positively prohibiting them. Congress may take all reasonable means to legislate against intoxicating beverages. It may take no means or occasion to legislate in their favor.

NO CHANCE

The simple truth is that as long as the Eighteenth Amendment is a part of the Constitution, intoxicating beverages, whatever their alcoholic content and by whatever name called, are taboo. And it is an equal truth that to amend or repeal the Eighteenth Amendment requires the affirmative concurrence of thirty-six States of the American Union. As thirteen States could have prevented the adoption of prohibition, so now thirteen States may prevent any changes in the terms of the Eighteenth Amendment. Before that amendment was submitted, more than thirty States were dry by their own vote and voice. So it would seem, therefore, that only when the people of at least thirty-six States shall have been converted to the seductive slogan of "light wines and beers," will it be time for candidates for office and other thirsty souls to talk about a lifting of the lid and an asserted liberalizing of the Volstead law.

WIFE MISSING

Man Anxious to Locate Woman Gone for Eight Days

C. A. Mansfield, an electrical engineer of this city, has asked The Times to help locate his wife, who has been missing for eight days. Mr. Mansfield, who resides at 154 East Forty-eighth street, says that his wife was in a hospital at Redlands for six weeks and was dismissed from that institution last June.

Since her arrival home Mr. Mansfield states that his wife threatened to leave but that she did not give her reasons for leaving. He states that he is very anxious to know her whereabouts.

When last seen she wore a raccoon fur coat, had bobbed hair and wore gray stockings. Her weight is 144 pounds and she is of medium build.

Mrs. Roberts was "DEAD TIRED"

She had risen at 5.30—prepared breakfast—dressed the children for school—minded the youngest baby—purchased the meats and vegetables—sorted the laundry—paid the grocery man and the ice man—given the house "a thorough going over"—and prepared luncheon. And dinner was all to come!

It wasn't an unusual day for Mrs. Roberts. By no means! It was just a repeat of her daily routine—the routine of most of ten housewives. No wonder she was "dead tired."

Suddenly Mrs. Roberts stopped and took a long, deep breath. From "next door" came that clean, crisp, appetizing aroma that stirs the appetite and spells "Coffee" in any language. It was irresistible. Pretty soon the Coffee Pot was singing its friendly little song in the Roberts' household, too.

That evening, when Mr. Roberts came home, he noted the difference in his wife. She had a better appetite for dinner—she seemed less tired than usual—more cheerful.

"I feel better, too," she said. "I believe it's because I set down for a little while this afternoon and drank a cup of Coffee. You don't know how good it tasted. I'm going to drink a cup every afternoon from now on."

COFFEE the universal drink

Have you ever tried a mid-afternoon cup of Coffee? You'll be surprised at how it lifts you up—how much better you feel the rest of the day. There's nothing better on a busy day than a delicious cup of Coffee.

COLE SPEAKS OF LINCOLN

Ex-Senator Tells of Famous Gettysburg Address

Sat Near Emancipator During Memorable Speech

Reveals Great President in Intimate Mood

BY MYRA NYE

Hundreds of members of Los Angeles Ebell will remember yesterday and recount in days to come how they heard a venerable white-haired man in his one hundred and first year tell of the famous Gettysburg address of Abraham Lincoln.

Ex-Senator Cole sat just one seat removed from Abraham Lincoln, on the platform at Gettysburg on the first anniversary of the battle. He told how he watched the President before and during that memorable address, how, in spite of all historians to the contrary, he thought then and has always thought since that those words beginning "Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation"—were extemporaneous. Inspired by the occasion, the plain-spoken but the eloquence of Edward Everett. The speaker had no notes or papers in his hands. He listened with a face white with emotion to the eloquence of his colleague.

LITERARY MASTERPIECE

"A few months ago," said the centenarian, "Judge Morrow, a friend of mine, visited England. He told me that when he went to the famous University of Oxford the celebrated teacher of English told him that he would show him the most wonderful bit of literature in the English language and on one of the scholastic walls he pointed to the full text of Abraham Lincoln's masterpiece.

"I could not but look back to that day over half a century gone when Abraham Lincoln rose in his place, took only a few steps forward and very simply delivered those words. The crowds were there to hear him, many of them had come miles over dusty, hot, country roads. They had just been moved by the eloquence of a great orator. Their faces clearly expressed their disappointment. They thought the President had only begun when he sat down. There was no applause. It was only after several days that they began to realise the matchlessness of those marvelously constructed sentences and the impelling force of the intelligence behind them. Then they remembered that the delivery of the address in its dignity befitted the words."

INTIMATE STORY

Senator Cole told several interesting stories of Lincoln, most intimate of which, perhaps was the one of Mrs. Cole's white gloves.

"Everyone, including the President, had on white gloves at that last reception the President gave. When Mrs. Cole and I went forward to shake hands with him, Mrs. Cole found she had lost one of her gloves. She was filled with consternation to think of being ungloved when she spoke to the President. Mr. Lincoln saw her embarrassment, knew its cause at once and said, 'Never mind Mrs. Cole, I will have it found in the morning and then I will keep it for a souvenir.'"

Miss Ida May Adams, representing the Indian Welfare League, spoke eloquently upon the subject "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" and told the last chapter of the story of the fifty-one Indians whom she had defended in the Federal Courts of this city; how an emissary from the league, Miss Clara True, had gone on to Washington to discover if possible why the many letters to President Harding had never evoked a reply. Just three weeks ago one of the officers of the Indian Bureau said to Miss True:

CASE DISMISSED

"The case against the Indians will be dismissed. Miss True, but don't let Miss Adams know it. We don't want things done in that way. It is not the women of Los Angeles who have accomplished it, but we have seen the wisdom of dismissing the case. The letters they sent from Los Angeles never reached President Harding. He is so tender of heart he might have taken some sudden action and those things should go through the Indian Bureau."

"Our joy is great to learn that President Harding had not turned a deaf ear to us and our concern was not how the Indians were released but that they should be

Answers to Correspondents

My Dear Followers:

When sending for material which we offer you, please remember always to inclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must inclose 4 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper and please remember that, on account of the hundreds of letters received in every mail, I cannot make personal replies. I appreciate very much the beautiful personal letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest; for the rest you must consult your personal physicians.

Mrs. A. B. P.—Whoopingcough has no fixed length or course. Six weeks is about its average duration, but it may run longer or shorter. It is highly infectious and, because it lowers the resistance markedly, it is a dangerous disease. It really should be a quarantine disease. Sooner or later this will be recognized by health boards.

If you will make a long abdominal binder of some elastic material for your child and wrap it around his abdomen, you will find it makes him more comfortable and will give him a feeling of something supporting him when he coughs. It will also lessen the danger of rupture and will lessen the vomiting spells and so help keep up his nourishment. After every vomiting spell a child should have a drink of warm, nourishing cream soup or milk. Don't forget this. The reason the disease lasts so long in some cases is because children get so run down in nourishment.

There is a bandage manufactured made of Sea Island cotton especially woven and especially made, which sells for about $1. If you will send a stamped addressed envelope we will give you the name of the manufacturer.

H. B.—Isn't it perfectly glorious that you have lost that hateful fifty pounds by following our course? It must give you a great deal of satisfaction to know you can outswim those young competitors and that some of your friends don't know you because you look so much younger.

The reduction of your blood pressure from 188 to 120, 68 points, is wonderful. From my experience I can state very positively that overweight individuals who are suffering from high blood pressure can be absolutely assured that the blood pressure will go down markedly with the reduction of weight. For those of you who are interested in blood pressure, we have an article you may have.

Mrs. E. S.—Moles are congenital. That is, one is born with them as a rule. The little moles on your child's face are growing because she is growing and they will stop growing when she stops growing.

They can be destroyed by electrolysis, radium, acids, freezing with liquid air and other methods. This should be done by a skin specialist if it is done at all.

Sometimes in the latter half of life certain types of moles may become cancerous and they should be watched. If they are in a position where they are irritated they should certainly be removed. I am glad to know that you have lost thirty pounds.

Reader—If you will apply to your City Health Department they will fumigate your house and rid it of vermin, or they will instruct you how to do it.

T. P. W.—Your asthma is undoubtedly increased and made worse by your smoking so much. There are different types of asthma and I shall have a paper on it soon. But until then will you remember that asthma is influenced very much by the diet. You acknowledge that you eat a very heavy meal at night and that you always suffer from asthma very much afterward. Why don't you rearrange your meals and eat a light meal at night? Overeating of certain elements and incorrect diet in other ways, markedly affects asthma of all types.

M. S. M.—There are so many cases of headaches that you may need a complete physical examination to determine the cause of yours. Meanwhile look well to your diet and general habits and correct any that you know are wrong. More on headaches later.

SOCIETY

BY VIRGINIA WOODS

To Marry Bay City Girl

Mrs. John Frederick Morse of San Francisco announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Alice Morse, to Joseph Brent Banning, Jr., of Los Angeles. Miss Morse's father was the late eminent surgeon, Dr. John Frederick Morse of San Francisco. The late Dr. Douglass Howell Morse of Johns Hopkins and John F. P. Morse of the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., who died in military service during the World War, were brothers of Miss Morse.

Mr. Banning is a graduate of Yale University. During the war he served as a lieutenant in the Navy and is now general agent of the Matson Navigation Company, in Los Angeles. He is the son of Mrs. Joseph Brent Banning and the late Joseph Brent Banning, vice-president of the Santa Catalina Island Company. Mrs. Francis Porter Graves (Katharine M. Banning) is a sister of Mr. Banning, Jr., and William P. Banning, a brother. Mr. Banning is the nephew of Capt. William Banning and Hancock Banning.

This marriage will unite two pioneer families, the Morses of Northern California and the Bannings of Southern California. The two grandfathers of Miss Morse, M. D. Howell and Dr. John F. Morse, Sr., came to California in 1849. Gen. Phipsea Banning, grandfather of Mr. Banning, was a pioneer of Southern California.

The wedding will take place in November.

Entertain at Country Home

The tea at which Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Thomas entertained yesterday afternoon in celebration of their thirtieth wedding anniversary was one of the most delightful functions of the season. It was a large affair and was given at "Cuddle Denn," their country home near La Crescenta. The rooms were gay with great baskets filled with golden dahlias and chrysanthemums sent by friends. A bevy of matrons and young girls assisted at the tea tables. One hundred and fifty prominent men and women attended.

Entertain at Beverly Hills

Mr. and Mrs. William Mead of the Beverly Hills Hotel entertained at a small dinner for eight. Variolored cosmos were in the center of the table. Plates were set for Mr. and Mrs. Roland P. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Burton E. Green, and Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Baker.

In New Home

Mrs. George A. Dobinson and Miss Mary Isabelle Alpaugh are now at home to their friends at 1291 Westchester Place, where they plan many unusual affairs of special interest to friends interested in art.

Entertaining at Country Club

Mrs. Roger Knorpp will entertain today with a music tea at the Los Angeles Country Club in honor of Mrs. Carl Stalling of Kansas City. Those to give the program are Mrs. Frank Compton, Mrs. S. E. Harvvot, Mrs. George Simmons, and Mrs. Ruth Bullard.

Moving to Country

Mrs. C. H. Chew and daughters Misses Anita Gordon Chew and Florence Chew have taken the Sharpe cottage at La Crescenta until the completion of their own country home in Highland Place, La Crescenta. Miss Florence Chew spent the past week with Miss Ruth Collison.

Leaving for Kansas City

Mrs. J. Wallace Rowntree is leaving today for Kansas City where she will spend a month visiting her brother, Dr. J. E. Ball.

Here from Texas

Mrs. Seth M. Morris of Galveston, Tex., is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. William R. Evans and her sister Mrs. L. E. Magnenat of 1349 Fuller avenue.

Return East

George T. Horton, who with Mrs. Horton and their small daughter, occupied a bungalow at the Beverly Hills Hotel since May, has returned to Chicago. Mrs. Horton and daughter will join him next month.

Here from Seattle

Mrs. C. E. Hall of Seattle has been the guest of Mrs. James Stuart of 236 North Belemont avenue, who gave a delightful appointed dinner in her honor, having a company of twenty.

Mrs. Frank D. Owen gave a luncheon in her honor and others entertaining for her already are Mrs. Theodore Newbert and Mrs. William Gray.

To Be Married this Evening

A marriage of much interest to a wide circle of friends is that of Miss Dellvera Funk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Oslin Funk of 434 South Windsor Boulevard, to Jay Bryon Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Friend W. Cole of this city, which is to take place this evening at the palatial home of the bride-elect's parents. One hundred and fifty guests will witness the ceremony. The beautiful vestibule and spacious rooms are transformed in a bower of autumn flowers. The bride will go to the altar with her father and will wear a Paris creation of white crepe de chine beaded in pearls. Her veil will form the train and her bouquet will be of orchids and lilies of the valley. The engagement was announced last month at a large bridge tea given by Mrs. Funk and since then many social courtesies have been given in honor of the couple.

Return from Mexico

Mr. and Mrs. Colcock Jones have returned from a delightful trip to Mexico where they went in August. Mrs. Jones was all that time in Mexico City where she was feted extensively by American and English society folk. Mr. Jones traveled through Mexico looking over large mining interests, he being one of the best known mining engineers of the Pacific Coast.

Returning from Abroad

Miss May Ridgway, who has been having a wonderful trip abroad, is now on her way home but is in Italy for a visit before she sails. She has been traveling through Japan, China, Ceylon, Singapore, India, Egypt, England and France.

At St. Stephen's Church

Miss Mary Anne Bennett, daughter of Mrs. Bessie Bennett and Louis C. Ganzel, Jr., of New York City were married at noon yesterday at St. Stephen's Church. Rev. Philip A. Easley performed the ceremony. The couple will spend their honeymoon in San Francisco and Del Monte and will then go to New York for a two months' visit with his relatives. Upon their return here they will reside at the Garden Court apartments in Hollywood. Many affairs are being arranged in their honor, among them being a luncheon at which Mrs. W. V. Pomeroy is to entertain.

PIONEER PASSES ON

Pasadena Citizen Dies After Long Residence There

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Oct. 11.—Thomas M. Livingston, a resident here for thirty-seven years, died yesterday at his home, 1230 New York avenue. He was 61 years of age. Mr. Livingston was a native of Nashville, Tenn. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Susie W. Livingston. Though never engaged in business here or taking a prominent part in civic affairs, Mr. Livingston was well known to all the older residents of the city. His funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at his late home, with the Rev. Dr. Leslie E. Learned of All Saints' Episcopal Church officiating, and burial will be in Mountain View Cemetery.

THE NEW

IN STORES AND HOMES

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS

By Olive Gray

Dress Don'ts:

If your face is wide, cheeks full and ears inclined to stand out, don't adopt a coiffure puffed out at each side, as this accentuates breadth of features. If, on the other hand, your face is of the long, thin type, don't pile the hair high on top of the head, lest the undue length of visage be emphasized. If your neck is long and somewhat thin, don't draw the hair away from the nape. Allow curling locks to veil the scrawniness, no matter what fashion may say regarding hair. But, if your neck is short, too plump, compel the hair to grow as well away from it as possible. Training will do much in this regard.

Your Store Home

You may be acquiring a bungalow on the installment plan, you may own a mansion paid for in full cash, or may be struggling with the unfurnished-furnished apartment of the newly arrived, but have you settled upon that home obtainable without money and without price? I refer to your store home. Everyone who buys anything at all, should own a store home. Shop 'round, if you must for awhile, until you find that store especially suited to you, the one which seems to you homelike; then stick to that store. It is a real luxury to do your shopping at a place where you are known. It adds to your self-respect to have the salespeople greet you by name, offer you the things which accord with your personality. It does away with much bother when these people will inform you of special bargain offerings and knowing that you are a member of the purchasing family, tender you no malapropos merchandise. They know what you want, know you will buy it from them if possible and, just as any person takes a different interest in members of the family circle, they make particular efforts to please you. Not only is there convenience in establishing such a home, but there is safety, assurance of protection. Happ-hazard buying, here, there and everywhere, gains no friendship, elicits no interest in your affairs; but a store of standing, is building a future for itself, and of course, you and other yous, must form a part of that successful future. Considering all this and the fact that many watchful eyes in your store home are on the alert for your interests, does it not seem certain that it will pay, in actual dollars and cents, as well as in comfort and ease of mind, to select for yourself a store home?

Brush Up!

The crowd gathered around the spot on the sidewalk was not admiring a basket of puppies, as is usually the case. It was sometime before I could get near enough to see. Many of the interested ones were women. What I saw, finally, was a whirling brush and people taking turns, having their shoes dusted. I had seen these new contrivances pictured in papers; but this one, attached to the front of a shoe rehealing shop, is the first in town, I believe.

It Beats All!

It "beats all" is a common expression; but this beats only one and that is its outstanding feature. Aunt Jane says she has been waiting for it all these years and yet never realized the fact until she saw it. That little one-egg beater! You know how the usual big egg-beater absorbs the whole contents of the bowl, yolk and white, before you get a chance to beat it. Well, here comes this unselfish little beater and just whips up a single egg as comfortably as though it were a dozen. The base is flat, too, instead of rounding and when you use it, you wonder why some one did not, long ago, think to make egg beaters thus.

Better Homes Week

In the interest of better homes, all America is celebrating the present week. Celebrating by presenting new and improved features for household decoration and for minimizing household labor. One house has a window fitted as a kitchen, furnished with the latest appliances, may be. The whiteness and hospitalic cleanliness of everything make the first appeal to the eye; then the mind grasps the fact that each article presented means something in the way of work saving, and facility in accomplishing better results. There are many so-wantable articles that the true home-maker is certain to repair forthwith to the household department to buy. For instance, that set of aluminum spice-boxes, on their neat shelf; the hanger filled with wooden spoons of various sizes and shapes; and—oh many things.

New Fur Fad

Paris has brought out a new fad, in the creation of luxurious wraps. It is to line the garment throughout with four—preferably that flat chinchilla—and to bring the fur out on top in the form of a broad, high, muffle collar and upon sleeves, as cuffs. Chinchilla has become so very popular, by reason of scarcity, that it is being deftly imitated.

On World's Fashion Pennant

Black velvet is having amazing vogue, especially in evening gowns. Many of these creations are entirely black, except for the shoulder straps of brilliants.

For utility wear is a full-length coat of a smooth-feeling check of rough effect with large square pockets of the check and collar and cuffs of Tasmanian opossum.

Three-piece plaid sports suits are coming in. The blouse is usually long in type, with a loose tie belt. The coat flares slightly, and the hat is faced with the plaid.

Caramel color in velvet hats is prominent. Turned-up shapes use this velvet as facing, and caramel-colored and brown ostrich quills are laid across the front.

For street wear the three-piece costume predominates. It consists of a dress and a jacket, which may be either short or long, belted or loose, but will undoubtedly be trimmed with fur.

Silver lace and a heavily corded silk in pale rose combine to make a beautiful theater gown. A long, slightly fitted bodice and a huge bertha of the lace are the chief characteristics.

New skirts for fall and winter wear are of homespun weaves. These materials are very loosely woven in stripes and plaids. Woolens in gray, tan or white backgrounds have overplaids of gay colors.

The three-piece costume suit is one of the leading notes among fall displays. A good example is a velvet frock, sleeveless and slightly draped. With it is worn a close-fitting jacquette, embroidered all over in red beads.

The coatee, which made a popular start and is still very much worn, is being varied with trimming. Fur and cire ribbon have been enlisted as the newest touches. Even the revers of one smart coatee are made entirely of the cire ribbon.

a home is better because of charm rather than elegance—pleasing, artistic effects that satisfy the beholders' sense of fitness and proportion are not always the result of large expenditures—it is to provide such effects that we maintain a staff of men and women especially trained in producing them.

Our patrons often remark that their money seems to go further here—the reason lies in our ability to plan with you and for you—to carefully select, direct from the world's greatest factories, merchandise that is newest and best value—to sell it under our low overhead expense at lowest possible prices, building a business unlimited in scope and including among its achievements the furnishing of many fine homes in all sections of Southern California.

Many New Wilton Rugs

Our rug assortment offers unusually good choosing at this time in fine Wilton rugs in extra large sizes as well as the usual room sizes.

In addition to the small Wilton rugs and the regular 8.3x10.6 and 9x12-ft. room size, we carry a line of extra sizes such as 9x15, 9x18, 10.6x12, 10.6x13.6, 11.3x13.6, 11.3x15, 11.3x18. See our patterns and get our prices.

MAY DEPORT MEXICAN RED

Enrique Flores Magon Put on Trial Here

Charged With Distributing Seditious Works

Immigration Men to Rule on Anarchist's Case

Enrique Magon, notorious anarchist, probably will be ordered deported to Mexico at an Immigration Department hearing here today. He, with his brother Ricardo, now in the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, formed the faction of Magonistas that has troubled Mexican and American officials for nearly twenty years.

Enrique was released from the penitentiary in 1920 after serving three years for revolutionary activities in which his brother and several others were involved.

The arrest was made known yesterday with the announcement that the Mexican's examination would be continued today before Chief Inspector Burnett and Inspector Sweet of the United States Immigration Service.

WAS ACTIVE HERE?

Enrique Flores Magon specifically is charged with having distributed revolutionary literature at a meeting in October, last, at what is known as Italian Hall in Macy street. The documents in question were copies of his journal, La Regeneracion, which he has published off and on for several years. Both of the Flores Magons made their home here for several years.

It is understood that the witnesses against Enrique are policemen that attended the radical meeting and saw the distribution of the seditious papers among foreigners assembled there. It is also said that Enrique does not deny having distributed the copies of his journal, but insists that in so doing he did not violate the law.

Enrique and Ricardo Flores Magon first made trouble in Mexico under the Diaz administration, and several times were imprisoned and expelled. Their social-revolutionary activities date from 1903. Soon after that they were driven from Mexico. Then in the Madero revolution, and later in the Orozco uprising, they appeared in Mexico at the head of the ultra-radical faction called Magonistas. The faction was considered anarchistic. Several Mexican Socialists aligned with Madero did not join it.

EMBLEM RED FLAG

The Magonistas used the red flag as their emblem, and at various periods in the Madero and Orozco revolutions they were credited with outrages along the border. However, the Flores Magons never held political prestige with either President Madero or Gen. Orozco, and since the downfall of the latter they or their followers have not appeared in Mexican politics.

Since then the brothers made their residence here, Enrique spreading radical propaganda, through La Regeneracion, and Ricardo as an orator. When this country declared war on Germany, the brothers were in the van of the disloyal leaders. They and two associates, Anselmo Figueroa and Librado Rivera, were arrested here and convicted of circulating seditious literature. They were all sent to McNeil Island, where Figueroa died.

The Flores Magon brothers served their time, but on being released were rearrested on a similar charge. Judge Wellborn officiated at the first trial and Judge Trippet at the second. For the second offense Enrique got a short term and thus was released in October, 1930. Ricardo and Rivera were transferred to Leavenworth.

The first trial of the anarchists caused sensational scenes at the Federal Building here. Lucille Norman, stepdaughter of Ricardo, made a savage attack on the police who were taking the brothers to the County Jail, and radicals, both Mexicans and European immigrants, were loud in their support of the prisoners throughout the prosecution.

Enrique Flores Magon has grown gray since his last appearance in local courts, and his mild manner is contrasted with his one-time bluster.

Model Depicts Traffic Relief at Crossings

In order to provide for the separation of heavily-traveled thoroughfares so as to prevent traffic tie-ups such as recently took place at Sunset and Wilshire Boulevards, where automobiles from the beaches were delayed for many hours, City Engineer Griffin has submitted to the Board of Public Works a unique clay model made by him, showing how streets can be separated by the creation of a bridge-like arrangement, which will permit the continuous flow of traffic at all times and the making of left-hand turns without the interference of any one traffic line with another.

The City Engineer has recommended that this plan be given a trial at the crossing of Los Feliz Boulevard at Riverside Drive at the entrance to Griffith Park, which is greatly congested, especially on Sundays.

PERMIT TO PROSPECT FOR OIL IS GRANTED

One hundred and sixty acres of land in what is known as the Midway oil district, Kern county, is involved in an affirmation of a decision given some time ago by Registrar Valentine and Receiver Smith of the local land office, in favor of R. L. Sheehan, by the General Land Office at Washington, received yesterday.

Sheehan wanted a permit to prospect for oil under an old placer mining claim of R. E. Graham and C. E. Hailstone and associates, including the R. T. Oil Company. The local officials decided in favor of Sheehan, and this view of the case has been confirmed.

CASHIER COLLAPSES

Henry Kochub, cashier in the City Engineer's office, collapsed at his desk at the City Hall yesterday and fell, his head striking the floor. He was removed to the Receiving Hospital, where it was said that he may have received a fracture of the skull.

COLE SPEAKS OF LINCOLN

kala-Sa, the Sioux Indian woman, a college and Boston Conservatory of Music graduate, who, appearing unexpectedly, had time for only a few sentences, but these were trenchant and compelling.

She spoke of her gratitude to the women for their aid to her people and concluded: "I love your spirit. I love your sense of justice."

WAR EXPERIENCES TOLD

Dr. Helen Woodruff, one of the six women doctors first to be sent to France and to the front during the war, narrated her experiences in the war zone, telling of the first dispensary established in Paris, where she had full charge, and of the months at the front in the midst of falling shell.

Mrs. Grantland Beton Long, president of the club, presided and introduced the speakers. She said of these guest luncheons, which are a feature of the club's activities, "It is our purpose to make Ebell an arena of expression." In introducing Miss Adams she said: "It is perhaps a strange thing to introduce a note of tragedy into a social affair of this kind, but altruism I sometimes think is only a divine selfishness and we must have sympathy with those in distress." She urged the women to rally to the cause of the California Indian and to remedy the old treatment, which she called a "ghastly tragedy."

Drama League

Miss Elspeth MacNeil will read "The Jest," by Bellini, tonight at the initial meeting for the season of the Drama League at 8 p.m., at the Chateau, corner Lucas and Shatto streets. Miss MacNeil will be remembered for her delightful program before the study section last spring. The meeting will be preceded by a dinner, at 6:30 by such members and friends as desire to come early. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Farwell will be guests of honor. Mrs. Herbert Peery, president of the league, announces the following committee chairmen: play-reading, Dr. Altesin Gaw; play-writing, Prof. Anthony F. Banks; program, Miss Elspeth MacNeil and Miss Helen Hardison; bulletin, Miss Myrtle Graves; publicity, Miss Marjorie Day and Mrs. S. T. Cleve; membership, Miss Evaline Dowling; finance, Mr. F. J. Hickson; hospitality, Mrs. W. W. Burton; educational, Miss Sarah Shoniger, and play-going, Miss Margaret Goetz and Mrs. W. T. Wyatt.

Drama League members are interested in the Los Angeles Municipal Theater recently established at the former Men's Club on Main street under the direction of Ellen Galpin.

Woman's Auxiliary

The fourteenth anniversary of the founding of the Caledonia Club will be celebrated tomorrow afternoon by the woman's auxiliary at the clubrooms. There will be a musical program. Presiding at the tea urns will be Mrs. W. M. Brodie, assisted by six of the members. Mrs. Robert Taylor will cut the birthday cake.

Beverly Hills Woman's Club

Miss Lila Van Kirk will speak before the Beverly Hills Woman's Club this afternoon at 2:30, on "A Walk Through the Streets of Florence."

Unity Club Dance

The Unity Club will give a dancing party tomorrow evening at 8:30 at 926 South Flower street.

EX-ANGELENO DEAD

Word Received of Demise of Prominent Oil Man

Louis A. Crandall, for twenty years a resident of Los Angeles, died Friday, the 6th inst., at 1081 Mariposa avenue, Berkeley.

Mr. Crandall was born in Ohio and was 65 years of age. For thirty years he has been a Californian, identified with the oil industry. Word of his death has just been received by friends and relatives in this city.

Mr. Crandall leaves a widow, two daughters, a son and two sisters, Miss Jessie M. Crandall and Mrs. Grace Newcomb of Los Angeles. Paul and Robert Carter, nephews, and Annetta Carter and Grace Newcomb, nieces, all of Southern California, also mourn Mr. Crandall.

DAUGHTERS TO MEET

Clara Barton Tent, No. 14, Daughters of Veterans, will meet tomorrow at 2 o'clock at 1605½ South Main street.

RICHARDSON FETED AT REDLANDS

Republican Nominee for Governor Honored by Two Hundred Citizens

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, Oct. 11.—Friend William Richardson, Republican nominee for Governor of California, was honored in Redlands tonight when 200 men and women of this city gathered at a dinner given for him. The affair was arranged by Paul W. Moore, president of the Southern California Editorial Association who presided at the dinner.

A number of five-minute addresses were given by representative citizens of Redlands, including Assemblyman J. J. Prendergast, Senator Lyman M. King, Dr. M. J. Sweeney, C. J. Tripp, Mrs. Jennie E. Davis, Mayor C. H. Smith of Yucaipa, C. P. Earley, Frank Z. Miller and J. B. Gill of San Bernardino.

An event of the dinner was the introduction of S. S. Waldo of this city, who was a member of the first convention to nominate Abraham Lincoln for President.

Mr. Richardson spoke briefly, outlining the measures of economy by which he expects to put the State on a more business-like basis. He said that California is destined to become one of the greatest States of the Union by reason of geographical location, the wealth of her soil and the ability of her people and that now is the time when the foundation of financial strength and economy of administration must be laid on which her future can be securely builded.

STREET TO DISLOCATE BEDROOMS

Houses on Hill Must be Moved or Sliced; Council Committee in Dilemma

The City Councilmen on the Finance Committee met yesterday and scratched their heads for twenty-five minutes over the puzzle created by condemnation of property so that Hill street can be opened and widened between West Washington street and Santa Barbara avenue. The city has come into possession of seventy complete houses, which will be sold at auction. But the city learns that it also owns fractions of some thirty other houses, in some cases four feet and in others six of the front rooms. President Criswell suggested that city carpenters start to saw off the pound of flesh that the city owns, and then the owners of the rest of these houses would be glad to pay any price so that the buildings could be moved back off the city land. But in event that the owners would say, "Go ahead and saw" a solution of the problem is not so clear.

One suggestion is that these slices of houses could be stuck together, two by two, and thus form attractive Boyle Heights bungalows. As it is the city owns four feet of the parlor and as much of daddy's bedroom in several of these happy homes and has a perfect right to put up on this terrain signs saying "City Property—Keep Off." Of course, the city fathers declare, no such thing will be done. But the city wants it known that it could be done perfectly legally.

Another difficulty arises in that the occupants of these houses are using city property without paying any rent. Where the city owns four feet of a five-room house almost one-fourth of the rent should be paid to the city, which as it is is getting nothing, except the satisfaction of owning these house remnants.

Flaherty Trial Drags Out and Burch May Not Face Jurors on Schedule

How Mrs. Annette Flaherty, though a customer of the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank, went to another banking house to rent a safety-deposit box, was told yesterday on the witness stand in Judge Shenk's court, where she is on trial charged with receiving the $89,500 stolen by William H. McFee, aged bank guard. It is the contention of Dep. Dist.-Attys. Turney and McCartney, prosecuting, that this was the box used to conceal the money.

V. H. Rossetti, vice-president of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank, where McFee was employed to guard the safety-deposit vaults, testified that approximately $30,000 of the bank's funds are still missing.

The confession of McFee, when confronted in Rossetti's office, was testified to by the banker. McFee is now under sentence of ten years in San Quentin. He refused to testify against Mrs. Flaherty when placed on the stand Monday and was fined $500 for contempt. An attempt to introduce in evidence the transcript as taken during the preliminary hearing met with a rebuff when Judge Shenk declared it not admissible.

Because of today being a holiday the case was put over until Friday. There is a possibility that the Burch trial again will be postponed, as it is probable the Flaherty case will continue into next week.

ATTORNEYS MEET TO CONSTRUCT CAMPAIGN

An executive session of members of the local bar to consider their present campaign on Proposition No. 24 on the November ballot, will be held at 10 a.m. today in Department 10 of the Superior Court. The meeting will be addressed by Federal Judge Bledsoe and Milton K. Young. The attorneys are campaigning in favor of the measure prohibiting the illegal practice of law in California.

PROBLEM IN COURT CASE IS NEW ONE

"Can Man and Woman Love too Much at Time of Marriage?" Wife Asked

Mrs. Ethel A. Warburton raises a question in her swan note to her husband, Dr. Otis C. Warburton of this city, a former physician of Rochester, N. Y. The note was introduced as evidence in Dr. Warburton's suit for divorce, tried and granted yesterday by Judge Summerfield on the ground of desertion.

The question is whether a maid and a man can love each other too much at the time of their marriage.

Dr. Warburton married in 1913. Subsequently he left Rochester on account of his health and came to Los Angeles. She was to follow him, but did not come. He recovered his health and she was inclined to think she was relieved of the obligation to join him on this account. He wrote her, but she refused to leave the East. In one letter she said: "I won't come back. It must be so."

In a longer note she said, in part: "Maybe it is a great deal better that we don't see each other—it may make it easier for both. You and I both know we were, maybe, too much in love when we married—that is why it is so hard for me now. But, Otis, we must both be brave and try not to think of our past any more than we can help, only be—as I am—glad we were happy together.

She tells him to try to be content in the West.

WIDENING SECOND STREET PLANNED

The City Council yesterday adopted the ordinance of intention for the opening and widening of West Second street, from Figueroa street to Glendale Boulevard. This will be a great traffic artery when the Second-street tunnel is completed. The ordinance was adopted so as to start the proceedings in order that the improved street will be ready for increased traffic when the tunnel is completed next spring, and also to prevent the building of new structures in the path of the street improvements.

PASSAGE OF WATER BOND ISSUE URGED

Increase in Demands for Service Enormous, Says Board Member

Pointing out the urgent necessity of the authorization by the people of the proposed $5,000,000 city water bond issue at the November election, Lester L. Robinson, member of the Board of Public Service Commissioners, yesterday drew attention to the fact that general municipal water bonds have not been issued by the city since 1913. The proposed water bond issue will appear on the November election ballots as proposition 19-A.

Indicating the tremendous demands for increased service that have been made upon the Bureau of Water Works and Supply since the last program of extension and improvements were carried out by a bond issue in 1913, Mr. Robinson quoted these figures:

"In 1913, when the city voted its last municipal water bond issue, amounting to $1,500,000, Los Angeles had a population, based on water services, of 407,000. There were 90,467 water services in operation at that time. At the present time the city has a population of more than 740,000, based on water services, and has more than 154,000 water services in operation.

"These figures disclose that since the issuance of the last municipal water bonds, the city has increased in population more than 333,000 and that the water bureau has increased its number of services to consumers, by more than 63,000."

Mr. Robinson pointed out that the Bureau of Water Works and Supply has been expending more than $1,000,000 each year out of revenues, for many years, in the extension and improvement of the general water system, in order to meet the rapidly increasing demands for water throughout the city.

FOR INCREASED SALARY

The Hollywood Business Men's Club has unanimously indorsed city proposition No. 5A, which appears on the November ballot, and under which the salary of the City Attorney will be increased from $4000 to $7000 a year.

PLAN MASONIC CLUB

Long Beach Committee Now Working on Scheme

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Oct. 11.—A club for all members of the Masonic fraternity in Long Beach is contemplated, it was announced here today. The club will be patterned after the Masonic Club of Los Angeles, it was said.

A committee of sixteen members of Long Beach Commandery, No. 40, Knights Templar, is in charge and preliminary plans for the club and is at present investigating various locations. It is proposed to lease four and possibly five rooms in a downtown building for the club's quarters. The club will be equipped with billiard and pool tables, a library, lounging and smoking rooms, and other facilities.

CHAMBER TO MEET

The Fourth District Chamber of Commerce will meet tonight at the church on the boulevard, Moneta. An old-fashioned chicken dinner will be served, and Judge Harry F. Atwood will speak on the Constitution. The topic for discussion will be "Western Avenue, and Its Improvement."

BOYS' ESCAPADE ENDS IN DEATH

Runaway Youths Engage in Gun Practice

Lad Tells Officers Shooting Was Accidental

Tragedy Ends Aspirations to Become Range Riders

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, Oct. 11.—Breaking twenty-four hours, silence as to the whereabouts of his 14-year-old companion on a runaway trip, Eddie Bellon, schoolboy of 1311 Andrews street, this afternoon called up Probation Officer O. M. Akers and led an expedition to a culvert under the highway one and one-half miles from Selma where the dead body of Lawrence Benson of 1913 Prince avenue was found in a pool of blood.

Young Bellon told Akers and Sheriff W. F. Jones that he had accidentally shot his young companion at 10:30 yesterday morning in the culvert and then, frightened, returned to his home here. When he arrived here he had told Akers that the Benson boy was continuing the expedition alone.

GUN PRACTICE

They were practicing marksmanship, the boy declared, when the gun went off. They were snapping the guns at each other, he said. Benson snapped a gun pointed at him several times and nothing happened. Then young Bellon says he tried it with his own gun.

On Monday the two youths were being sought as runaways after they had played truant from school and disappeared, Akers reports. Bellon says they entered upon a runaway pact, setting out for General Grant National Park to visit an uncle and later to become cowboys. He disposed of his bicycle to finance the trip, securing $5. This morning his funds amounted to 13 cents.

HUNGRY, HOMESICK

Arming themselves with two old guns they set out. Tuesday night they slept in a vineyard near Fowler but early in the morning hunger and homesickness overcame young Benson. He didn't want to cintinue. At the ciuvert near Selma, they stopped to rest and talk over the boy's wish to return home. The cowboy desire was talked over and it was this that led to the marksmanship demonstration. They were showing each other how they would shoot when they became range riders, young Bellon says.

When the gun went off and he saw his companion dead, Bellon became frightened after spending a half-hour trying to bring his companion to, and returned home. He persisted that the youth had continued alone on the expedition.

This morning, however, he had a change of heart. He had been told by Akers that if he "thought" of anything else to tell it. Akers and James W. Gearhart, court reporter, rushed to the boy's home and were told the boy's startling story.

GUIDE TO OFFICERS

The boy then led the two officers with Corner John Lisle, sheriff Jones, Deputy Collier and Deputy District-Attorney J. C. Hammell to the ciuvert. Machines were passing along the road over the scene of the shooting all yesterday afternoon and this morning.

The body was found in a pool of dried blood. The sight of his former companion did not seem to affect the youth. But when the morgue wagon drove up and the body was loaded in, he broke down and wept.

WAS AN ACCIDENT

"I didn't mean to do it," he persisted between his sobs. "We shook hands before we left and promised not to quarrel."

The Bellon boy is in the custody of Probation Officer Akers.

The dead boy was the son of Arthur Benson, a mechanic employed at the county garage at the fair grounds. Young Bellon's father is dead and he lives with his stepfather, Angelo Barretta, a janitor at the Andrews street address.

State Inspector Looks Over Housing Conditions Offered in Ontario

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, Oct. 11.—That there has been material improvement in recent months in housing conditions in Ontario, particularly in the Latin quarter of the city, was the declaration this afternoon of Leo T. Mott of San Francisco. Mr. Mott is chief housing inspector for the State of California Commission of Immigration and Housing, and the report was made following a two-day inspection of conditions here, with Dr. S. P. S. Edwards, city health officer.

Mr. Mott expressed himself as highly gratified at the accomplishments of the Rotary Club and Mayor Willard D. Ball in the establishment of a model sanitary housing project for laboring people in the southeastern portion of the city, but indicated there is still room for improvement.

The inspector this afternoon discussed with City Service Manager O. S. Roen, a number of plans for improved housing conditions and will make some recommendations in writing to the City Council at its next regular meeting.

SAN DIEGO GUEST REPORTS ROBBERY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 11.—Theft of jewelry valued at $15,000, and cash amounting to about $25, was reported to the police today by Mrs. M. L. Fredericks, a guest at the Hotel Del Coronado. Three caddies at the Coronado Country Club are held in connection with the case.

Police officials declined to give the caddies' names, as they are looking for a fourth man, believed to be the one who actually carried out the purported robbery.

Mrs. Fredericks said she left her purse, containing the valuables under the seat of her car, while playing golf. It had disappeared when she returned. The police recovered a gold watch today in a pawn shop.

CLOSE CITY BRIDGE TO HEAVY TRAFFIC

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Oct. 11.—Linda Vista bridge across the Arroyo Seco, connecting the east and west portions of the city, is unsafe for heavy trucking and may have to be rebuilt, City Manager Koiner reported to the City Directors today. Truck traffic, he said, would have to be eliminated at least until extensive repairs are made.

The Linda Vista span is the oldest in the city. Closing it will mean that traffic will either have to go through Brookside Park, with heavy grades to be encountered on the west side, or across the Devils' Gate bridge, several miles north. The situation will be relieved, however, when the new automobile roads for the Stadium are built through the Arroyo.

SOUTH PASADENA TO SELL CITY BONDS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOUTH PASADENA, Oct. 11.—South Pasadena city bonds worth $140,000 will soon be open to the bids of the security companies. The City Council has passed an ordinance on its first reading which provides for the immediate issuance of the above amount.

The $140,000 covers $100,000 for the Arroyo Park site and $40,000 for South Pasadena's share of the Pasadena-Alhambra-South Pasadena tricity sewer project. Both of these propositions received an overwhelming affirmative vote at the last city election.

METHODISTS AT FRESNO

Southern California Conference Well Attended

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

FRESNO, Oct. 11.—With more than 400 Methodist ministers attending the Southern California annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church opened here tonight with an informal banquet. More ministers from Arizona, Nevada and California are expected to arrive tomorrow, when the business sessions open.

Bishop Leonard held a preliminary cabinet meeting this afternoon to consider the appointment of ministers for the year. Announcement of selections will not be made until the last day of the conference, it was stated.

Addresses were made at the gathering tonight by Bishop Leonard and Rev. Edward Laird Mills, editor of the Pacific Christian Advocate.

The following were received into the conference on trial at the cabinet meeting today: John Wesley Robinson, Zenas D. Bancroft, Edward H. Godell and Albert R. Freeman. They must serve two years on trial before being taken into the conference as ministers, according to the rules.

NOVELTY LUNCHEON

Ontario Business Men Raise Chicks For "Big Feed"

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, Oct. 11.—On the ability of members of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce as poultry raisers will depend in large measure the success or failure of a membership dinner announced today for October 24.

At the time of the inauguration of weekly noon forum luncheons in the chamber, each person attending wrote his name on a hen's egg, which was subsequently placed in an incubator and hatched. Each member was later presented with the baby chick which evolved from his particular egg, with instructions that he nourish it and raise it to fryer proportions. It is these chickens which are to furnish the principal item on the menu at the coming dinner and heads of the chamber are hoping that the members made good as poultry farmers.

President H. E. Swan of the chamber today named on a committee to arrange for the dinner event, M. H. Shattuck, Clayton K. Close, O. S. Roen, Arthur I. Peterson and C. E. Mead.

It was also voted today by the directors to resume the weekly forum luncheons of the chamber, and John B. Toomay was appointed chairman of the committee.

MONROVIA HOST TO KIWANIS CLUB

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MONROVIA, Oct. 11.—Five hundred Kiwanians of Southern California, representatives of every club in the southern part of the State, will be guests of the Monrovia Kiwanis Club tomorrow evening when the official program of receiving the club charter will be held at the big Santa Anita clubhouse, in Arcadia.

City Engineer H. S. Gierlich is in charge of the program. Leslie M. Henry of Pasadena, vice-president of the Kiwanis clubs of the world, is to be the principal speaker, while Frank Merriam of Long Beach, prominent Kiwanian and Speaker of the State Legislature, is slated for toastmaster. During the past few days Kiwanians have been touring Southern California to give personal invitations for the coming affair, which is planned to be one of the biggest in the Kiwanis calendar.

VISALIA ELKS TO GO AFTER PRIZE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VISALIA, Oct. 10.—Accompanied by many interested members and their wives, sixteen delegates of the local Elks' Lodge and their entire drill team of twenty-one are leaving tonight for Santa Monica, to attend the convention of the State association which opens October 12.

The Visalia drill team will compete in the contest to be staged Friday and have been working hard under direction of Fred H. Hover for some weeks.

BUY SCHOOL GROUND

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Oct. 11.—Pasadena elementary school district made another sizable land purchase today when it acquired twenty-three acres on Allen avenue, near Mountain street, in the northeast section of the city, for $60,000. The area, it is said, is ample for a junior high school as well as elementary schools and will probably be used eventually for that purpose. Additions to the grounds of the Longfellow school, North Wilson avenue, and the Emerson school, Lamanda Park, were also purchased, the cost being $12,500.

CHARGE SECOND CRIME

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 11.—Frank Hollingshead, held in the City Jail on a grand larceny charge in connection with the theft of an automobile last night, has been identified as the man who assaulted a 13-year-old girl in a room at Seventeenth and F streets yesterday, according to the police.

REPUBLICANS ENTHUSIASTIC

New Campaign Headquarters Opened at Angelus Hotel

Democratic Attempt to Sow Discord Scored

Shortridge Pays Fine Tribute to President Harding

Republican enthusiasm and loyalty reached a high pitch in Los Angeles last night with the formal opening in the Angelus Hotel of the campaign headquarters of the Los Angeles county and the State Republican Central Committees. Several hundred Republican men and women gathered to hear addresses by Senator Shortridge, Congressman Linberger, Assemblyman Frank F. Merriam and other nominees and party leaders.

Only a small portion of those who attended the Republican rally were able to crowd into the auditorium on the second floor of the hotel.

PARTY EFFORT URGED

Scouting all intimations of Republican party inharmony as Democratic propaganda, the various speakers pledged support to all Republican nominees in the present campaign and urged California Republicans to roll up huge majorities "all along the line."

Each nominee mentioned received his due share of applause and shouts of approval, but the storm of cheers that greeted a glowingly eloquent tribute to President Harding by Senator Shortridge was the outstanding feature of the evening.

Ralph Arnold, chairman of the Republican County Central Committee, opened the meeting with an address pledging the aid of himself and his fellow committeemen to all nominees alike and then introduced former Judge Robert M. Clarke, first vice-chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, who served as chairman.

DEMOCRATS SCORED

Miss Eleanor Miller of Pasadena, Republican nominee for the State Assembly in the Sixty-seventh district, was introduced and delivered a brief address pledging fealty to the Republican party and to the party's nominees. She was followed by Congressman Lineberger, who energetically criticised Democratic attempts to create dissension among the Republicans.

Assemblyman Merriam, who appeared in behalf of Friend Richardson, Republican nominee for Governor, said that Mr. Richardson is campaigning in behalf of the entire Republican ticket and, referring to the attempts of Hearst's San Francisco Examiner and other publications to cause party discord, said reports of Republican inharmony was a situation hoped for by the troublemakers, and that the efforts to cause a Republican split are being made not only for the present campaign, but in the hope of disrupting the Republican ranks for Democratic profit in the future.

His reference to the aims and purposes of Mr. Richardson in conducting his economy and efficiency campaign for Governor was warmly greeted. The gubernatorial nominee was cheered again and again as his name was mentioned from time to time by the various speakers.

In the absence of former Senator Frank P. Flint, who was scheduled to deliver an address in behalf of the candidacy of Senator Johnson, Mr. Clarke urged active work to assure Mr. Johnson a large majority, asserting that "a reduced majority will not only be a rebuke to Senator Johnson, but to the Republican party."

SHORTRIDGE IN HAPPY VEIN

Wit, humor and eloquence marked the address by Senator Shortridge, which was in large measure an account of Republican industry, Republican loyalty and Republican achievement in national affairs.

His tribute to President Harding as "that great, luminous-minded, high-hearted, noble leader and Christian gentleman," brought his hearers cheering to their feet. The Senator described the Democratic party as "a party of ill-omen and foreboding—a curious conglomeration of strange and mysterious elements; a remarkable thing in nature in that it is a mystifying survival of the unfittest."

He asserted that "the idea of Democratic success in California, which has more to thank the Republican party for than any other State in the union, is enough to make the angels laught:" he sketched the high points of national progress and development under the Harding administration and asserted the national Republican policies have placed the country on a sound basis.

Since the inauguration of President Harding, the Senator said, the Republican administration has reduced the national debt approximately $1,500,000,000 and at the same time introduced economy and efficiency into governmental affairs. Senator Shortridge was the guest of honor and chief speaker at a luncheon of young Republicans in the Union League Club yesterday at noon.

He will be the guest of honor at a luncheon given in the Alexandria banquet room today by the Lions' club, to which members of the Chamber of Commerce and Republican organizations have been invited.

Wife Screams When Husband is Convicted

When a jury in Judge Houser's court yesterday convicted Lester S. Harrell and Roy Gehres of highway robbery the courtroom was thrown into confusion by the screams of Mrs. Helen Gehres, wife of the second guilty man. The woman was stilled by court attaches, who carried her to an anteroom.

Harrell, Gehres and Ben Stagner were on trial for the robbery of Henry Russo and Sarah Frederico, who were held up while driving near Main and One Hundred and Eighth streets. A watch, a diamond pin and $28 were taken from Russo, and a ring from the girl. The bandits also drove off in Russo's car.

Several weeks later the trio was apprehended and identified by the victims. Gehres and Harrell were arrested while driving in a stolen automobile.

Stagner, though free of the robbery charge, is still being held to answer on two grand larceny counts.
